Turkey Appeals to Powers Endeavoring to Avert Further Hostilities.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Turks have evacuated Tripoli.

TRIPOLI, Oct. 1.—Fire was opened by the Italian fleet upon the forts yesterday morning. It ceased almost immediately, the Turkish troops evacuating Tripoli, with the object, as it appears, of preparing for resistance in the interior.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1.—An official announcement is made that the Turkish squadron returned from Beirut without loss.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports of minor engagements and unauthenticated rumors of more important actions still form the chief staple of the war news here. The cable between Tripoli and Malta is either broken or has been cut by the Italian blockading fleet, and no news has come out of that town since Sunday.

Confirmation of the reported bombardment remains lacking, and one dispatch suggests that gun practice by an Italian cruiser may have given rise to the reports of a bombardment which, as cabled yesterday, reached London.

Various naval skirmishes have occurred in which the Italians had no difficulty in disposing of the Turkish torpedo boats.

The main Turkish fleet, which the Italian squadron was supposed to be attempting to catch on its way from Beirut, has safely reached the Dardanelles, and is consequently out of danger, according to official reports from Constantinople.

Reports of an Italian landing are, however, without confirmation so far, and it is possible that no landing will take place until the expeditionary force under Gen. Ganeva arrives in full strength, off the coast.

OFFICIAL EUROPE DOUBTS EARLY BATTLE REPORTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Out of a maze of conflicting reports and rumors, it is utterly impossible to sift the grains of truth concerning the opening days of the Turko-Italian war. It appears doubtful whether there has been any actual occupation of Tripoli and it is practically certain that there has been Subcommittee Gathers in Milwaukee to Investigate Charge That Huge Sum of Money Was Corruptly Used to Win Seat—Strong Fight Will Be Made.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Oct. 1.—United States Senator Isaac Stephenson probably will take the witness stand tomorrow in his own defense against charges that the corrupt use of money contributed to his election on March 4, 1909.

Three members of the subcommittee of the Committee on Privileges and elections of the United States Senate are ready to begin the inquiry into the charges presented at Washington that much of the $107,793 which Senator Stephenson used in his primary campaign was illegally employed.

Senator W. B. Heyburn (Rep.) of Idaho, who will be chairman of the present investigation, said Senator Stephenson will be the first witness called. W. E. Black of Milwaukee and Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, former Congressmen, will act as his attorneys. No attorneys will represent the State or the committee.

Senator Stephenson will fight the charges, which he alleges are the result of political factionism. When Senator Stephenson was first elected to the Senate in 1907 to fill the unexpired term of John C. Spooner, it is alleged, the La Follette faction exacted a promise from him that he would not run for re-election. He declared he was not bound by any promise and accordingly was re-elected.

Other members of the committe who have arrived are Senators George Sutherland (Rep.) of Utah and Atlee Pomerene (Dem.) of Ohio.

Storm Follows Flood in Austin.

Estimates of Dead Vary from One Hundred and Fifty to Three Hundred.

Loss of Six Million Dollars by Fire and Water in Three Towns.

Inquiry to Fix Responsibility for Break of Paper Mill Reservoir Started.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUSTIN (Pa.) Oct. 1.—The curtain of night, which was rung down on the Austin flood scarcely before its victims all had been claimed and its surviving spectators fully realized how great a tragedy the elements of water and fire had enacted, was lifted by dawn today, revealing a ghastly scene of death and devastation.

Austin itself, yesterday a busy mill town of 2000 persons, is only a ghost of a town today. Torn to pieces by water and eaten by fire, the wet and charred remnants of its buildings, believed to hold the bodies of 300 or more persons, were strewn along the valley edge, piled in rows where the main street business section was, or swept in scattered masses down the ravine.

BARELY ESCAPED.

Spectators, many of whom barely escaped being victims of the disaster, and hundreds of persons from surrounding towns, looked down from the steep hills on Austin through a veil of fog this morning to see the wreckage of some 400 houses, a score of business blocks, three churches and several large lumber mills, and three miles farther down the river, at Costello, the ruins of more than fifty buildings.

The flood did not spend its force until it raced more than ten miles from the reservoir, Wharton, still farther on, suffered somewhat but is practically intact. The loss of life at Costello, where the residents had warning, is believed to be but three.

THE PROPERTY LOSS.

The property loss in the valley is estimated at upwards of $6,000,000. In Austin, out of the hundreds directly involved in the deluge, hardly a dozen survive. The furious flood let loose when the Bayless Pulp and Paper Company's dam crumbled yesterday afternoon, picked up a huge battery of heavy timbers in the mill yards at the foot of the dam and with these thousands of planks and logs, rammed its way with terrible havoc.

At the hospital today there were but six injured for the care of the small army of physicians and nurses who came into the devastated town all night and day. The medical supplies remained unused in the cars rushed here by the railroads.

The State constabulary arrived this afternoon and took charge of the situation. Immediately orders were issued to the railroads to bring no more sightseers to Austin and signs were placed on the chief roadways permitting none to pass but workmen. Hundreds of automobiles and carriages were turned back.

FIND FEW ALIVE.

During the night, searching parties with engine headlights, automobile lamps, pine torches and improvised lanterns of every sort, poked their way into every pile of wreckage that was accessible, seeking any who might be alive, but scarcely a living person was found.

Surrounded by death, men who at first had shuddered at the touch of a dead body, set about indifferently to search mangled forms for papers of indentification ere they had been long at work. One corpse among so many did not seem ghastly.

The immediate scene of the devastation of Austin covers an area three-tights of a mile wide, and one and three-quarters miles long. This comprised the business section and the valley residence portion.

Nearly a mile above stood the mammoth concrete dam of the Bayless Paper and Pulp Company, 800 feet long, fifty-two feet high, and thirty feet thick at the bottom, tapering to a thickness three feet at the top.

BACK OF THE DAM.

Back of this dam yesterday lay a reservoir of water a mile and a half long, and an average of thirty-five feet deep. Directly in front of the dam stood the plant of the Bayless company, with four main buildings.

Stacked high nearby were 700,000 cords of fifty-inch wood, and slabs and also a portion of the company's immense timber stock totaling, in the Austin Valley, 15,000,000 feet of hard wood, and 25,000,000 of hemlock. This was a five-year supply, practically the last large cut of the region. It was valued at $2,000,000.

A mill stream, Freeman Run, flowed through the town into Sinnemahoning Creek, leading to the Susquehanna River. The town proper was a smart little place of comfortable frame houses, and more substantial business buildings along the main street, which ran from side to side, across the ravine.

The principal business buildings in-DENVER (Col.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The defense in the case of Mrs. C. A. Patterson, held on the charge of shooting her husband recently in this city, is in possession of a bank book belonging to Patterson, which shows an entry of $1525 on January 18, 1909. All but $25 of this amount, Mrs. Patterson declared, represents the consideration for which she was sold into white slavery to Millionaire Strouss of Chicago.

She has also turned over to her attorney a letter written by her husband, which comments on her trip to Europe with Strouss, saying:

"You were to travel as Mrs. Patterson on that occasion."

She agreed to such stipulation, she says, under oath.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—E. E. Calvin, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific Railroad, spent today compiling a list of men at work and on strike in the territory under his jurisdiction, which reaches from Ashland, Or., to Sparks, Nev., and El Paso, Tex.

He gave out tonight his first set of figures on the situation, this being the only strike development on the Coast.

"Out of a total of 7453 men employed in shops, 4525, or 60 per cent., remained at work," says Mr. Calvin's statement. "The revised copys of the general shops of the system at Sacramento shows that 2005 men were in the service Friday, and that 1274 remained at work."

OFFICIAL FIGURES.

Defections in other places are given as follows:

City	Employees	Remaining
Los Angeles	1422	443
Tucson	190	86
San Francisco	543	230
Oakland	1066	522
Tracy	64	24

"A large number of men who went out yesterday having expressed a desire to return to work, master mechanics and foremen have been authorized to re-employ them under certain conditions. The general superintendent of motive power," the statement says, adding that a number of applications for work have been received and accepted.

"The figures given out vary greatly from the contention of union leaders, for the reason that the company's totals are based upon the total number of men of every description employed in the yards, while union leaders estimate are on the number of union men involved.

Thus, in San Francisco, where it is generally conceded that practically every man in the five shop craft unions involved is on strike, the company's figures still show 230 men at work, these being mainly painters, general workman and the like.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S TRAIN IS DELAYED BY FLOODS.

Track Sags Under It Near Verdon, Neb., but Extraordinary Care by the Carrier Officials Lands Him Safely in Omaha, but Behind Time — Chorus Girl Pleads in Vain for Traveling Cap of President.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Oct. 1.—President Taft arrived here tonight from Sedalia, Mo., eleven hours late, after a somewhat perilous trip over flood-damaged railroads.

The Taft train was caught in the center of a storm in Northeastern Kansas and Eastern Nebraska, during which it was estimated eight inches of water fell. Creeks were turned into torrents, rivers overflowed and railroad travel was impeded in all directions. Several small bridges were swept away and in the early forenoon a portion of the tracks over which the President traveled were covered with more than a foot of water.

The Taft special was held out at Rushville, Mo., for seven hours and there was a two hours' delay at Falls City waiting for the flood to subside. Section hands along the Missouri Pacific system were ordered out by the hundreds.

EVERY CARE TAKEN.

Every possible care was taken to insure the President's safety and before his train was sent over the dangerous stretches a pilot train, pulled by the heaviest engine on the system, had preceded it and a thorough test had been made of the emergency repairs. It was by far the most dangerous railroading situation the President has been in during any of his travels.

Mr. Taft did not seem to mind the inconvenience or the danger in the least, although expressing regret that the programme arranged for him in Omaha today had to be abandoned. The President stood on the rear platform of his car as the train crawled over the flooded tracks. At times the water was within an inch of the top of the rails.

General Manager DeBerduse of the Missouri Pacific system took personal charge of the President's train and brought it through to Omaha, the first train to get out of the flooded district tonight. Mr. Taft expressed his thanks for the care with which the train was handled.

TRACK SAGGED.

The heavy Presidential train caused the track near Verdon, Neb., to sag dangerously, but it got safely over and from there on it was easy traveling, although for several hours the train passed through a flooded country, farms being inundated to a depth of from three to four feet.

At Verdon, the President's train passed two other trains headed for the south, but held up by the storm. On one of these was a theatrical troupe which included about fifty chorus girls. As the President's train moved by the girls stuck their heads out of the windows and threw kisses at the chief executive, who waved a greeting in return. Several of the girls were on the ground and one, picking up her skirts, ran for some distance up the tracks, calling to the President to throw her his traveling cap as a souvenir.

Mr. Taft shook his head, but the girl kept up the quest until she stepped into a puddle of water and all but fell headlong into the muddy roadway.

Arriving here, the President was taken to the Omaha Club for dinner and spent the evening there. He will leave for Lincoln and Denver at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

MONARCHISTS ARE CAPTURED.

Plot Against Portuguese Republic Thwarted.

Three Hundred Prisoners Are Put on a Cruiser.

Building of the Catholic Association Fired.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Monday, Oct. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Daily Mail prints a dispatch from Oporto, under Sunday's date, stating that telegrams from northern towns declare that there have been several monarchist uprisings, the royalist flag being greeted with shouts of joy by thousands of peasants who came out at the sounds of the alarm. Troops are being hurried to the affected districts.

Oporto is tranquil today. Strong forces of troops are patrolling the streets. Precautions are being taken to prevent the smuggling of arms following the defeat of the Royalist plot to seize Oporto on Saturday, when over three hundred persons were taken prisoners.

The attempt began at 4 o'clock in the morning, when 200 men smuggled themselves into the grounds of a pleasure resort close to the barracks of the Sixth Infantry, which is believed to be staunch to the royalist cause.

A captain in that regiment, who alleged that he had been approached by the royalists to poison his commander, gave information to the Republican Carbonaire, a secret society. A large force of troops formed a cordon around the pleasure resort and began to fire at the royalists hidden in the grounds. Quick firing guns were placed in the roads leading to the grounds, and the monarchists were summoned to surrender.

Most of the royalists gave up without the slightest struggle. The prisoners include clergy, civilians and shopkeepers. The authorities are continuing the search for suspects and further arrests are being made. The prisoners are on their way to Lisbon in the cruisers Adamastor and San Gabriel.

Serious rioting occurred last night at the headquarters of the Catholic Association when the building was burned to the ground. As the flames shot out a mob shouted, "Death to the Jesuits." Cavalry suddenly came from a side street and charged the mob, while soldiers with fixed bayonets, stood at the end of the street, leaving a space through which people were allowed to pass. The mob demolished a bookseller's shop because the proprietor had exhibited a photograph of King Manuel with the words, "The good son shall return to his home."

"Sammy Garrity" Gets Out of Prison by Using the Conveniences of a Bath Tub.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twelve hours after he had regained his liberty late last night by breaking through an eighteen-inch concrete wall with the leg of a porcelain bathtub and a patent stopper from the tub, "Sammy Garrity," known all over the State as a notorious juvenile runaway, was captured at Pajaro this afternon and will be returned to this city tomorrow to be dealt with by the Juvenile Court for stealing a bicycle.

The boy escaped from a San Francisco home soon after the fire of 1906, when he was only 10 years old, and for four years wandered over the country. Last year he was returned to the home of a wealthy uncle in Detroit, and from there he was sent to his father in El Paso, Tex. When he found that he had a stepmother he ran away. He landed in jail here Friday after thetheft of the bicycle.

EXAMINES THE FORTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Aviator Frank Bryant, in a Curtiss biplane, today circled above the forts commanding the entrance to Golden Gate. Starting from the Presidio Bryant crossed the channel and, after sweeping close to the heavy coast defense guns at Fort Barry, recrossed and examined the fortifications at Forts Winfield Scott and Baker, alighting without difficulty near his starting point.

dent of the American Federation of Labor, stopped off in Denver yesterday on his way back to Washington, "to go to jail," he says, "because I expect Judge Wright of the Court of the District of Columbia, to put me there."

PORTLAND WAITS FOR CRISIS THIS MORNING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 1.—With the exception of the activity of pickets about the two local shops of the Harriman system, there is little to report on the strike situation in this part of the country today. The yards are thoroughly picketed, butso far no attempt has been made by the railroad officials to smuggle in strike-breakers. The pickets have been supplied with tents to shelter them from the rain and cold and a careful watch is being maintained, not only at the shops, but also at the switching yards and other railroad properties. No disturbance of any kind occured today.

All trains are moving on fairly good time. The delays have not been of any considerable consequence and railroad officials say that the time lost by several trains today can be attributed solely to the weather. The principal trains from the South and East arrived on schedule time.

The real test of the strength of the strike movement in this city will not be known until tomorrow morning when about 600 men, who left their work on Friday night, are due to report for duty. The local shops have been running on short time for several weeks, and of the 850 men employed in the local shops, only about 200 report for emergency work on Saturday, hence it will not be possible to estimate the strength of the strikers until tomorrow.

At union headquarters the statement is made with emphasis that the tie-up would be complete, with the exception of a small number of old men, less than thirty, it is said, who have been authorized to work so that they will not lose their credit and right of participation in the pension system in vogue on the Harriman lines.

Railroad officials, on the other hand, declare that not more than 65 per cent. of the men will refuse to return to work.

SANTA BARBARA AS MAIN REPAIR POINT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As a strategic move on the part of the Southern Pacific Company in fighting the strike of its machinests and car men, Santa Barbara is to be made the repair point on the Coast line.

A boarding-house for a large force of men is to be established in the freight yards, conveniently located with reference to the roundhouse and shops. As the first installment of this new factor in railroad activity, a big commissary car with a complete cooking outfit and Chinese cooks in charge, arrived from Los Angeles last night, and three more such cars are to reach here tonight.

Because of its isolation from the big industrial centers and its freedom from the prejudices that predominate in large cities where labor is strongly unionised and because the Southern Pacific has the nucleus here of shops and roundhouse and other facilities needed for a division point, the strike scenes may shift from Sacramento and Los Angeles and Bakersfield to this peaceful community.

Officials of the Southern Pacific asked local authorities as to their ability to handle any situation that might develop and received assurances that Santa Barbara would not tolerate riots or lawbreaking.

The strike situation here is not serious. There are about fifteen men employed by the company in the various department affected by the strike order. Of these eight or nine walked out yesterday. Some of them reluctantly, some of them with the carefree air of those who have no family responsibilities and would just as soon move as not.

SITUATION SIMMERING IN EASTERN CITIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Railroad officials and shopmen on the Harriman lines, who struck yesterday to enforce their demands for recognition of the newly organized shop federation, spent the day in preparation for the struggle, which will begin in earnest tomorrow. The walk-out, occurring before the Saturday half-holiday gave the railroads a full day and a half in which to make preparations to run the shops, and it was said that in many of the shops a practically full force of men would be at work. The men at the big Burnside shops here spent the day quietly gathering in little knots on the streets, and their cottages, discussing the outcome of the struggle.

Watchers near the shops say that more than one hundred strikebreakers were brought in on a special train. Provisions for keeping the men at the shops also were made. There was no sign of a demonstration, although a guard of policemen were constantly at the gates.

President Markham of the Illinois Central said nothing had been done by the railroad during the day.

"Saturday afternoon and Sunday is a holiday," he said, "but we expect the shops to open on time tomorrow."

Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president of the Harriman lines, spent most of the day, playing golf.

BOILER-MAKERS READY TO QUIT AT OMAHA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two coach loads of machinists passed through Omaha this afternoon on the Union Pacific, bound for Southern Pacific lines, where they will act as strikebreakers. The men were kept under close guard while at the station here. Boilermakers in Union Pacific main shops in Omaha, who failed to strike Saturday because orders had not reached them, today announce that they will strike the first thing Monday morning, their orders to do so having arrived today. A. L. Mohler, the new president of Union Pacific, arrived here this morning and will assume the duties of his new office Monday morning.

Change of Heart.

STRIKE MAY BE BRIEF OF LIFE.

RAILROAD SHOPMEN, NOW OUT, MAY RETURN.

Local Shops of System Not Embarrassed by Walkout, Which Is Expected to Be of Short Duration. Bosses' Misrepresentations no Longer Delude.

The 1300 striking shopmen in the Salt Lake and Southern Pacific shops in Los Angeles are coming to a realization of the extent they were taken in by misrepresentation and it is probable that many will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the management of the two companies to return to work. Desperate measures were resorted to by the labor leaders to whip the employees into line on the striking proposition. It was represented to them that the men in the other shop centers on the Harriman system were a unit on the strike proposition. The walkout was accomplished and its final analysis has developed that instead of a unanimous strike but 40 per cent. of the shopmen left the service of the Southern Pacific, and even a less percentage struck on the Salt Lake railroad.

"A very satisfactory condition of operation exists today," said H. V. Platt, general superintendent of the southern district of the Southern Pacific, last night. "All of the men who remained with the company at the time of the general walkout yesterday responded for duty on their regular shifts today. As a result of the failure of the complete walkout of our shopmen yesterday the forces generally on the night shifts responded in a decided percentage over the day shift.

"We have advice today that many of our old men in the principal points are personally, and on their own behalf, seeking re-employment, and with the situation generally undisturbed and traffic moving without interruption the fact that our old employees are seeking reinstatement is a further indication that probably the individual desires of the employees to leave the service—if left to their own volition—was not a unit.

"The settled policy of the management to protect loyal men who continued their service with the company has been placed on such a substantial basis that we are in possession of an adequate force to handle our business."

The final figures on the Southern Pacific walkout here confirms the statement made in The Times to the effect that of the 1422 men employed here, 1060 went out, leaving 462 men in the shops. An amusing feature of the situation developed yesterday when it was discovered that forty Chinese employed in the shops refused to leave the yards. It is certain that the railroad management had no desire to keep them there, and nothing has developed to show that they are in any danger of violence from the union men.

The situation on the Salt Lake Railroad indicates that the shops will be manned with a sufficient force today. R. E. Wells, general manager of the company, issued a notice last night to the effect that there would be no discrimination against former employees, who returned to work before Thursday morning. The notice follows:

October 1, 1911.

To all concerned:

Employees who do not report for duty on or before Thursday morning, October 5, will forfeit all their service rights and places filled; all who do return within the time specified above, will not be discriminated against in any manner.

It is the avowed intention of this company that anyone entering its service, whether an old employee or a new employee, will not forfeit his position in the future if competent.

[Signed] R. E. WELLS,
General Manager, Salt Lake.

RAILROADS GET MEN FOR OKLAND SHOP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Three passenger coaches containing 200 non-union men, shunted to Long Wharf, West Oakland, this evening, and between 7 and 8 p.m., were hauled back and run into the enclosed yards. Union pickets sent out a hurry call to striking employees, most of whom were at dinner, but before there could possibly be a response the cars were in the yards.

Two light engines left the yards late in the afternoon, and it was reported that they would return during the night with several hundred non-union men who are being held up the line, presumably at Sacramento.

Much bitter feeling exists among the striking shopmen as thus being outwitted by the company, and they are collecting, preparatory to making an attempt at heading off the other three cars containing strike breakers, reported to be on the way.

That the officials of the Southern Pacific Company are expecting a long strike was manifest today when a large force of carpenters was set to work changing the old carpenter and car shops in the West Oakland yards into a dormitory large enough to accommodate nearly 1000 men. One-half the building will be used as a kitchen and dining-room, while the other side will be used as sleeping quarters. The non-union men already on the ground have been making their lodgings in the Pullman cars.

None of the union men made their appearance about the yards, which were practically deserted, outside of a few engine crews and a Greek wiper.

The only actual attempt at any kind of engine work since Saturday morning was when Master Mechanic A. C. Hinkley donned a pair of overalls and with the assistance of three Greek wipers crawled into the boiler of a big mogul freight engine, and started to caulk several tubes which were reported as leaking. The men in the engine service greeted him with cheers on his reappearance from the dark smokebox, covered from head to foot with soot and oil.

ENGINEERS MAY YET BE INVOLVED IN STRIKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CENTRALIA (Ill.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One hundred and fifty machinists and helpers, all the remaining workmen in the Illinois Central shops here walked out this morning, after receiving official orders. A total of 400 men are now out here. Simultaneously with the walkout of machinists here, those in the Mounds Illinois shops, which belong to the Centralia Union, also walked out. The clerks in Centralia met and effected a union this afternoon and a strike is expected in this department at any moment. A dozen strike breakers started work in the roundhouse here late this afternoon. Three engineers off the road were made traveling engineers, and placed at work in the roundhouse according to reports, and trouble is now anticipated from the engineers' union.

STONE STRIKE-BREAKERS IN MISSISSIPPI TOWN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JACKSON (Miss.) Oct. 1.—A carload of strikebreakers on their way to New Orleans over the Illinois Central were stoned by a mob as they passed through McComb, Miss., this morning. Windows were broken and several of the men were injured by broken glass or by being hit with stones.

Colorado Doctor Convicted in Golden of Calling Her Names She Had Never Heard Before.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Found guilty of slandering his mother-in-law and her daughter, Miss Minnie Evans, Dr. James E. Thompson was fined $50 and costs in the County Court of Golden.

Mrs. Rachel Welch, who brought the suit, testified that on the afternoon of August 8 Dr. Thompson went to her home and after demanding her little girl, who had been taken away from his home because he would not support her, he flew into a rage and called them all sorts of names.

"I do not wish to repeat what he said to me," said the lady, "but never before have I been called such names, or even heard them."

Retired Chief to Prevent Boot Legging Among the Indians, Says They Undermined Him.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, Oct. 1.—William E. Johnson of this city, whose office as chief special officer of the office of Indian affairs became vacant today by his resignation, issued a public statement.

In his statement, Mr. Johnson names Assistant Indian Commissioner F. A. Abbott of Nebraska, and Assistant Secretary of the Interior Samuel Adams, formerly a Chicago lawyer.

"These two men," says the statement, "have done everything in their power to hamper, undermine and prevent the success of our efforts in catching reservation 'bootleggers.' I refused to be chloroformed, but these men finally got me so bottled up that I could do little except mark time and draw my salary. I saw no other way to maintain my self-respect except to resign."

Johnson left his statement behind him when he started East last night.

WIDOW IS ARRESTED.

Denver Woman Wanted in Pueblo on Charge of Giving Rat Poison for Husband's Headache.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Oct. 1.—Mrs. Marian C. Gilbert, charged with giving rat poison for her husband's headache, was arrested by the Denver police last night on request of the Pueblo officials. An information alleging murder has been filed against her there. Mrs. Gilbert had been living in this city several months.

Less than a year ago charges of causing her husband's death were made against Mrs. Gilbert by the Brotherhood of American Yeomen, which resisted payment of a $2000 insurance policy carried by Gilbert.

Hawaiian Promoter Foresees Era of Prosperity.

Panama Canal Will Foster Western Trade.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Extensive government work in Honolulu is making the Island of Oahu veritably the Gibraltar of the Pacific Ocean, according to H. P. Wood, secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, who was in Portland today en route to Vancouver, B. C., where he will embark for the islands.

"The nation that controls Hawaii," says Wood, "controls the Pacific Ocean, and the United States government has not been letting any opportunity escape for making more certain her position on the islands. Extensive fortifications equipped with the finest modern guns for coast defense are being installed, and Honolulu practically will soon be impregnable against attack from the sea.

"At Pearl Harbor the government is erecting dry docks that will be when completed the largest in any of the waters controlled by our nation."

Wood believes the opening of the Panama Canal will increase the trade between the islands and the cities of the Pacific Coast, rather than divert it through the canal to the Atlantic ports. The opening of the canal, he asserts, will vastly increase shipping facilities on the coast, while the producers in the Hawaiian group will send their goods to the nearest American markets.

MYRIADS OF FISH KILLED BY QUAKE

AVALANCHES AND GLACIERS SLIDE INTO VALLEYS.

New Town of Golden, in Alaska, Damaged by the Earth Tremor, Which Lasted Nearly a Minute. Mineral Creek Breaks Through Temporary Dam of Ice.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VALDEZ (Alaska) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Reports from Port Wells show that the earthquake which last week put the Alaska cable out of commission was much more severe to the westward than at Valdez. At the new town of Golden the shock was so severe it started numerous and immense landslides on the surrounding mountains. The inhabitants were so alarmed by the shake and the roar of accompanying avalanches that they took to their boats and spent the whole night afloat. One slide containing millions of tons of rock crashed down the mountainside to the beach, destroying part of Golden.

One peculiar effect of the quake was the killing of myriads of fish. At Golden the beach was lined the following morning with red snappers, and out near the entrance to the bay the water was literally covered with dead fish of all kinds. It is believed the quake was accompanied by some disturbance of the ocean bed in the vicinity of Port Wells.

Near Valdez in the Mineral Creek district several of the small mountain-top glaciers were thrown into the valley. One glacier shed sufficient ice to dam up Mineral Creek, backing the water up to great depth. When the water broke through, it swept the valley below from rim to rim. Fortunately there were no travelers on the trail that evening.

In town no damage was done, although the shock was severe and lasted forty seconds. The quake had a long, swinging motion entirely different from the short, snappy jerks to which the Valdez people are accustomed.

INDIAN CUPID JOLTED.

Ketchikan Youth Who Eloped With Maid From Alaska Forgot to Get Her Grandma's Consent.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cupid got a heavy jolt last night when a runaway marriage, which he had arranged between Minnie Waud, an Indian girl of Ketchikan, Alaska and Frank Peters, an Indian of the same city, was prevented. As the pair stepped from the steamship Northwestern, they were taken in custody by Ludwig Frank, Deputy United States Marshal. Peters had not won over the girl's grandmother before he arranged the elopement.

Minnie, who is "sweet 16," and therefore under age, declared her grandmother was so cruel to her she had decided to run away with Peters to Seattle, and get married. Peters swore her grandparent had been so cruel to her that he had brought her to this country to place her in an Indian school.

NEWPORT DANCES OFFEND.

Portland Police Can't Stand for the "Turkey Trot"—Arrest Master of Ceremonies and Patrons.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] C. A Carson, who conducts a "college of dancing" and gives Saturday night dances on the eighth floor of the Marquam building, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Griffith and Gill for violating the city ordinance, which prohibits the dancing of the "Grizzly Bear," "Turkey Trot," "Heads Together," "Walk Back dance," and others made famous by the Newport society set.

While the two patrolmen were getting the names of the management and some of the alleged violators of the ordinance, there was a hasty retreat on the part of the dancers and one girl climbed to the roof and made her way down a fire escape.

Roy C. Adams, C. J. Strickland, Ida Haymen and Georga Hoag, did not escape the patrolmen, and they were arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

FEARS FOR THE GRAPES.

Only a North Wind or Old Sol Himself Can Save the Crop—Damaged by Rain.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If the present rainy weather continues tomorrow vast damage will be done to the table grape crop in this section. Only a north wind or the sun can prevent it. Showers fell today at intervals and while the precipitation was not great, it was sufficient to cause grave forebodings.

Only about twenty per cent. of the grape crop has been harvested and not more than ten per cent. has gone to market. It was just approaching the height of the season. The market has been very weak from the start and there is likelihood of an immediate stiffening of prices.

The rain did little damage to hay, but hurt the bean crop down the river to some extent. The weather forecast for tomorrow is favorable.

RAIN IN SAN JOSE.

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A rainstorm which began this afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock and continued for an hour, did thousands of dollars worth of damage to grapes, beans and prunes in this valley.

"DYNAMITE," A MULE.

Beast Is Central Figure in Oregon Case in Which Victim of Kicks Wants Damages.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Dynamite," a mule, is the central figure in a complaint filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Attorneys Logan and Smith on behalf of Frank Castor. The Columbia Contract Company, averred to be owner of the mule, is defendant. The mule by several kicks with a freshly shod hoof is alleged to have ruined the plaintiff's earning ability and Castor sues for $20,000 damages.

"Dynamite" is accused of having broken into Castor's tent house and then to have broken through the floor. Castor alleges that being compassionate he worked until he had liberated the animal. Once outside, the mule glanced sideways at Castor and recognized in him one of the men who had held him bound with chains during the process of shoeing, a few days before. Then the mule kicked out, the complaint alleges, with the following results:

Kick No. 1, Castor's right arm smashed.

Kick No. 2, the plaintiff's right hand lacerated and permanently crippled.

Kick No. 3, four of Castor's ribs caved in.

Kicks two and 3 were delivered after the plantiff lost his senses, he avers.

FAVOR THE HIGHWAY.

Jackson County in Oregon Votes to Issue Bonds to Help Construct the Thoroughfare.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEDFORD (Or.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jackson county's link in the proposed Pacific highway was assured yesterday when with one of the largest votes ever cast in the history of the county and with the excitement throughout the county at white heat, a $1,500,000 bond issue for good roads was passed by a majority estimated at 2000.

Taking the Rogue River Valley from Ashland through Phoenix, Talent, Medford, Central Point, and Gold Hill, the majority in favor of the bonds in all these towns showed plainly that the sentiment in the district through which the proposed trunk line will pass was strongly for the bonds.

In the prospect of this bond issue Jackson county set a precedent in the State regarding good roads construction. It was the first election under a new law which permits counties to vote bonds for road improvements.

TRAIL OF LOST BOYS.

Followed for Sixteen Miles in Mt. Shasta Region, But the Lads Haven't Been Found.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SISSON (Cal.) Oct. 1.—Searchers for Harry Mapes, and Herbert Barr, two Sisson boys lost on Mt. Shasta, have picked up their trail and followed it for sixteen miles. It is now believed the boys are alive, but half crazed from exposure and want of food.

The trail was discovered at noon yesterday and followed all last night and today, until it came to an abrupt stop. The boys apparently are heading east.

LYMAN'S NURSE ESCAPES JAIL.

Los Angeles Promoter Fails to Get Out Again.

Sprained Ankle Greater Deterrent Than Iron.

Other Prisoners Also Flee Oregon Lock-up.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KLAMOTH FALLS (Or.) Oct. 1.—Several prisoners, including J. M. Thornet, nurse of Dr. Grant Lyman of Oakland, Cal., escaped from the County Jail here early this moring. The Sheriff is searching for them, but they are thought to have about seven hours start, and have not been recaptured. Lyman's sore ankle prevented his escape.

The prisoners climbed over the transom of the room in which they were locked and with some iron implement pried away bricks and cement over one of the barred windows in the corridor, making a hole large enough to crawl through.

Lyman, it is said, was able to climb over the transom, but the drop from the top of the jail window to the ground was so far that he feared to make further attempt.

There were about nineteen prisoners in the jail, but only five or six were taken into the scheme. The others slept undisturbed until this morning. It is not known definitely when the men succeeded in getting out, but it is believed the break was made about 3 a.m. The delivery was not discovered until 10 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff Barnes immediately instituted a search. The prisoners, however, have a start of at least six hours and their recapture is believed to be very uncertain.

HINTS OF REBELLION.

Governor of Wyoming Believes in Conservation, But Not in Tying Up Resources of the West.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Col.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In an address last evening before the public lands convention in this city, Gov. Carey of Wyoming declared that rebellion will come in that State if some relief is not granted to stockmen and the government persists in its present policy of tying up grazing lands. He said:

"The laws are right—their construction is wrong. Under that construction the development of Wyoming has come to a standstill. Our enormous resources are tied up completely. We must have relief or there will be rebellion. I believe in conservation, but not in tying up all the resources of this western country."

Accident.

RUNAWAY ELECTRIC CARS RESULT IN DEATH TO ONE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Herman Schramer, 23 years old, employed in the press room of the Post Intelligencer, was killed and nine others hurt when a carload of lumber broke loose from a Seattle electric freight train at 4:30 o'clock this morning near the top of Fauntleroy Hill, ran four blocks down a steep grade and crashed into a street car bearing early morning newspapers.

The runaway car smashed headlong into the up-coming passenger car at the turn of a sharp curve. Motorman C. H. Jenks, No. 146 Roy street, of the passenger car, jumped in time to save his life.

Every window in the street car was smashed, and the bundles of papers and passengers hurled in a heap. Driven by the tremendous impact of the runaway freight car, the two wrecked cars plunged together on down the track to the foot of the hill, Mary street and Twenty-eighth avenue Southwest, at the edge of Youngstown.

There is a sharp curve at this point and the passenger car was derailed, stopping both cars. Lumber from the loaded freight car was strewn a distance of three blocks along the right of way from the point where the cars met to Twenty-eighth avenue Southwest.

The accident was caused by the snapping of a drawhead on the second car of the freight train. This train consisted of the motor car, a carload of sewer pipe and the carload of lumber.

Schramer, who was suffering from numerous cuts and bruises and internal injuries, was sent to the Seattle General Hospital, but died shortly after reaching there.

EIGHT CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE.

Whole Family of Pennsylvania Farmer Lose Lives in Early-Morning Blaze—To Be Buried Together.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANA (Pa.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ashes of the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. William Dias of near Heshbon, this county, burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home early this morning, will be buried in one coffin tomorrow. The parents, who failed in their efforts to rescue the children, are almost prostrated with grief. The dead:

CARL DIAS, aged 13 years.
HARRY DIAS, aged 11 years.
ELNORA and LENORA DIAS, twins, aged 8 years.
ALBERT JOHNSTON DIAS, aged 7 years.
RALPH DIAS, aged 5 years.
FOSTER DIAS, aged 3 years.
RUTH DIAS, aged 3 months.

The Dias dwelling was a one-and-one-half-story frame house. The parents retired last night in a front upstairs room, with the youngest children, Ralph, Foster and Ruth, sleeping in a bed near their own. The older children slept in another room adjoining. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, Dias and his wife were wakened by smoke.

San Francisco Lawyer Will Recommend Tacoma High School Boy Who Saved His Daughter.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frances Hovey, the 10-year-old daughter of C. H. Hovey, a San Francisco attorney, was saved from drowning by Dexter Armstrong, a Tacoma High School student, at the Northern Pacific dock late yesterday afternoon.

The little girl had been walking with re father and a 6-year-old brother, when she fell into the bay. Armstrong stripped off his coat and dived in after her. He held the girl while longshoremen obtained a rope and drew both out.

"I am going to bring young Armstrong's name to the attention of the Carnegie Medal Commission," said Hovey after the rescue. "He certainly deserves consideration if anyone does."

CHINAMAN ENDS LIFE.

Sacramento Celestial Kills Himself With a Revolver and His Widow Is Grieved By Act

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch) One of the rare instances of the suicide of a Chinaman occured this afternoon, when Chung Chow Sing, a Chinese tailor, shot himself through the heart with a revolver. Despondency over heart disease, from which he had been suffering for a month, is believed to be the reason.

Contrary to the common belief that Chinese are indifferent to the death of their loved ones, Sing's wife showed extreme relief.

Coroner Gormley said: "Only two or three times in my long experience have I heard of the suicide of a Chinese." Such a case is very rare.

MRS. DOWIE GETS BUSY.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch. Clad in a white surplice and the cap and gown of a doctor of divinity, Mrs. Alexander Dowie, widow of the late leader of the Church of Zion, today made her first attempt to bring together her husband's former disciples. Seventy-five members of the original flock responded to Mrs. Dowie's appeal and met at Handel Hall. In the midst of her address of welcome, Mrs. Dowie broke down, and in a voice choked with sobs, pleaded for a continuation of the work begun by her husband. Mrs. Dowie's appearance was the first in public since the death of her husband nearly five years ago. She was enthusiastically received by members of her future tabernacle group and fealty to the faith of Dowie was pledged by her hearers. Meetings of the tabernacle will be held weekly and will virtually oppose the organization controlled by Willard Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City and the "Second Divine Apostle" of the Church of Zion. Mrs. Dowie said her son, Gladstone Dowie, is in close sympathy with her plans for re-establishment of the house of Dowie. She is an ordained minster of the Gospel and is remarkably broad in her views on orthodox religion.

ONE MAY DIE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Six persons were injured, one probably fatally, when an automobile turned turtle on Ocean boulevard this morning. Mrs. Robert Goldstein of this city suffered internal injuries and may die. The machine plunged into a sand bank while traveling at high speed and turned over, pinning the occupants beneath the car. The victims were unable to extricate themselves and remained beneath the machine until assistance reached them. In the automobile were Robert Goldstein and wife, Edwin C. Wood and wife of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Brewen of Berkeley.

The Mouth-Organ Industry.

Trossingen, in the Black Forest of Germany, is the center of the foreign harmonica industry, where most of the world's "mouth-organs" of the cheaper grade are made. One factory alone is said to employ several thousand hands; and the number of harmonicas turned out by all the factories there is enormous, amounting to almost a million annually, according to the Scientific American.

Although the United States imports a large number of the cheap German "mouth-organs," the finer grades are made in this country, and these are held to be equal in every way to the more expensive instruments made abroad. The Germans devote some attention to the manufacture of the more costly "mouth-organs," but their principal output is the cheaper grade.

Among the finer grades of harmonicas are the kind known as "concert," which come in sets of four to a dozen and sell for several dollars apiece. These are tuned in various keys. In one form they show six harmonicas of different keys grouped about a central stem. Many of the elaborate and expensive harmonicas are handsomely decorated with designs of gold and silver upon mahogany. The wood used in the cheaper grades is pine.

Goes Farther, Costs Less, than Soap

For general household cleaning, soap in powder form is more economical and efficient than in the bar. Gold Dust, one of the first powders—and still the best—can be used more economically than soap, because the quantity desired can be measured out and no more used. In using soap in the cake there is waste, more being used than is really needed; the rest of the cake is water-soaked, causing the soap to lose its goodness. Moreover, Gold Dust contains other ingredients, which soften the hardest water and allow the soap to do its work with little rubbing.

PREVENTION OF COAL MONOPOLY.

Sole Object of the Valuation of Virgin Fields.

Secretary of the Interior Answers Critics.

Interests of Present and Future Conserved.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Maintaining that the policy of the United States government with regard to the valuation of coal lands is not open to criticism and that it is designed to prevent monopolization and to encourage development, Walter L. Fisher, Secretary of the Interior, tonight made public his reply to protests against that policy submitted to him last June by Representative Frank Mondell of Wyoming.

"The prices now fixed," Secretary Fisher says, "are designed, not to create monopoly in the hands of present owners of coal lands, but to prevent monopoly by making it unprofitable to purchase large areas for indefinite holding.

"This is the constant aim of the department in prices which it puts upon the public coal lands—to make them low enough so as to encourage purchases for immediate development, yet sufficiently high to discourage purchases for long time holdings for speculation or for monopolization.

"Prices prohibiting development would be inimical to the present interests of the West; prices permitting purchases with a view to monopolization would be inimical to their future interests. The sole object, therefore, is so to value the lands as to permit development and to prohibit speculation."

Secretary Fisher suggests that a liberal but wisely protected leasing law might be found to promote development more vigorously than any system of outright purchase, such as has been the case in Australia and New Zealand and adopted by Canada in its Yukon Territory.

ARE WATCHING THE TAFT TRIP.

BRITAIN EVINCES GREAT INTEREST IN PILGRIMAGE.

Special Cables from the United States Are Keeping John Bull Posted With Particular Reference to Popular Enthusiasm for the Arbitration Treaties Pending.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Taft's tour of the Western States attracts more attention in London than ever was given to a domestic pilgrimage of any other American executive, not excepting Mr. Roosevelt. Special cables day by day describe his movements and summarize his utterances.

This special interest is due to the prominence of arbitration in his speeches. There is a real fear in England that he will drop the proposal unless the Senate "reactionaries" show a disposition to meet him in the compromise he has suggested.

As the Taft arbitration plan is considered by peace-lovers the only feasible method of checking the terrifying increase of armaments, the vital importance of its success is seen all the more clearly in the light of the new hostility toward the British that has flamed out in Germany.

John Bull probably does not worry much about extending Mr. Taft's principle beyond an agreement between London and Washington.

DYING GROCER.

ACCUSES HIS SON-IN-LAW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Armed posses are scouring the country between this city and San Jose tonight to apprehend Calvin Burlsen, suspected of having shot and probably fatally wounded his father-in-law, John Mau, a grocer, at his home last night. Mau accuses Burlsen. Two armed men concealed themselves in the residence while Mau and his wife were at the theater. When Mau entered the house he was fired upon twice, one bullet taking effect in the neck and another in the abdomen. The assailants robbed their victim of $150 and fled. Mrs. Mau escaped. Several months ago Mau had his son-in-law arrested on the charge of abandonment. He believes this prompted the assault and robbery.

CORPORATION LAWYER'S DEATH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Curtis H. Remy, corporation lawyer, died here today of a bullet wound inflicted while he was in his room in a downtown hotel. Remy said he shot himself while cleaning his revolver. Remy formerly served as attorney for the Big Four and the Chesapeake and Ohio railroads.

ILLINOIS SPECIAL SESSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) Oct. 1.—The special session of the Forty-seventh General Assembly of Illinois will reconvene Monday. But one subject of legislation, coop waterways, was named in the call. Gov. Deneen has been urged to enlarge the call to include initiative and referendum legislation and an appropriation for the Illinois public utility commission.

FLOOD IN AUSTIN.

cluded the brick structure occupied jointly by the Austin bank and the postoffice, the department store of A. R. Buck, the Goodyear Hotel, and the Commercial House, and numerous stores.

SWEPT OF ITS SETTING.

Five minutes after the dam burst the stage had been swept of its setting. Along the foothills were thrown shattered houses. At either end of Main street, brick buildings acted as buffers as the twenty-five-foot wall of water rushed townward, with its mass of debris.

The wrecking of the dam was as complete as it as sudden. Two immense sections from top to bottom a hundred and fifty feet wide, were thrown out bodily, like immense gates of a canal lock. The outward swing was more than fifty feet, and on either side the remaining structure began gradually to crumble away. Repairs last spring had consisted of a patch of cement fourteen feet square. One of the several sections, yesterday, began at that patch.

CAUSE OF THE BREAK.

The cause of the break is a matter which the District Attorney of the county will investigate. The Bayless dam was examined by experts more than a year ago and recommendations were made looking to its safety. The District Attorney has the names of experts who submitted the report and will summon them to testify at an inquest to begin this week. Relief work had not been systematically organized tonight, but it is hoped that by morning the chaotic condition will have been relieved somewhat.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning the first relief train arrived over the Pennsylvania Railroad, with four carloads of food and medical supplies from the State arsenal at Harrisburg.

At Sunbury, Pa., twenty-one men of Troop C of the State constabulary, all the available men at hand, were taken aboard and a delay of an hour was caused by the loading of the troop horses.

It was shown that there is need of a strong hand to guard the town. Pillagers had been at work during the night following the rumor that the vaults of the Austin Bank and the safes of several stores had been wrecked. The rumor was not true.

KEEP OUT PLUNDERERS.

The firemen and volunteers did effective work in keeping off would-be plunderers. In several cases the guardians had hand to hand conflicts with marauders.

The survivors of the flood had not recovered from the horror of the situation this morning and for hours none but strangers visited the ruins.

As the day progressed, small knots of survivors met and visited the ruined town.

Credit for the quick spreading of the alarm was given to Lena Binckley, a telephone operator. Upon receipt of a message from the Cliff House that the dam had broken she pushed the alarm button connecting with the fire department and engineer's office of the Goodyear lumber mill below the town.

The engineer tied his whistle down, and the fire bell in the town was sounded continuously. She then rushed to the street screaming the warning cry, "The dam has broken." Then the operator fled for her life toward the steep hillside of the north end of Main street. Turning toward the valley, she saw the great wall of water descending upon the town.

CLOUD OF SPRAY.

"From where I stood," she said today, "the wall of water seemed fifty feet high. Above it rose a great cloud of spray, houses were turning, spinning and bumping as they fell to pieces or were swept out of my sight. The noise was appalling.

"When I fled there were scores behind me, many of them children. They did not seem to appreciate their danger.

"Some turned into stores as if to make a purchase. While I was looking down upon them, helpless to give further warning, the cloud of mist that seemed to precede the flood hid them from view, and a moment later the green water buried the houses from my sight."

Chief of Police Baker took an informal census today and from his list calculated that at least 300 were unaccounted for. Bark Smiebert, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, and Burgess Michael Murrin pointed out that this reckoning necessarily is inaccurate because many of those who escaped the flood are wandering about trying to house themselves and those dependent upon them.

ESTIMATE OF DEAD.

Burgess Murrin said that in his opinion not more than 150 lives were lost.

"It is possible that this figure will cover the loss," he said, "and it is possible that there will not be more than 100 dead."

The burgess and the Rev. P. W. O'Brien, who has been rector of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church at Austin for many years, and who are familiar with business conditions, estimate the property damage at about $6,000,000. The Bayless company, which owned the dam, was damaged $1,500,000, according to Father O'Brien; the Goodyear Lumber Company, $1,000,000; the Buffalo and Susquehanna Railway, $500,000, and the 300 houses destroyed with their contents, $1,000,000 more.

It is thought that when the wreckage is cleared away, it will be found that a large number of dead are children.

Boyd Lockhard, a young business man of Austin, had a narrow escape. Mr. Lockhard said that when he heard the alarm, he thought some one was playing a practical joke, and he went into the street to watch the actions of the populace. He looked in the direction of the dam and saw the oncoming flood was but three blocks away.

WALL OF WOOD.

"It looked like a wall of wood, twenty-five feet high," he said. "At first glance I did not see the water at all, because the wood and the pulp mill was carried before, becoming a sort of battering ram that tore away the buildings of the town. I ran towards the hill and by the greatest effort got above the level of the water while it was surging within ten feet of me. The ground began to give way under me but I managed to clamber a few feet higher and caught hold of a tree to which I clung."

Throngs came to the town today from all points in the valley below Austin to ascertain the extent of the damage and to find relatives or friends. The rush of water had carried away every means of wire communication. J. C. Borchard, who lived within half a mile of Costello, said that when the crest of the flood swept past his home there were no signs of human beings or their houses in the debris.

"The entire surface of the flood was covered with newly sawn timber and pieces of lumber. It was not until a lapse of five or six minutes that pieces of housetops, broken furniture and other evidences of the destruction of the town began to appear.

AMPLE WARNING.

"The people of Costello," he said, "received ample warning from Austin that the dam had broken, and although forty or fifty houses were demolished only three fatalities occurred."

The annihilation of Austin came on a beautiful autumn afternoon. The fine weather had attracted many of the younger element to a ball game in a near-by town and thus they escaped. Women were about the streets for their Saturday shopping and these and the merchants who were selling them goods were caught by the flood.

Small crowds also were amusing themselves at moving picture theaters, which were swept away by the water. Women rocking their babies at home and others preparing their Sunday meals, were hurled into eternity before they could realize the danger.

The greatest loss of life by fire occurred at a hospital at a turn of the valley below Main street, where the debris was caught and compressed with terrific power before the current. The wreckage of the business part of the town was carried to that point, and from upset stoves and lamps it caught fire. It is believed that scores of persons are buried under from ten to twenty feet of wreckage there, and the task of recovering them will be more difficult.

IN A STORM.

In a drizzling rain which changed to a beating storm, hundreds of rescuers carried on the work of rescue, while many, hysterical, viewed the muddy corpses, anxious to know if any of them were their loved ones. Fires still were burning briskly in some portions of the wreckage this afternoon, although they had been under control several hours.

The Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad found a way into Austin today by connecting with the Keating Summit spur, a branch track that followed the creek. By this route they landed several fire companies from Olean, Galeton, Renova and Smithport.

Nor a manufacturing industry and not a business place is intact. A few cheaply constructed wooden houses occupied by foreigners and located on the hillsides is all that remains of the residence portion. A fortunate exception to the general destruction is the fact that the little hospital on the hillside remained undamaged. The school building also was saved.

Chief of Police Daniel Baker of Austin, with the assistance of Ernest Hamilton and a number of constables from nearby towns, maintained as good order as could be expected throughout the night and until the arrival of a company of the State constabulary this morning.

LINES ESTABLISHED.

There were eighty mounted men in the State squad, but on account of the wreckage in the valley, it was not practicable to picket the ruins on horseback. Lines were established and only workers and searchers were allowed to pass.

There was little pillaging. In the course of the forenoon, Chief Baker discovered a man and a woman removing a watch from a man's pocket, but the attempt to arrest them was useless, and the pair got away after some rough handling by the crowd. In the wreckage of three stores he found that the cash registers had been looted.

A primary election was in progress in the town hall when the flood broke. A hatless man dashed by, yelling to the crowd about the booth something about the dam bursting, and the election inspectors and voters dashed out and took to the hills, leaving their ballots unmarked. Some escaped, but many were too late, and were whirled into the debris which formed a dam of itself just below Main street. The jam of debris at this point was at least seventy-five feet high and three or four blocks long.

In this mass the bodies of the majority of victims are believed tonight to lie mangled and burned. The halves of houses, twisted telephone poles, huge sections of brick wall, trees and timbers are so interwoven that the rescuers have to fight their way inch by inch.

FORCED APART.

Five hundred or more men were at work in the ruins today. Heavy logging ropes were tied about the bigger pieces of wreckage and with two or three hundred men tugging, the ruins were forced apart, often to fall again into the tangle and make work more difficult. The dam of debris formed at Austin saved the western part of Costello. It stayed the onrush of the current sufficiently for the alarm to spread down the valley, and the residents of Costello had time to flee to the hills. The eastern side of the village, however, was destroyed entirely, rendering about 400 people homeless. It is believed that only three lives were lost, and of these, only one body, that of an unidentified woman, had been recovered today.

The work of clearing up the debris is under the direction of State Senator A. T. Baldwin, who lost his father, mother and wife and home in the flood and who himself was painfully hurt in escaping the disaster. During the night food supplies were scarce and the rescuers, many of whom were unused to such heavy work, toiled without so much as asking for anything to eat. Several of them collapsed today.

Gov. Dix telephoned from Albany today that the State of New York was prepared to send anything the sufferers might need as soon as Pennsylvania would signify what would be acceptable.

WILLING HANDS.

There was no lack of willing hands. Country women from miles around drove to the scene and between comforting the bereaved Austin women and getting luncheons for the survivors they were busy all day and into the night. Meanwhile men fought their way through woods and brush for a mile or more to get water for coffee and farmers drove in with large supplies of fresh milk.

In order to be fed one had to be vouched for as a resident of the flood-stricken town or a commissioned flood worker. Guards were placed at the door of an old wooden building that stood outside the path of the flood where the workers and survivors were fed, and saw that the rule was enforced.

Later in the day, after the supply trains had arrived, three loaves of bread, two cans of tomatoes and a two-pound can of roast beef were issued as a day's rations to the head of each surviving household.

The morgues were established during the afternoon. One is in the High School building and is for the reception of all bodies taken from the east side of the valley. The other is in the Odd Fellows building for the bodies taken from the wreckage on the west side of the town.

Following the arrival of a special train with State health officials, a meeting of the officers, surgeons, physicians and nurses was held at which an executive organization was formed. A relief and supply committee was formed.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

A census of the living and the dead is being made. As many of the survivors are foreigners, it is hard work, but it is hoped to complete the census by tomorrow.

One of the most pathetic in the long list of tragedies is the case of James Leeman, a night worker, who was asleep at his home and did not hear the alarm. When the rush of water swallowed up his home he was tossed out upon a pile of floating debris and eventually landed a mile and a half below the village. Wounded and bruised, he returned to find that his wife and four children had perished. Leeman then went violently insane.

W. D. Robertson, night watchman at the Bayless mills, was asleep in the third story of the Starkweather building, when roused by the roar of the flood. He stepped out on a balcony affording a view of the onrushing waters.

"Houses were tossing about like corks," he said. "I was transfixed with horror, unable to make a move to save myself. The entire building lurched forward and then collapsed. I fell two stories with the building and found myself protected by a bridge which had formed by wedged timbers. I made good my escape."

Estimates of the loss of life diminished when an army of volunteer rescuers worked its way into the masses of wreckage. In the opinion of many on the ground, the number of deaths will not reach 150, while the less hopeful place the list of fatalities at 300.

The general opinion is that the town never will be rebuilt.

Two of the large plants will not be reconstructed and a majority of the business men of the place have been ruined financially.

HASTY CANVASS.

State officials in charge of the situation, after hasty canvass of the population, expressed the belief that not more than 150 are dead. Only sixteen bodies had been recovered at a late hour tonight. Chief of Police Baker, however, believes that fully 500 are dead or missing.

The 500 men, who had toiled all day in a heavy rainstorm abandoned their task with the coming of darkness. Although they had moved mighty heaps of debris, fought the fire and worked on without food, seeking to remove the bodies of the dead, less than a score of dead had been found.

A battalion of State police has surrounded the town and no person without a pass, is permitted to enter.

Reports from Costello and points farther down Sinnamahonning Creek grew more encouraging as the day advanced. At Costello, while there was a heavy financial loss, it was said that no more than three persons were dead. Beyond that point, no fatalities had been reported.

The survivors will not suffer from hunger or lack of medical aid, as the supplies of medical assistance seem ample. T. F. Bicknell, national director of the Red Cross, arrived today, bringing with him $15,000 in cash for the immediate aid of flood victims. Of the injured in the hospitals, none is injured fatally.

The homeless all have been provided with shelter. On the outskirts of Austin are a number of houses that were vacated by workers in the Goodyear mill, when that plant was dismantled. Three houses have been filled with the homeless. The residents of Keating Summit have taken in the others, several hundred in number.

TREMENDOUS POWER.

Many evidences of the tremendous power of the flood were seen today by the workers in the town. Engines weighing twenty-five tons had been

Stomach Sufferers Squander Millions

In Search of Relief.

The world is full of disordered stomachs and 90 per cent. of the money spent upon physicians and drugs goes in an attempt to cure the stomach.

People are made to believe that in order to gain health they must doctor their stomachs and use cathartics. So the doctor gets his fee for the stomach treatment and the druggist for the physic, until the savings of a lifetime are exhausted and yet no cure.

Let's be reasonable.

The sick stomach is in every case the result of over-eating, hurried mastication and improper choice of foods. The mucous lining all the way down the food tract loses its sensitiveness, and when food is forced down the muscles fail to respond. They do not churn the food as they should. The glands no longer give out gastric juice to dissolve the food and render it capable of assimilation. The man has become a dyspeptic.

There is one sure way and only one to bring positive relief. Put into that stomach of yours the very elements that it lacks to get that food into liquid form. It takes pepsin diastase, golden seal and other ferments to accomplish this. The healthy stomach contain these elements. The dyspeptic stomach lacks part or all of them. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet is made up of just what the dyspeptic stomach lacks—Nature's digestives.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a [illegible] drug, not a cathartic. They do not cure anybody of anything but Dyspepsia and Indigestion and such ailments as arise from poorly digested food.

While they digest the food the stomach recuperates. The mucous membrane is coming out of its stupor, the gastric juice is coming to the surface, the muscles are regaining their power.

Every organ of the body takes on new life, the skin gains color, and the eyes are no longer tinged with yellow. You live.

Why doctor and why drug yourself? Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will take care of your food while Nature cures you.

Try a box at your druggist's, 50 cents. Or, if you prefer a free trial package before buying, send your name and address today. F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LAW QUESTIONS, SAYS WILSON.

Secretary Would Shift Label Enforcement.

May Ask to Put Wiley in the Marine Service.

Recommendation to Be Put in His Next Report.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Irritated to the point of exasperation by Dr. Wiley's five-year fight to be made the sole judge of the law and the facts in the enforcement of the pure food law, Secretary Wilson is prepared to suggest to President Taft and to Congress that enforcement of a label law is not really any part of the proper work of the head of a department created for the promotion of agriculture. He has no pride of opinion with regard to the enforcement of that statute. He is neither a food specialist nor a lawyer. It is his view that 90 per cent. of the questions to be settled are law questions pure and simple and the other 10 per cent. are of mixed law and chemistry. Not 1 per cent. pertain to health.

The Secretary is willing to have Dr. Wiley placed in sole charge of the work; he would not make the slightest objection to having the doctor forbid the use or sulphur, thereby closing the fruit drying establishments on the Pacific Coast and the sugar factories in Louisiana and the wine presses in half a dozen States. Further, he would make no objection to having Dr. Wiley conduct prosecutions against manufacturers whose products the doctor does not approve by having those products seized in every district in every State, thereby compelling the manufacturer to hire lawyers in about 110 judicial districts instead of proceeding in the ordinary way, that is, by making a test case in one district so that the manufacturer would be put to the least possible expense.

The Secretary returned from his vacation in Iowa a few days ago. To his intimate friends he has made no secret of his view with regard to Dr. Wiley. The probability is he will recommend, in his annual report, that the Bureau of Chemistry be united with the marine hospital service.

THREE MEN KILLED.
EIGHT INJURED IN IDAHO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WALLACE (Idaho) Oct. 1.—Three men were killed and eight injured on the Milwaukee Logging Railroad today, when the brake on the engine failed, and the train ran wild through the derailing switch. All the dead and injured were foreigners.

FLOOD IN AUSTIN.

rolled along the ground, an immense steel hopper was carried half a mile and thrown through the side of a house; freight cars were bent double.

The greatest damage was done by the piles of cut lumber, swept before the flood. These acted as great battering rams, which swept buildings from their foundations and unquestionably caused the deaths of scores who otherwise might have escaped after surviving the first rush of the water.

Investigation into the cause of the breaking of the dam will begin immediately, according to officials in charge of the work of rescue. That there had been constant danger of the catastrophe of yesterday, due to the instability of the structure, was known to many residents of the town and a thorough investigation is demanded by survivors.

TWO SURVIVORS TALK.

Frank Robinson, a one-armed stenographer, was on the third story of the Starkweather building. The first he knew of the flood was when the floor gave way beneath him, and the whole building fairly lurched across the street. He was hurled through a window and landed on top of some debris on which he floated to safety.

Robert Granzie claims to have accomplished a miraculous escape

"I was about one hundred feet below the dam when it gave way," he said. "I saw the wall of water rushing down upon me, and although it poured over me at least thirty feet high, it threw me down to the ground. Somehow I same battling up to the top of the twisting, roaring mass, and grabbed the branches of a tree as it shot past me. I was rescued while clinging to it, last night."

Employees of the Bayless Pulp and Paper mill had thrilling experiences. There were 250 hands at work yesterday when the flood came. Fifty were young women employees on the first floor. It is thought all but five of them escaped. A dozen or more were injured.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

M. A. Devereaux, who was employed in the grinding-room, grasped the shafting above him when he saw the wall cave in. The whirling countershaft caused him to lose his grip and he sank in the water. He was again tossed up and caught in the tangled machinery from which he was rescued after calling for two hours for help. He was taken to the hospital with both legs broken.

Mary Blailse, an employe in the counting-room, told the reporters in the hospital today how it feels to have a leg amputated with an axe.

"I was busy on my books," she said, "when suddenly there lurched through the wall one of the big pulp grinding stones from the mill. As I leaped aside to avoid it, the ceiling caved in and the water followed and passed over me. Rescuers found me later pinned beneath the grinding stone. They tried to release me but failed. The great stone was too big to move and I felt as if I should surely die there.

GIRL HAS LEG CUT OFF.

"Get an an axe and cut off my leg. I told them. But no man would volunteer. 'Cut it off,' I pleaded. 'You can stand it if I can.'

"I looked up and saw Joe Venarge, a friend of mine. 'You do it, Joe, for me,' I pleaded. I was in awful pain and nothing could be worse torture than what I was suffering. 'I—I can't do that, Mary,' he said.

"I asked a big man back of him to do it. He picked up the axe. By the lantern light I saw the descending blade glisten. I think he chopped it four or five times before they could pry me loose."

The girl will recover.

John Harvey and Clara Dittenhoffer, other employees of the mill, dug their way through a brick wall when imprisoned by wreckage, and subsequently were rescued. Six persons are known to have been killed in the main building of the Bayless plant and surviving employees said that twenty-five other lives may have been lost there.

TWO RESCUES TODAY.

Even as late as today two persons were rescued alive from the ruins of the mill. One is an infant a few months old, which was cooing and crying alternately when rescuers came upon it.

Close by the bodies of Annie Jackson and Flossie Meizer a man also was rescued, but in a precarious condition.

Mrs. Martha Kennicut, a restaurant keeper, laughed when warned of the flood. A child was drinking a glass of soda. "Oh, let the child finish her glass," said Mrs. Kennicut to a boy who came running in with the alarm. A few minutes later the store was swept away. The woman and child are missing.

The young son of Mrs. Thomas Reese was sitting on the doorstep of his father's house when the flood came. Their house is on high ground that escaped. His mother had just darted out of the door when she saw her son swept into the waters. She plunged in to save him when a big Hungarian waded in and pulled her out on the bank. Infuriated and nerved with the hope that she might yet save her boy she turned back to the flood. She was restrained, but in her efforts to do so her clothes were torn from her body and her arms broken. Her child was drowned.

Mrs. H. Erhardt escaped from her house, but turned back to get a handbag containing $20. She was drowned. Those of her party escaped. This afternoon her handbag was found, but her body had not been recovered.

A curious sight in the valley just below Austin today, was a train of Buffalo and Susquehanna cars, loaded with coal and weighing hundreds of tons, which had been carried 200 yards from the tracks. Two of the cars stood up-ended, forming an inverted letter "V," upon the apex of which was about a ton of hay.

Provisions continue to arrive in large quantities. A carload of bread came tonight, but tents and clothing for women and children are needed. Supplies are expected to arrive tomorrow.

SCENES OF DESOLATION.

A section of the concrete wall of the dam, weighing more than twenty tons, was carried more than half a mile. A carload of paper weighing 23,000 pounds was washed from the mill to the Main street district. The Buffalo and Susquehanna passenger station was washed 200 feet to a mill pond.

The railroad roundhouse, freight station and coal elevator were demolished. Overturned engines set fire to the debris. The railroad tracks are a twisted mass of iron for half a mile above the village and four miles below it.

The big mill of the Goodyear Lumber Company, which was dismantled three months ago, was burned. A big brick kiln with forty chimneys collapsed as the flames swept the mill.

DAM LONG ADMITTED IN UNSAFE CONDITION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—"When I was in Austin three weeks ago, people remarked that the Johnstown flood of 1889 was likely to be repeated at Austin," said David B. Morgan, a Washingtonian and a native of Austin, who hurried to the stricken city tonight.

"For a year or more, the people of Austin, most of whom worked for the three pulp mills in the vicinity, have dreaded the collapse of the big dam," said R. L. Ross of this city, who with his wife, a native of Austin, frequently visited the little Pennsylvania town.

"Those folks of the little valley always had a lurking fear that some day they would have to flee for their lives just as they did once when the dam sprang a leak," said Ross. "The town was really built in a big gulley, with mostly frame houses, so that the great flood tossed them about, and drowned the inmates like rats."

"Austin, a town scarcely thirty years old, has had an awful history," said Morgan. "It has narrowly escaped destruction in four big fires, the last one in the first week of July, 1909, wiping out Main street. It has been surrounded in the forest fires several times.

"The consensus of opinion in the town almost always has been that the dam was unsafe. The people have been afraid of it, but no protest has been made because the Bayless Pulp and Paper Company's mill, supposed to be the largest of its kind in the world, was the life of the town.

"A year ago, the reservoir was full of ice. It cracked the masonry work of the dam and frightened the citizens. The emergency lock at the bottom of the dam for use when the pressure became too great, would not work. The dam was dynamited to let the water out and thus avoid its giving way.

"Since then the company built a wooden dam about a half-mile above the big one in order to minimize the pressure on the concrete structure. They were still nailing planks in the work on the auxiliary dam three weeks ago. I can not understand why the company let the water accumulate so that it ran over the dam. The water used to give out each summer, and the dam was built to avoid shutting down the plant."

Tracing the Ancestral Line.

[New York Sun:] Miss Eleanor Sears, at a dinner in Newport in honor of her engagement to Harold Vanderbilt, showed a spirit of patriotism that is perhaps too rare among American heiresses.

Miss Sears, the story goes, was twitted upon the fact that many of her girl friends had married exalted titles, while she was doomed to be a plain "Mrs." Tossing her head, she rejoined:

"Our American families are just as good as foreign ones. Indeed, our aristocratic stock is in many cases purer than the aristocratic stock of England. I was once talking at a tea in New York with a southern girl when a young English viscount sauntered past in tight clothes.

"'How far can the viscount's ancestry be traced?' the southern girl asked in awed tone.

"I laughed and answered:

"'Well, the viscount's grandfather, the one who stole the army funds, was traced as far as China, but I believe he got away.'"

TURKS GIVE UP TRIPOLI.

no bombardment by the Italian warships.

It seems also certain that the reported destruction of Turkish fleet is untrue. In fact, the only result of the first three days' hostilities for which it can be vouched is the destruction of the Turkish destroyers by the Duke of the Abruzzi's ships off Prevesa. The Tripoli cable is sealed so that it is impossible for the outside world to know what is going on there.

The Ottoman government clearly is not in a hurry and the most significant news of the day is the decision of the Turkish council again to appeal to the powers and meanwhile to suspend offensive measures.

Late tonight this new appeal had not reached the British government and there is nothing to indicate that the attitude of the powers has undergone a change.

According to the Daily Telegraph's Rome correspondent, however, Germany and Austria already have made unofficial representations to Italy of their displeasure at her proceedure and have intimated that if these representations are ignored they will be followed in another shape by "humiliation to Italy."

According to information from diplomatic sources, the landing of the Italians in Prevesa is resented by Austria and Germany and had much to do with their reported change of attitude towards Italy.

Turkey's internal politics probably account in a large measure for hesitation in taking the offensive. Said Pasha, the new Grand Vizier, continues his efforts to form a coalition ministry, but finds success extremely difficult.

TURKISH CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES IN QUARREL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1.—A meeting of the Chamber of Deputies last night in which sixty deputies took part, violently criticised Ahmed Riz Bey, president of the chamber, as the agent of the committee exercising an evil influence over the Sultan in order to prevent the appointment of Kiamil Pasha as grand vizier. A deputation of five members was sent to the palace and was received by the Sitan, who said:

"For some time I have been desirous of convening the chamber, but the opposition of Hakki Pasha prevented my doing so. I now order you to inform your colleagues that we decree the immediate convocation of Parliament.

"I am a great reader of history," continued the Sultan, "but never have I encountered a more flagrant case of violation of rights than that committed by Italy. When visiting Adrianople and Salonika, I inspected the fortifications. I wish the whole empire were so well guarded, but unfortunately, Tripoli has been neglected, owing to the indolence and carelessness of Makki and his cabinet."

ITALIANS TAKE FLIGHT. THEN RALLY TO BATTLE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—A discussion of the warlike prowess of Italians and Turks resulted in a riot at Columbia and B streets this afternoon between parties of Mexican and Italian laborers. A score or more men were engaged and rocks flew thick and fast.

At the first onset the Italians fled, but being reinforced, the fight continued until the police dispersed the mob. Then it was found that Mike Costa, 18 years old, had had his head crushed by a rock and was fatally injured.

R. Varrarilla, a Mexican, was arrested as Costa's assailant. Several others were injured during the stone throwing, but not seriously.

PORTE ISSUES CIRCULAR TO EUROPEAN POWERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1.—It is officially confirmed that the Italian squadron has bombarded Prevesa, but the landing of the Italian forces there is denied. It is announced from Janina that two Italian warships yesterday bombarded the port of Reschadie and the torpedo boats lying in that harbor, one of which was damaged and landed its crew. The Italian ships entered the port and shelled the town, several houses being struck. Later they entered Porte Muste, taking the captain of the port and three boatmen prisoners.

The Porte has notified the powers of the suspension of the lighthouse services in the Red Sea, the Mediterranean Sea, the Dardanelles, the Aegean Sea and Adriatic Sea.

Italian workmen in the government factories have been dismissed. Italians employed in railway construction in Asia Minor are leaving the country.

A meeting of the Cabinet was held tonight and a circular was published which was addressed to all the European embassies.

The circular says:

"We answered the Italian ultimatum in a conciliatory tone, implying a peaceful solution. You know under what conditions Italy declared war and how hostilities began, contrary to the rules of international law.

"By this fact, we are at liberty to take all measures necessitated by a state of war quite apart from military operations, strictly speaking. But while reserving for herself this right, Turkey holds the conviction that a state of war can be avoided. Thus she addresses herself to the power and postpones recourse to arms.

"In acting thus, the Ottoman government is going contrary to the legitimate sentiments of Turkish people and hopes that the powers will give a favorable answer to her requests."

TURKISH CAPITAL GETS NEWS OF A DISASTER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Daily Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent says:

"News of both disaster and victory reached the capital today. The fighting spirit of the Turks is rising to a great height. The message from the Admiralty today says that two Italian cruisers have been sunk off an unnamed point in the Archipelago. It is presumed that the torpedo boats had a hand in this affair.

"Rigorous precautions are being taken to thwart the movements of the Italian fleet in the Archipelago."

STATE DEPARTMENT IS STILL WAITING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — The American declaration of neutrality in the Italian-Turkish war only waits the President's formal approval. Without his personal signature, the State Department cannot issue the proclamation, which, however, is expected to be promulgated tomorrow.

No communications were received by the State Department from either the Turkish or Italian governments although, it was understood, a note had been received from the Italian government outlining its views of the situation.

Ambassador Rockill at Constantinople cabled that "no declaration had been made by the Turkish government as to contraband or other measures affecting the American interests." He also announced that notification was made Saturday that from date lighthouses in the Mediterranean and Red seas would be dark.

So far, the Italian government has not served notice of a blockade of Turkish ports, although it has given official notice to the Turkish government that a state of war exists.

State Department officials were at their desks today awaiting information that would throw light upon the situation. Thus far no action has been taken by the American government looking to the protection of the interests of Turkish subjects in Italy, that being a matter which the President will pass upon.

YOUNG TURKS DEBATING CONDITIONS OF WA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALONIKA, Oct. 1.—The committee of the Union of Progress, which is regarded as the vital force behind the government of the Young Turks, continues to debate the situation brought about by the war. A proclamation has issued asking them to remain calm and stating that the committee imposes upon itself the defense of the nation and the enrolling of volunteers.

The government has issued orders prohibiting the use of harbor lights until further notice. There has been numberless anti-Italian demonstrations, but no serious disorders.

ORANGE VISTA

High Class Orange Land
$200 an Acre

Unusual to secure first-class land of any kind at this low price. It's even more unusual to secure good orange land on this basis. I offer it to you at Orange Vista, located near Riverside—where the soil is particularly adapted to orange culture—and where an abundant water right goes with the land. This orange soil is the frostless kind, located at a high elevation, and surrounded by protecting foothills so that it is rich and warm. Close to a prosperous city, where you can have the town advantages that make home life so enjoyable. Price, per acre, only $200, on very easy terms. Call or write for my free illustrated booklet. Let me acquaint you with the plan under which I plant and care for your grove with expert care, doing all the work for you. Ask, also, about my Free Excursions.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified Rates: The rate for inserting Want Ads in The Daily Times is per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue, 1½c per word each insertion; minimum charge 25c; except under following classifications, the rate for which is 2c per word, minimum charge 20 cents: "Society Meetings," "Personals," "Special Notices," "Church Notices, Miscellaneous" and "Baths and Massage."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 6 o'clock Saturday night. Other Sunday Want Ads, "To Let" ads, received over counter or by telephone until 11 p.m. Saturday. Ads received after closing hours by cash division will be inserted under heading, "Too Late to Classify." Rates, 4c per word.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 50,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in any five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or take responsibility for errors of any kind in taking in telephoned advertisements.

Liberty will not be reasonable for more than one incorrect insertion of any ad ordered for more than one time.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times in payment for "liners," as mistake can be rectified without them.

FOR SALE—

THE LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND.

Very good demand
For limited amount of property

Causes

This property to increase in value very rapidly.

It is a fact that you cannot duplicate our $450 per acre land for less than a thousand.

Because

the elevation is 1700 feet; it is only 20 miles from the ocean. Monte Vista therefore has the balmiest and best climate in Southern California.

The natural beauty of the place with its live oaks, green hills, snow-capped mountains and wonderful valley view is its chiefest charm. Called by noted artists, travelers, etc., "The Little Yosemite" of California.

There is an abundance of pure soft mountain water. We pipe both domestic and irrigation systems to your lot.

We have bought up the local Glendale trolley system so as to insure absolutely a trolley line to the valley. This is now under contract to build.

The soil is a fine decomposed granite with a rich and deep subsoil.

We are now laying fine roadways.

It is just 15 miles to our office.

We have sold to more than 250 families this summer. Sold to 25 families during the last three weeks.

DON'T HESITATE.

But determine to investigate what we offer you at once.

You can secure villa homesites or acreage at from $300 to $500 per acre, nothing higher. Remember there is a very limited amount of this property left. So call Monday, get our booklet and arrange to go out in our auto to look it over. $1 for the round trip.

Make your reservations in advance.

WESTERN EMPIRE SUBURBAN FARMS ASSOCIATION, 108 Chamber of Commerce Bldg.

FOR SALE—I HAVE 10 ACRES OF NATural park like land between the city and ocean at an elevation of 600 feet. It is in a sheltered nook in the foothills, absolutely frostless. The case with which petitions are obtained for any candidate was shown Saturday in the case of William H. Carlson, former head of the defunct Consolidated Bank. Carlson called for a petition for Mayor at one minute before 12 o'clock and returned it signed by several hundred voters before midnight to the City Clerk's office.

Going out at noon he had canvassers sent broadcast into the streets and signatures were easily obtained. Whether he has a sufficient number of qualified electors or not is not the point, but the ease with which a candidate may get on the ballot. And 5 cents a name makes a petition vendor work, too.

It was probably never Carlson's intention to file a sufficient petition, but to get something in that may be followed within five days, as the law permits, with a supplementary petition.

When Carlson took out the petition he explained that he was late, because he did not want "knocking" to start too soon. It is probable if men who signed remembered that he was the president of the bank with the fake vault and no assets to speak of when it was closed by the State Bank Examiner, there would have been some "knocking."

He was right in fearing the "knocking," and it is not likely that under any other than the indiscriminate 5-cents-a-line non-partisan system he could ever get any kind of indorsement.

And he wants to be Mayor. Once in the decades that are past he was Mayor of San Diego. But it is useless to discuss Carlson seriously as a candidate for any public office.

The Prohibitionists had to labor hard to get a petition for their ticket, and it was almost midnight Saturday when it was tendered to Deputy City Clerk Wilde. It was promised hourly all day Saturday. The probable reason is that the "Prohibs" procrastinated from day to day until the stern duty of complying with the non-partisan law found them unprepared for a whirlwind finish, and made it difficult. Their petition may be insufficient, but, of course, they will have a chance to supply enough signatures to make it good before the week is over. As there is no party identity on the ballot and as all the candidates are placed alphabetically, it will be hard for the Prohibs to expect a solid vote for their candidates. L. M. Davenport, who is named for Mayor, is an estimable wholesale and retail dealer in farming implements. He will come third on the ticket. That is an advantage. But as only three Prohibition candidates were named for the Board of Education and five for the Council, their identification will be hard in the long lists.

A schedule of questions sent out by the Campaign Committee of the Good Government organization would not cause excitement, but for the two last questions. At this juncture of the campaign, when all candidates are qualifying for the right to get on the ballot at the primaries, to be asked, "Do you approve the policies of the Alexander administration?" and "Do you intend to vote for the re-election of Mayor Alexander?" are rather incisive. The Good Government organization has indorsed Mayor Alexander for re-election. He is the only candidate indorsed. There is also a promise that the organization will not indorse candidates for any other office before the primary election. Hence, candidates are asking, why these two questions? Many of them believe it is merely a "smoking-out" project. Others believe it he suffrage issue was one of the jects dwelt on in a sermon en- d, "The Liabilities and Assets of Twentieth Century Church," ched from his pulpit last night Rev. Albert Hatcher Smith, pas- of the First Baptist Church. It the fourth of a series of sermons er the head of "Why Should I me a Christian?"

DEPLORES CONDITIONS.

am not an enthusiast on womsuffrage," he said. "I am not posed to it, but it contradicts my ception of womanhood. I am goto vote for it, if I get the chance. I am against the fellow who is posed to the women who want it.

I think it a shame," he declared, at men have so badly failed to e it necessary for women to want vote. But I put my conceptions my pocket for the time and say, if nen want this they should have lo cited a criticism made of the dern church that preachers of toohave too little to say of sin and much of philosophy.

One element," said he, "of weakss in the modern church is the tak- of sin away off somewhere. For ance, to concern ourselves too ch with the gambling on Wall et and too little with the sin at me. Of course, gambling on Wall et ought to be condemned. But the same time we ought to look it squarely at the sin of our own in our own families, our own inches and our own lives."

Extreme narrowness as to what it o be devout also was criticised.

It is the power of the gospel to to hold of the sins nearest to home apply the gospel," Rev. Smith in- ed. "That is one of the assets of twentieth century church. You of foreign missions when you 't know anything of the person 's sits in the next pew. Give men real up-to-date gospel!"

Benjamin F. Billings, who had been resident of Pasadena since 1885, d yesterday morning after an illss of several days at his home, cor- of Delacey and Valley streets. He 77 years old and had never married.

While he was of a retiring disposi- n, and had not been engaged in any ive business for several years, he s well known, especially by the r residents of the city. He was a ive of Massachusetts and leaves a sister, Mrs. E. A. Nims, whose home is near the same corner, a nephew, W. B. Clapp, who resides at Valley street and Fair Oaks avenue(two nieces, Mrs. Frank J. Culver and Miss E. F. Billings, both of Pasadena, and several nephews and nieces in the East.

Funeral arrangements have not been definitely made, but the services will probably be held tomorrow afternoon from the chapel of Ives Warren and Salisbury, at the corner of Marengo avenue and Union street.

TALKS OF CHILDREN.

Mrs. Seward A. Simons of Los Angeles was one of a number of speakers who addressed a mass meeting held at Library Park yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, where the suffrage question was the chief topic of discussion.

She laid emphasis on the point that all that is requisite to keep a child out of school, under the laws of the State, is for the father to declare its work is necessary for the support of the family.

"It only requires the father's word to keep the child out of school," she said, "and my observation has been that the mothers are generally more willing to make the sacrifice in order that the child may remain in school."

She took playgrounds for another feature of her address.

"It is due to the pains and energy of a woman that you have a playground here," she said. "An election was held and a bond issue to provide for the purchase of ground, but did not pass. If the women had been consulted there would have been no question of the purchase of ground.

"Even women who are not mothers have mothers' hearts and are stirred by these things. The welfare of the State depends upon how children are brought up, and yet the mothers have no voice in the law that takes the children away from them, when they reach a certain age, and by the compulsory school law, places them more or less in the care of the State."

PASSES BEYOND.

Mrs. Mary Kendall, mother of Harry Kendall, of the firm of Kendall & Smith, died yesterday morning at her home, No. 588 Summit avenue, at the age of 77 years. She had been ill for several months.

She leaves three daughters in Pasadena, who lived with her, and others in England, from which country she came to America. She had lived in Pasadena for ten years. Her husband died here several years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence. Interment will be made in Mountain View Cemetery.

FIRST FALL MEETING.

The first fall meeting of the Shakespeare Club will be held at the Shakespeare clubhouse tomorrow afternoon. Miss Anna Meeker will speak and a large attendance is expected. Plans have been made for a pleasant social afternoon.

POMONA NOTES.

POMONA, Oct. 1.—Rev. Franklin U. Rugbee, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, delivered his annual address recounting the growth and success of his parish during the past year, at his church today. St. Paul's has just completed an attractive new parish house, which adjoins the church and has been built to accommodate the growing activities of the parish. This building will be opened on Friday evening with a literary and musical programme.

A large congregation greeted Dr. C. R. Hudson, the new pastor of the First Christian Church, on the occasion of his first sermon in the local church, it being a special rally Sunday. Dr. Hudson was called here from a large church of the denomination in Frankfort, Ky.

Excessive Zeal.

ELIGIOUS FANATIC TRIES TO SLAY WIFE.

ONG BEACH, Oct. 1.—H. W. Wyatt, a prominent business man of Phoenix, Aris., is a patient at a al sanatorium, suffering from reous dementia, which led him at 4 lock this morning to make an atpt on the life of his wife. The mpt response of roomers in the rtment house and the timely ar- al of the public prevented the tragy.

Wyatt and his wife, both about 50 rs of age, arrived in Long Beach a ek ago, and took apartments at the ncess on American avenue. Since t time they have been seen on the sets but once and generally kept to ir rooms. So far as known no food s purchased by them and inquiry by ne of the curious roomers led to discovery that Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt re afflicted with a religious mania d were fasting as a penance for ne fancied error.

This morning at 4 o'clock roomers re aroused by a cry for help, piercg at first and then becoming muffled. e sounds led to the Wyatt apartnts, but the door was found locked. e landlord broke open a window and ered the room but at first could ke one. He hastily unbolted the door and let others in and a search resulted in finding Mrs. Wyatt under the bed wrapped in the mattress, with her husband lying on top of it, bouncing up and down as far as the restricted quarters would permit, in an evident effort to crush his wife to death. They were pulled out and a call sent for the police. Efforts to restrain Wyatt met with desperate resistance on his part and necessitated the use of force and cords to make him a prisoner. Physicians called pronounced Wyatt demented and advised his removal to the sanatorium, where he sank into a comatose state, due more to starvation and exhaustion than anything else.

Mrs. Wyatt was also taken to the sanatorium and is apparently as demented as her husband, though hers is a silent case. Questioned by the physicians she refuses to answer and simply rolls her eyes about.

While sitting in the hospital ward with her husband he roused out of his stupor and seeing his wife became so violent that it was necessary to shackle him. Upon her departure he quieted down and asked for a Bible and began reading oblivious to everything else. The Wyatts have a son in Colorado, who has been notified by telegraph of the condition of his parents, and until he is heard from both will be kept at the sanatorium.

GIRLS HOLD UP STREET CAR.

Merry Dozen Do Mass Play on the Track in Front of a Flyer.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 1.—Twelve High School girls, unable to board a local car yesterday at Sixteenth street and unwilling to wait a half-hour deliberately massed themselves on the track in front of a south bound flyer, which does not stop and although the motorman blew and rang a wild alarm, they held their ground, until the motorman, finally scared, brought his car to a stop within three inches of the front girl.

Then the daring misses boarded the car and made life miserable for the unhappy and angered motorman all the way to the station by accusing him of an undoubted intent to run over them.

RISKS LIFE FOR CHILDREN.

Long Beach Father Plunges Into Burning Building.

Falls Fainting on a Lawn After the Rescue.

Irish Priest Has Narrow Escape from Death.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 1.—Groping his way into the bedrooms of his little children, through a maze of stifling smoke which choked him at every step, Thomas Cravens this morning carried his three little ones out of his burning home to safety and then sank unconscious on the lawn with his children huddled about him in their night clothes crying with terror over the sight of their burning home and their helpless father.

Meanwhile, an older child, after rousing his father, had hurried to a neighbor and turned in a phone alarm. The fire department made a run of two and a half miles and succeeded in saving a part of the house. Craven who is a widower, lives at Eighth and Newport, with his five motherless children. A lamp was left burning in the kitchen for the older boy and it is thought this exploded. Another boy was awakened by the smoke and roused his father. After the fire, neighbors took care of the family. The loss is about $5000, partially covered by insurance.

PRIEST'S DANGER.

Rev. Father O'Flannigan, recently from Ireland, and a special representative of the Irish Gaelic League, an organization to promote Irish industries, who is at present visiting in Los Angeles, accompanied by a trio of young Irish lacemakers, had a narrow escape from death this afternoon in the breakers.

Father O'Flannigan, accompanied by Rt. Rev. Father Flenon, came down to the beach this afternoon and the water looking inviting they donned bathing suits. Father O'Flannigan, although unable to swim, was daring, and ventured out to deep water, where he was caught in a rip tide and carried off his feet. W. E. Molliter, late a Virginia life guard, was the first to see the priest's trouble and not stopping to doff clothing, plunged into the surf and swam to the relief of the imperiled man.

He went boldly into the vortex of water and seizing the drowning man held him above water.

Life Guard Scott went to the rescue in the lifeboat and by means of a life line towed both men out of danger and brought them ashore. Father O'Flannigan had swallowed considerable water and was in a bad way, but effective work by the emergency hospital attendants soon restored him and he was able to return to Los Angeles.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

On Tuesday evening the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Pacific branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will open a four day session at the First Methodist Episcopal Church. A missionary exhibit will be one of the features of the session. Distinguished members of the clergy and laity now in session at the general conference will attend this gathering of missionary workers, whose programme embraces a general review of the work in many foreign lands and plans for further progress.

Elaborate preparations have been made by the local society for the reception and entertainment of the delegates.

Officers of the Pacific Branch are Mrs. Edwin H. Hughes, San Francisco, honorary president; Mrs. George B. Smythe, Berkeley, president; Mrs. C. E. Brown, Los Angeles, vice-president; Mrs. S. F. Johnson, Pasadena, Mrs. Charlotte O'Neal, Pasadena, Mrs. Belle Anderson, San Pedro, and Mrs. U. R. Umsted, Los Angeles, secretaries; Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee, South Pasadena, treasurer.

INVASION PLANNED.

An invasion of the Banning rights at Avalon is again contemplated after a quiet of two years, and plans are perfecting for a boat line to run from Long Beach to Avalon next summer and perhaps sooner if arrangements are perfected.

The moving spirits in the invasion are Capt. A. C. Malone, owner of several local launches, Assemblyman W. E. Hinshaw and B. F. Bond. They have interested several of the Avalon board of freeholders, and are now engaged in securing signatures to a petition asking the board to formally open Catalina and Crescent avenues to tidewater, in line with a decision of Judge Conroy that these avenues extend to the tide line.

The two avenues almost meet at the bay and here Malone and his associates plan to build extensive wharves. The management of the island is in the hands of 100 residents of the island and it is understood that the entire board agree to anything that is advocated by ten of their number. In addition to this the Long Beach men have applied to the War Department to secure the rights and privileges they hold they are entitled to. If they cannot get the two streets opened they expect to get government permission to place a floating barge at a location chosen where passengers and freight can be safely and easily landed. From all indications a renewal of the passenger war may be looked for between the Bannings and the Long Beach company.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

H. R. Greaves, Royal Chancellor of the Royal Court, has installed as officers of the Long Beach assembly; C. E. Moyer, Past Chancellor; O. G. Mechem, Worthy Chancellor; C. B. Greaves, Herald; Ina M. Stanley, Lady of Honor; Ruth Smart, Bishop; E. E. Norton, Counsellor; J. J. Mottell, Advocate; J. L. Probst, O. G. Mechem, C. B. Greaves, Trustees.

NEWS BRIEFS.

After a summer vacation Long Beach Ebell will hold its opening session tomorrow afternoon at the clubhouse, the occasion being designated as President's Day. The principal feature will be the address of the new president, Mrs. B. P. Dayman, outlining the year's work. Music will be in charge of Miss Laurelle Chase. A reception will follow the business meeting. Year books of the club are off the press and will be given members tomorrow. They are of deep cream paper with lettering in dark brown. On the cover is the word Ebell in artistic design. The year's work covers the season from October 3 to May 27, and embraces some of the best-known speakers and lecturers of both sexes in California.

Mayor Windham, H. C. Callahan and C. A. Buffum have been designated as the committee which this week will go to San Francisco in an effort to secure some transportation line of steamers to make Long Beach one of its ports of call. A canvass of all steamer men and shipping companies will be made.

According to plans of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, President Taft's visit to Long Beach on October 17 will be short. He is scheduled to leave the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Edwards, at 9:30 a.m. and come to Long Beach by automobile, arriving here at 10:30. Here a ride will be given along the ocean front with a brief stop at Bixby Park for a short speech. The President will leave here at 11:15 on a special train on the Salt Lake.

Postoffice receipts for September were $4784.81, an increase over last year of $314.46, or 7 per cent. The net gain for the quarter over last year is 11.32 per cent.

During September building permits issued amounted to $190,470, which is about two and a half times the amount of building operations the same month last year.

Santa Monica.

GREAT SEASON IS ANTICIPATED.

SANTA MONICA ON VERGE OF BUILDING BOOM.

Two Great Pleasure Piers and Numberless Smaller Structures Are Already in Sight and Other Things Are Being Planned.—Movement on to Secure a Municipal Auditorium.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 1.—Builders are expecting the winter season by the sea to be one of unusual activity. Both the city and the government have issued permits for the building of the Jones recreation pier, which is to extend from Pier avenue to Kinney street, and work will be started early in October.

Plans have been accepted for the Western Amusement Company's pier, which will extend from Naval street to Marine street, and the work of building it is expected to be in progress throughout the winter. With the erection of the group of High School buildings and the ordinary improvement projects, it is expected, there will be an abundance of work all winter for large forces of men from one end of the bay to the other.

AUDITORIUM NEED.

Regardless of what captures the offices at the December election, the new administration will be confronted with a demand from a large number of representative taxpayers and property owners for the erection of a municipal auditorium. The object of this is to provide a convenient place for conventions and assemblies, the belief being that with such a wigwam by the sea many State societies, religious bodies, fraternal organizations and political assemblies would be attracted to the strand.

One suggested plan is for the widening of the municipal pier and the placing of the auditorium on the foundation thus secured. Another plan is for a combination of the assembly hall with a municipal bathhouse. Another suggestion to receive serious consideration is that of the founding of a public market, under city supervision, for the purpose of reducing the cost of living by the elimination of the numerous middlemen and their certain profits.

POSTOFFICE MUDDLE.

The close of another quarter at the postoffice finds the affairs of the three beach stamp stores in as complete a muddle as ever. The Ocean Park postoffice is occupying only temporary quarters on Marine street, renting from month to month. Bids were received early in the summer for a new site; but none were accepted. The First National Bank offered to build to, meet the stipulated requirements, but the offer was not accepted and the bank is going ahead with its new building with no thought of housing the postoffice and no plans suited for that purpose.

Petitions for free delivery have been accumulating at Washington for five years and the last word received was to the effect that inspectors have been sent to make an investigation. These inquisitors came and saw, but their reports and recommendations have never progressed beyond the department head in Washington, where they originally landed—and the people are still crying for free delivery. It was granted for Santa Monica as far south as Strand street, but those living south of Strand still insist that they also wish city delivery.

NOTABLES WILL SPEAK.

Senator Works and Representative Stephens Will Talk Politics to the Venetians Tonight.

VENICE, Oct. 1.—The first and last political meeting of the constitutional amendment campaign will be held at the Windward-avenue pier auditorium tomorrow night. The principal speakers on this occasion will be Senator Works and Representative Stephens. There will be a discussion of the several amendments. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Good Government League.

DRAINAGE PROBLEM.

The City Trustees are to meet in committee of the whole Monday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the project of draining the back country, extending the outfall sewer to Hyperion or in that vicinity, and establishing a municipal water plant. These are three questions that have arisen to demand settlement since the city was enlarged by the addition of Walgrove and Playa del Rey.

THEIR SECOND WATERLOO.

Police Find Connecting With Baseball Harder Task Than With Craniums of Inebriates, Diurnally Arrested.

Although the department boys played a much improved games yesterday the police ball team was again defeated by the champions of the L. A. Railway No. 1 by a score of 6 to 4. A large number of spectators was present to witness the game.

The batteries for the policemen were Bache and N. F. Beals, pitchers, and Whaling and H. Beals, catchers. The railroad battery was Giles, pitcher, and Lynn, catcher.

The police made seven hits and four runs to the trolleys' eight hits and six runs. Another game probably will be played next Thursday.

Theodore J. Hollwedel,

Santa Monican, with political aspirations, who waived his desires pending refusal of feminine incumbent.

CANDIDATE IS CHIVALROUS.

Santa Monica Man Puts Aside Ambition Until Feminine Incumbent Declares Her Distinclination.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 1.—First in the field for the office of City Treasurer and Tax Collector is Theodore J. Hollwedel, who makes his bow in politics after twenty-four years' experience as a jeweler. The office of City Treasurer has been very much in the limelight during the past year and a half.

It was while serving the city in this capacity that Ralph Bane levanted in May of 1910, taking with him the $23,000 that was in the strong box at the time. The bonding company met the loss, but failed to find Bane, who is understood to have been in charge of a company of insurrectos during the recent war in Mexico. Bane's deputy, Miss Pearl Hunting, was appointed to fill the office and has been serving with satisfaction to the city ever since, although the appointment of a woman to an elective office was a new precedent for California municipalities.

Mr. Hollwedel did not decide to become a candidate until Miss Hunting positively stated that no matter what might be the result of the vote on the woman's suffrage constitutional amendment she would not become a candidate for the office.

AUTOISTS INSPECT COURSE.

Today hundreds of automobile family parties took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the eight-mile course over which the Santa Monica road race is to be run in two weeks. Those who are interested in these contests were giving the course a critical inspection, examining the turns and gaining a fair idea of what they may expect the big cars to do when the races are on.

Those who felt a temptation to give their own cars a speed test over the course invariably changed their mind upon the appearance of a motor policemen. The city is making an endeavor to prevent speeding on the course before the regular days set apart for practice, expecting thereby to maintain the record of the course as being a safe one. There have been no serious accidents at the other meets and it is hoped by the city officials that the third event may be as lucky.

Senators Perkins and Works and Representative Stephens have been asked by the Chamber of Commerce and the Amusement Association to assist in inducing the battleships now in the South to tarry here for a few days while en route to San Francisco, to be present at the Panama-Pacific Exposition ground-breaking exercises in two weeks. The same organizations have also undertaken the enterprise of pulling off a big band contest here at an early day. The plan is to interest at least half a thousand musical organizations outh of Fresno. Cash prizes are to be offered for the best bands playing named grades of music.

VARIOUS AND SUNDRY RUMORS.

South Pasadena Hears Rumors of Railroad Plans Which Cause the Birth of Roseate Hopes.

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 1.—Material is already on the ground for the construction of the cut-off from the four track lines of the Pacific Electric Railway Company at Schutzsen Park, through the hills to the Cawston Ostrich Farm.

It is said the company contemplates a tunnel 1500 feet long where the hills are pierced. Several rumors are going the rounds as to where the cars will go when they get on Pasadena avenue; one is that the company has designs on Grand avenue, with the idea of making a connection from Mission street with California street in Pasadena, where it is stated that a line is contemplated along California street, from Fair Oaks avenue to connect with the Annandale line; another, from Pasadena avenue on to Mission street as now to Meridian avenue, and then follow the course of the so-called "dinky-line" to Columbia street, and connect with the short line at the Raymond hotel, or the present line to Mission street and Fair Oaks avenue, and from there the short line to Pasadena.

To these rumors must be added those of a freight station or a $10,000 passenger station on Mission street east of Fair Oaks avenue, with a line connecting on Mission street with the Oak Knoll line. It is also stated that the through cars will be taken off of Fair Oaks avenue and run through over the Southern Pacific tracks and that accommodation cars will be placed on Fair Oaks avenue between Pasadena and Oneonta.

As to the contemplated short line service, the saving of time should be considerable between Los Angeles and Pasadena and the fact that the rapid transit line between Pasadena and Los Angeles over the old cycleway route, which is being promoted by Horace Dobbins, will soon have something to announce may be the reason for the special activity of the Pacific Electric Railway in this city.

Frank G. Tyrell of Los Angeles addressed the union meeting of the young people's societies of the city, held in the Christian Church this evening. His subject was "Triumphs of Enthusiasm," and music was rendered by a male quartette. Mr. Tyrell also supplied the pulpit of the Christian Church for Rev. Booker Smith at the regular evening service following the young people's meeting.

Dean Is Indorsed.

The support of Harry E. Dean for the City Council was the subject of indorsement at a meeting of the West Adams Improvement Association at the annual metting held Saturday evening by the association in Leopold Hall. The annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Charles P. Coulette, president; James P. Adams, vice-president; Robert C. Batchelder, treasurer; Harry E. Dean, secretary.

Los Angeles Lawyer, Clubman and Son of Late Supreme Court Justice Wins Northern Society Belle, Daughter of Former Banker and Present Telephone Magnate.

The engagement of Henry Seward van Dyke, attorney and clubman of Los Angeles, to Miss Katherine Skiles Moulton, a society belle of Minneapolis, was announced yesterday.

Van Dyke is the youngest son of the late Justice Walter van Dyke of the Supreme Court of California. He is a member of the Bachelor Club, California Club and Country Club of Los Angeles and the Bohemian Club of San Francisco. He is a member of the law firm of Flint, Gray & Baker.

Van Dyke has apartments at the Darby, No. 724 West Adams street, and has one of the finest collections of costly rugs on the Pacific Coast. He is an enthusiastic collector of Japanese prints and porcelains. He is an expert at golf, being a devotee of the sport.

Miss Moulton has passed two seasons in Southern California. She is the daughter of Eder Howitt Moulton, who is president of the Tri-State Telephone Company of Minneapolis. He was formerly president of the Minneapolis National Bank.

ALLEGED ACCOMPLICE TAKEN.

Four Automobiles, Believed to Have Been Stolen in Southern California, Found in San Francisco.

Information was received at police headquarters last night announcing the arrest in San Francisco of Frank Jackson, charged with being a partner in crime of B. C. Bell, who was arrested at Berkeley a few days ago on the charge of stealing an automobile in this city last June.

An investigation made by the police of San Francisco seemed to show that Jackson was employed to sell the machines alleged to have been stolen by his accused accomplice, and a search of his premises in the outskirts of the city revealed four valuable machines hidden in a barn, police reports say. All of these machines are supposed to have been stolen from Southern California owners.

Detective Bruce Boyd will leave this morning for the northern city to bring Jackson here for trial. His alleged partner already is in the County Jail awaiting examination.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES

TRIAL WILL DRAW CROWDS.

San Bernardino Dentist Will Appear Today.

He Has Been Kept in Los Angeles Jail.

Orange Growers Find a Remedy for Hardpan.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 1.—A capacity audience is expected to crowd the Superior Court tomorrow morning. The star attraction will be Dr. A. E. McDavit, dentist, charged with high misdemeanor in connection with his romance with Miss Jessie McDonald of this city. The dentist has been kept at Los Angeles by the Sheriff, owing to mysterious letters sent to business men, indicating a quiet move to lynch the prisoner.

It is not thought that this spirit exists now, and, though the accused will be protected with the presence of a heavily armed squad of officers while here, no violence is feared. The dentist will be arraigned, and the date of his trial set. Owing to the crowded condition of the court calendar it is not thought likely that the trial can occur before late in October or November.

OVERCOME HARDPAN.

To overcome "artificial" hardpan in citrus groves at Highland, the growers have commenced to straw through the groves. Over 250 tons have so far been used. This hardpan is found to come as the age of a grove increases. Hours of irrigation are necessary before the hard shell of soil is saturated. In many cases the trees become seriously affected. It is said that the straw overcomes the difficulty, breaks up the hardpan, and restores a grove to its youthful vigor.

BOLDLY KIDNAPED.

John Redman, employed by the Pacific Light and Power Company, has mysteriously disappeared and indications point to his having been boldly kidnaped. Late last night two strangers appeared at Redman's rooming house, No. 543 Court street. They forced their way into his room, represented themselves as detectives, and hustled him away. Since then not a trace of the man has been found. The officers have been appealed to and a systematic search for the strangers and their prisoner is under way.

APPOINTS COMMITTEE.

President W. W. Brison of the Chamber of Commerce has announced the following committee to secure subscriptions to the $18,000 bonus required to get the Pacific Electric to extend its trolley line into the northwestern residence section: Walter Records, J. M. Morris, G. M. Hancock, John Henderson, J. H. Wilson, S. E. A. Palmer, A. A. Garner, J. E. Nish, P. B. Hockaday, E. J. Gilbert, A. G. Kendall.

WORK BEGINS.

Two hundred and forty cars of material for the Southern Sierra Power Company have been received in this city. Work of building the "longest high power line in the world," from Bishop in Inyo county to this city, has already commenced.

ANAHEIM CARNIVAL ENDS.

Gorgeous Display of Fireworks Marks the Day and Night Programmes—Silver Cup Winners.

ANAHEIM, Oct. 1.—The five days of the Anaheim carnival closed tonight with a grand display of Japanese fireworks today and this evening. The big carnival has been a most successful event and not an accident occurred to mar the festivities.

This morning an immense parade of Southern California Knights of Pythias in their natty uniforms marched the streets, competing for the generous prizes offered. Special trains over both the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific Railway were run all day today between this city and Los Angeles and great crowds took advantage of this excellent car service.

The parade of the fraternal floats yesterday proved to be the banner parade of the carnival. The Odd Fellows' float took first prize, a beautiful cup. On the float was the Good Samaritan parable acted effectively.

The Moose lodge carried second prize, also a silver cup. This float was a tallyho decorated with red and white, the lodge colors, and seated in the tallyho were twelve of Anaheim's prettiest young ladies, wearing white dresses, with red sashes. They carried red parasols. The mascot was little Mariam Flagg, who wore a scarlet suit. The maidens were Margaret Younge, Ruth Lemon, Inez Elliot, Hazel Kemp, Eva Renner, Lodie Bunkrock, Irma Steadman, Bessie Thompson, Merle Skinner and Margaret Flagg. The outriders were F. R. Rimpau, R. J. Ahern, J. E. Hitchcock, L. J. Eastland and W. A. Gustlin.

DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID.

Orange County Woman Takes Deadly Draught and Calmly Tells Daughter What She Had Done.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Nellie Harbin drank carbolic acid this afternoon and died within an hour. No cause is known for the deed. The victim of self-destruction lived with her daughter, Mrs. F. M. Culver, and her life so far as known was a contented and tranquil one.

During the afternoon she went upstairs and drank the deadly draught and came down and calmly told her daughter what she had done. Efforts were made to administer antidotes, but her death followed shortly after she had made the startling announcement.

HIGH WINDS CAUSE TROUBLE.

Santa Barbara Yachtsmen Are Rescued with Great Difficulty After Being Capsized.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA (Cal.) Oct. 1.—After standing up to their necks in water in an overturned sailboat which had become badly waterlogged, Paul Vasquez and Charles Romao of Santa Barbara were rescued a mile off shore here today by the yacht Alert, Capt. E. J. Gourley, and a boat crew from the Santa Barbara naval reserves.

The men were capsized by a high wind which sprang up from the ocean without warning. This same wind made the work of rescue exceedingly difficult. The rescuers reached the exhausted men together after a pretty race from shore. Vasquez was pulled aboard the yacht and Romao was taken in by the bluejackets. Both men are good swimmers and had managed to right their craft when it tipped, but so much water had been shipped that it sank until the sail touched the water.

After the rescue the yacht was able to reach shore without further incident, but the rowboat, handicapped by three of the oars having been broken, was thrown about by the waves until the gasoline launch Miramar came to its aid and towed it in. The Miramar was returning from Santa Cruz Island and on its way in had picked up John Cross and Jack Kinney, crawfishermen, who also had been caught in the wind and were drifting out into the channel.

San Diego.

WORK WILL BE STARTED SOON.

SAN DIEGANS WILL CONSTRUCT FIRST FAIR BUILDING.

Administration Structure, Which Will Typify the Architectural Plan of the Exposition, Will Be Under Way This Month—Suffragettes Will Close Campaign.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—Directors of the Panama-California Exposition will soon begin construction of the administration building, the first of the group to be erected. Plans for the structure are finished and estimates of the cost are being prepared. When ready for occupancy, the offices of the exposition will be moved there.

The structure will be two stories and will contain the offices of the entire exposition management, division of works and park management, with room for the park commission. Of mission style of architecture, the building will harmonize with the California and art buildings to make up the composition around the enlarged square at the east end of the bridge. Consulting Engineer George Goodhue will work out the designs for the California building at once, and will follow this with the designs for the art building and the decorations around the square, making up the entire architectural composition.

The administration building will have an ornate doorway and some features that will not be seen in any other building, as it is the building that will carry the initial impression of the detail and the ornamentation of the exposition structures. The director of works says he will begin construction on this building two weeks after the approval of the plans and that the plans will be ready by the middle of October.

BUSY SUFFRAGETTES.

From now until October 10, there will be street meetings every evening under the auspices of the San Diego Equal Suffrage Association. These meetings will be addressed by Judge C. N. Andrews, Mrs. Laura Johns of Kansas, E. E. Kirk, Judge T. H. Lewis, Samuel T. Black, H. T. Gilmore, ex-Mayor Conard, S. M. Montgomery, and others.

TRADES UNIONS ARE HARD HIT.

BRITONS SEE THE END OF THE WHOLE SYSTEM.

Their Failure in the Irish Railroad Strike and the Revelations That They Had no Reason for Calling One Puts Kier Hardie's Political Party in Awful Fix.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] British trades unions of the new school, which borrowed its methods from continental socialism, received a severe blow when the Irish railway strike was settled. In fact some observers predict that the blow will be found to be a mortal one, and that trades unionism in this country, having demonstrated to the public that it is no longer the healthy movement that Sidney Webb described it as being, in his memorable speech a year ago, but a morbid growth eaten up by its canker of socialism, the knell of the Independent labor party

Time alone will show how far headed by Kier Hardie, is sounded, these predictions are true. What is certain now is that the Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants has most seriously prejudiced its general case by its action in regard to the Irish railway troubles.

That strike, it will be remembered, was begun by a couple of porters, on one line who refused to handle some timber consigned to a firm whose employees were at odds with the masters.

Meanwhile the employees of the timber firm, whose case had been invoked as the reason for the railway strike, arrived at a settlement with the concern and their leader declared that they had never asked the railway men to come to their assistance.

The executive of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants are puzzled to advance any further excuse for their presence in Ireland. Even their best friends have turned and rended them. Phillip Snowden, M. P., whose Socialistic theories the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants Committee were putting into practice, has declared that: "The whole business is absurd. The idea of railway men being cat's paws for every set of discontented workmen in the country and tools of every agitator who wants to foment a revolution is so ridiculous that it could never have been conceived outside of Bedlam."

Light can't spoil Schlitz in Brown Bottles

It is not enough to make pure beer, it must be kept pure until it is poured into your glass.

Beer is a saccharine product. The slightest taint of impurity injures its healthfulness. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass, the scientists say, gives protection against light.

Purity above everything else distinguishes Schlitz beer from common beer.

We use the costliest materials — we age Schlitz for months to prevent biliousness—it will not ferment in your stomach.

Schlitz is sent to you in Brown Bottles, thus protecting Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Without all these precautions no beer can be healthful, and who knowingly would drink beer that was not?

If you knew what we know about beer, you would say, "Schlitz —Schlitz in Brown Bottles."

JOSH BILLINGS ON BIRDS.

Being a Few Notes on Natural History by the Late Henry W. Shaw of Lanesboro.

The quail is a game bird, about one size bigger than a robin, and so sudden that they hum when they fly. They have no song, but whistle for music; the tune is solitary and sad. They are shot on the wing, and a man may be good in arithmetic, first-rate in parsing, and even be able to preach acceptably, but if he ain't ever studied quail on the wing, he might as well shoot at a streak of lightning in the sky as at a quail on the go. Briled quail, properly supported with jellys and a Champagne Charlie, is just the most difficult thing in my humble opinion, tew beat in the whole history of vittles and something to drink. I am no gourmand, for I can eat bread and milk five days out of seven, and smak my lips after I get thru; but if I am asked to eat briled quail by a friend, with judishous accompaniment, I blush at first, then bow my head, and then smile sweet acquiescence—in other words, I always quail before such a request.

The partridge is also a game bird. Their game is tew drum on a log in the spring ov the year, and keep both eyes open, watching the sportsmen. Partridges are shot on the wing, and are as easy to miss as a ghost is. It is phun enuff tew see the old bird hide her young; it can't be described and make enybuddy believe it. The partridge, grouse and pheasant are cousins, and either of them straddles a gridiron natral enuff to hav been born there. Take a couple of young patridges and pot them down, and serve up with a kind of a chorus, and they beat the ham sandwiches you buy on the Camden and Amboy road 87½ per cent.

The woodkok. The fust thing you generally see ov a woodkok is a whizz, and the last a whirr. How so menny ov them are shot on the wing is a mystery to me, for it is a quiker job than snatching penneys oph a red-hot stove. I have shot at them often, but never remember ov my killing one ov them yit. They are one ov the game birds, and menny good judges think they are the most elegant vittles that ware feathers.

The goslin is the old goose's young child. They are yeller all over, and as soft as a ball of worsted. Their foot is wove hole, and they kan swim as easy as a drop of kasterile oil on the water. They are born annually about the 15th day of May, and never was known to die naturally. If a man should tell me he saw a goose die a natral deth, I wouldn't believe him under oath after that, not even if he swore he had lied about seeing the goose die. The goose are different in one respect from the human famil who are sed tew grow weaker and wizer, whereas a goslin always grows tuffer and more foolish. I have seen a goose that they sed was 93 years old last June, and didn't look an hour older than one that was only 17. The goslin waddles when he walks and paddles when he swims, but he never dives like a duck out ov sight in the water, but only changes ends. The food ov the goslin is rye, corn, oats and barley, sweet apples, hasty pudding, succotash and biled cabbage, cooked potatoes, raw meat, wine jelly and turnips, stale bred, kole hash and buckwheat cakes that are left over. They ain't so particular as sum folks what they eat—they won't git mad and quit if they kan't hav wet toast and lam chops every morning for brekfast.

MAKING DECISIONS.

To Do Forceful Work There Must Be No Splitting Up of the Conclusions.

If the positive man makes a mistake he is not likely to be long in rectifying it, but the man who never makes up his mind until he has consulted everybody, and then is always ready to open up every question for reconsideration, will never accomplish anything, says Orison Swett Marden.

The man who is always after a sure thing, who has no dare in his nature, who is afraid to risk anything until dead sure that he is going to turn out right, never amounts to much. It is a thousand times better to make a mistake now and then than never to settle anything, but to be always balancing, weighing and considering.

A man who does forceful work must be able to dismiss a subject from his mind when he is done with it, so he can do something else. This increases his power of mental grasp for the thing under consideration. But if the mind is entangled in confused surroundings, in a hundred and one half-decided things, if its energy is split up, the focusing power is impaired.

You must concentrate your powers upon what you are doing, and you can never do this when a score of things in your mind are intruding themselves for consideration. When you have anything in hand, settle it and then dismiss it. Half-decided things clog the mind. Study your problem carefully, and make your decision firmly and let it be final. Let it stand no matter what others may advise or suggest.

If you form the habit of making your decisions final, you will learn to use your best judgment before you decide. If your decisions are all tentative, if you know that they are not final, that you are liable to take them up for reconsideration, you will never develop a fine, strong judgment.

DAUGHTERS AND MOTHERS.

Change of Relationships that Result From Schoolgirls Becoming College Students.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] "I am getting my daughter ready for Vassar," said a young matron yesterday, whose looks belie the fact that she has a girl old enough to go to college. "We are so busy," she said, "that we do not know which way to turn, with the dressmakers and visits to the tailor and general shopping." It is a first experience with the young woman and no doubt both she and her daughter will find that they have made a lot of mistakes after the trunks have been unpacked in the faraway school. Nevertheless what a great deal of pleasure both of them get from the tasks they impose upon themselves, and how envious mothers without daughters are as they see the comradeship of the school-girl and her mother and the college girl at the beginning of her career and her mother. For it seldom happens that the relations are ever just the same when a girl goes to college. Her mother should treasure up every moment of these last days before the schoolgirl becomes a college student. The object of her education is to teach her to be self-reliant and equal to the emergencies of life, and a year will make a great difference. She is bound to grow away from her mother unless the mother tries to keep pace with her. Other associations are necessary that her outlook upon life may be a broader one and this will be even more apparent in the first year, possibly, than afterwards. Thousands of mothers are questioning themselves these days. Have they laid the foundations true and sure upon which their daughters are to build? Have they taught them to be truthful, honest, unselfish and other fundamental elements that are to make so substantial the house beautiful of their lives? If the girl's character has not been formed in this way she will have nothing to depend upon, nothing to conserve her intellectual and moral resources when the dangers of evil association threaten them. And even the most select school is not safe from contaminating influences, but the girl who has had a good mother has nothing to fear and will be stronger and better, not because she has been tempted, but because she has so bravely resisted any effort to induce her to do the thing her mother would not approve.

Evidence of Weakness.

[Ohio State Journal:] People should be very considerate with others who differ from them, for if such people are sincere and honest, they are just as apt to be right as they. Where two equally honest and intelligent persons disagree they are really not far apart when the difference is finally analysed. And certainly the fact of disagreement is not so alarming as to excite one unduly.

Almost any man of experience can look back on his life and see instances where he was excited and rampageous because his view was once disputed and see the chasm that was once the difference now filled up with green grass, violets and other omens of peace. One is almost ashamed of himself at the intolerance he once displayed at another for challenging his opinion.

We have noticed that the more ignorant the man, the more excited and tempestuous he is in speech, since the more truth a man knows, the less fussy and violent he is about it. If the great issues of the day were to be settled by the people who get the most excited over them they would be very foolishly and falsely settled. The cause of a blustery and frantic fellow is apt to be a bad one.

GRAFTERS LOSE JOBS THROUGH SURGICAL DISCOVERY.

Black Men Change Color Where Epidermis Scrapes Off, but Natural Pigments Soon Restore Dark Shades—German Professor's Application Changes Practice.

The grafting of human skin is about at an end, according to Dr. Karl von Arling, connected with the University of Berlin in the medical department, who is at the Auditorium Hotel.

"The science of surgery has discovered a new means of replacing epidermis killed by burns, scalds or through ulcerations," said Dr. von Arling. "It is a very simple drug, scarlet red, which was discovered first as an aniline dye in 1882. A Dr. Fischer of the University of Bonn, about six years ago first started using it in cases where skin-grafting was necessary. It gave marvelous results."

Just previous to leaving Germany for his American trip, Dr. von Arling had a peculiar case and one which absolutely proved the value of the new discovery. A little boy had fallen against a stove, severely burning his arm, particularly around the elbow.

"I decided that I would give the remedy a thorough trial and used the scarlet red," said the doctor. "A new, clean and natural skin has grown over the place and the boy can flex his elbow as naturally as before he was injured. None of the stiffness which comes with the grafting of human skin onto the injured parts resulted."

From this it might be assumed that the market for human skin will quickly fall as far as heavy profits are figured. According to local physicians a square inch of cuticle has been valued at about $25, but in the future it will have little value save to its original owner.

Heroic fathers, brothers, sweethearts, may be dispensed with and so save their hides. Dr. von Arling says that in the past skin grafting has always been attendant with danger to both the giver and the receiver and that the discovery is worthy of a high rank.

One of the strange things about the new skin grown on negroes is that it is at first white. "We made a number of experiments on negro patients and it has also been tried in this country," said the doctor. "In every instance the new epidermis has been as white as that of a baby. Gradually, however, it is flecked and spotted with black pigment and finally it all changes to the dark hue of its possessor."

Scarlet red formerly held its chief place in paint shops. It has been an ingredient in the manufacture of red paint. A dollar's worth, in surgery, will last for months. It is mixed with vaseline and several other components and applied to the edges of a wound. The doctor stated that it grew skin at the rate of two millimeters in two days on one of the test patients in Berlin.

Dr. von Arling's visit is to study America. It is his first trip.

Since Earliest Days.

JEWS CELEBRATE ATONEMENT DAY.

SERVICES HELD IN SYNAGOGUES THROUGHOUT CITY.

Rabbi Isidore Meyers Explains History of Events and Why the Hebrews Hold Them Sacred—Setting of the Sun Tonight Brings Ceremonies to an End.

The celebration of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, the holiest day in the calendar year of the Jews, began last night in every synagogue in Los Angeles and the services will be continued throughout today. At the Sinai Synagogue last night Rabbi Isidore Meyers preached on the subject, "Modern Idols." Atonement services were also held last night in Synagogue Beth Israel, in Temple Poele Zedek, Temple B'nai B'rith and other Jewish houses of worship.

This morning Rabbi Meyers will deliver another sermon and he will be assisted in the services by Rev. J. Weinstock and Rev. A. Arnot.

Rabbi Meyers, in his sermon last night, explained that the Jewish Day of Atonement began at sundown yesterday and will end with the setting of the sun today. This day completes the annual penitential period of ten days which begins with the Jewish New Year. The observance of these days corresponds to that of Lent and of Good Friday by those of the Christian faith.

The ceremony to consecrate the soul anew to the work of divinity was begun in the time of Moses and has been sustained throughout all the centuries by the Israelites. Allusions to the Day of Atonement are to be found in many places in the Bible, among them being Leviticus xvi and Numbers xxix. Many accounts of the origin and of the observance of the holy day may also be found in the old Talmud. It is a day when all Jews absolutely abstain from the eating of food and from other indulgence in worldly pleasures.

No race since the beginning of history has adhered more closely to its religious faith than have the Hebrews. The blood of no race of people has been kept purer, and this may probably be accounted for by the fact that their religion, customs and traditions are the same in America today that they were in Palestine thousands of years ago.

Here's a particularly "Striking" case of "Walk Out." We don't believe in strikes, but Men Who Know seem to have a habit of walking in, buying a suit of Brauer made-to-measures, then walking out. What do you know about that! We believe in that kind of a walk out. If you'll look at these new Fall overcoatings in the display windows, you'll surely walk in, buy one, then "Walk out." Young Mothers
No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

In Memoriam.

ON MARTYRS' GRAVES A FUTURE'S PROMISE BORN.

Simple and Beautiful Services Mark Anniversary of Death of Leal and Brave Who Laid Down Lives at Duty's Post—Within Few Hours Is Set the Corner-stone of a Greater "Times" Building.

HONOR and remembrance to The Times of the past, but hail, all hail, to The Times of the future!" These words, with which Col. Tom Fitch concluded a remarkable address when the corner-stone of the new Times building was laid at First street and Broadway, yesterday, were vibrant with the sentiment of an impressive ceremony. They touched at once memories too profound for speech and a fair prophecy for The Times' increasing greatness.

It was significant that, of the concourse that witnessed the corner-stone laying many had gathered earlier in the afternoon at Hollywood Cemetery to revere the memory and to mourn the loss of the twenty men whose assassination just a year ago yesterday left an indelible stain upon the city and the heavy hand of grief upon thousands of hearts.

Relatives of those whose precious lives had been taken by assassins in the night stood beside the green graves which love had buried deep in fragrant blossoms and at their elbows strangers stood, sharing in sympathy the grief resulting from the blow of dastards who had struck not alone at men and homes, but at the palisade of liberty itself.

A widow knelt above the sleeping form of her children's murdered father and her cry echoed in the hearts of all those gathered there. A blind man whose son had been his vision and his strength leaned feebly on his wavering staff to think how all the light his darkened life had known had failed on that black night of terror and of pitiful waste. A little child who now may never know her father's love sat mutely upon the bleak tomb of a neighboring grave, looking with hurt, and startled eyes at her sob-shaken mother.

THE TIE OF GRIEF.

Together all these bound by a common woe, stood with bared heads in the presence of the risin and in that Greater Presence whose ears along may wipe all tears from their eyes. Silently they stood between mountains and sea laved by air as pure as the mingling of water and flame, over them stealing the golden vibrance of an autumn sun. Gen. Harrison Gray Otis and the incomparable Dr. Robert J. Burdette spoke, the Euterpean Quartette sang, and over the greensward like the overtones of an invisible chorus softly rang the Eliza A. Otis memorial chimes, with their tender commingling of hope and sorrow, memories and tears, that could but leave the broken-hearted yearning more and more.

Of the twenty men whose lives had gone out upon the tide of a horribly deliberated crime several are buried elsewhere. Fourteen had been left to rest at Hollywood, and in their memory a massive monument of beauty and permanence is now being prepared. It will be unveiled in public, it is hoped, November 16. Already its foundation has been laid and might have been seen yesterday had not the gray slab been buried beneath a wealth of flowers.

THE FLAG'S SYMBOL.

Over the graves fluttered a large silk flag, and those who stood beneath its radiant folds found a peculiar fitness and an earned right that it should be the most pronounced of emblems there.

Among the floral tributes three of the most notable were those of the editors, artists and business force, the composing room and the printing and book-binding house. The first was a wreath of lilies of the valley and Madame Chatney roses, the second a white dove, exquisitely poised above the stereotyped bronzed matting of The Times front page for Wednesday morning, September 27 of last year, framed with lilies of the valley and carnations. The third was made of calyx leaves and Easter lilies.

The quartette exquisitely sang "The Vacant Chair" and Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." Dr. Burdette was never more eloquent nor spoke with greater effectiveness than in his noble efforts on this occasion. With a few words, Gen. Otis announced the purpose of the service yesterday. He said in substance:

We have met here to pay living tribute to the names, virtues and memories of the twenty men who died at their post of duty when The Times Building was dynamited and burned on the morning of October 1, 1910. The story of that disaster I will not repeat. You know it well. Fourteen of the faithful Times men are sleeping here. Before you is the foundation of the handsome manument which is to be erected and suitably inscribed immediately. You will be invited to these sacred grounds to witness its unveiling a few weeks hence.

DR. BURDETTE'S ADDRESS.

Dr. Burdette's memorial address was in full as follows:

"I once stood on the historic plain where the mountains look on Marathon, and Marathon looks on the sea.' Almost unconsciously I uncovered my head as I paused before the great mound, the Soros, where sleep the heroic Greeks, who on an August day 2500 years ago fell as they repelled the outnumbering hordes that swarmed against their little band like locusts of the wilderness. Two American boys at my side bared their heads. And their American mother bent to kiss the fragrant asphodel—the meadow flower trodden in days of myth and fable by the feet of heroes, and swept by the trailing garments of goddess and nymph. We reverenced the memory of the men who died there. The heroic Greeks, their allies and their bondmen, in defense of their homes and western civilization. Twenty-five centuries—and men remember with reverence their heroism and sacrifice and their victory. Loving and loyal hands builded above them this mound of earth, baptized in their blood.

"On the summit of a hill shaped by the hands of the Creator, the Mecca year by year of thousands of Americans who make reverent pilgrimage thither, a graceful shaft of granite commemorates the heroism and sacrifice of another little band of heroes, standing to the death between their homes and oppression; faithful unto death in their devotion to human freedom—to national liberty. Bunker Hill is hallowed by devotion and sacrifice.

"Heroes of the bow and spear were these Greeks of the olden day. Men of the rifle and bayonet were the heroes of Bunker Hill. They met death, running at the head of the charging columns with shouts of defiance, and smote him in the face as they fell.

"Here, in our own day, sleep heroes as illustrious. Champions of industrial freedom, slain by the red hands of anarchy, smiting under cover of the darkness.

"'Keep thee from me' cried the knight in the days of chivalry, giving his foeman ample time to prepare for onset. The voice of the bugle, singing its challenge high and clear, carries to the enemy the advance of the soldier. A challenging shot, fired wide, was the old-time shout of the sailor, bidding the enemy clear his decks for action. At Marathon, at Waterloo, at Bunker Hill, heroes were slain by heroes.

"But these heroic souls who sleep here were murdered as they toiled at peaceful, honorable labor for their daily bread. Three arch villanies there were that conspired against them. Cowardice drew the veil of darkness, hiding the movements of the creatures lifting red hands against the lives of the unconscious victims. Murder planned the hellish machine which could most effectually destroy property and life together. Treacherous anarchy, hating all law and order, applied the detonating match that wrought midnight confusion and sudden death.

"Then, under false names, that were lies, under many disguises, skulking and hiding, in fear and hate, the conspirators fled and for a time escaped.

"These things are simple, plain statements of fact. These things are true. They are not spoken in bitterness. If I had a tongue of lightning, a voice of thunder, and my words were leaping flame, I could never tell what happened on that awful October

Laying the Corner-stone of a Greater "Times,"

At First street and Broadway, yesterday, where, just a year ago, the great newspaper plant went down before the dynamite of midnight murderers. The ceremony of formally commencing the new and beautiful structure followed immediately after the memorial services, held in Hollywood Cemetery, for those who died at their posts in the terrible disaster. In the top picture, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis is laying in the copper casket the documents to be sealed up in the corner-stone. In the center, Col. Tom Fitch is shown addressing the concourse gathered to witness the ceremony. Below, Architect John P. Krempel (left) and Contractor Carl Leonardt are lowering the casket to its concrete resting place.

Question—Are you acquainted with D. H. Ingersoll?

Answer—I refuse to answer.

Q.—How many times did you meet Mr. Ingersoll?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—How long have you known Mr. Ingersoll?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—At the times you met Mr. Ingersoll, was he your client and were you his attorney?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—Were you present at the Fairmont Hotel about the 24th or 25th of July, 1911, at a conference between Darrow and D. H. Ingersoll?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—Did you, at any time in the months of July or August, 1911, tell D. H. Ingersoll that you would procure him money to pay Mrs. Ingersoll?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—Did you, at any time, pay D. H. Ingersoll any sum of money whatsoever if he could procure the adherence of Mrs. Ingersoll to the side of the defense in this case?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—Did you ever promise to get him any money for that purpose?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Q.—Did you at any time promise Mr. Ingersoll the sum of $5000 or any other sum of money if he would procure the absence of Mrs. Ingersoll from this State and agree to furnish him with an automobile?

A.—I refuse to answer.

Remarkable revelations as to the bothering of State witnesses in the forthcoming dynamite trial are expected when Attorney John R. Harrington, chief of sleuths for the legal corps engaged in defending the McNamaras, appears this morning before the grand jury to answer certain questions asked him by the inquisitorial body or be held in contempt.

Harrington was arrested in San Francisco eleven days ago by the police of that city working in conjunction with the Burns operatives. Prior to that time Harrington had appeared before the grand jury and refused to answer the above questions, propounded to him by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford. He set forth that his refusal was on the grounds that, as legal representative for Ingersoll, he was privileged to have confidences with him that he could not be forced to divulge.

Ingersoll emphatically denied in an affidavit that he ever had employed a McNamara sleuth as his attorney. Ingersoll also states that he never knew Harrington until he called upon him to discuss the dynamiting case.

Both of the Ingersolls will probably be prominent witnesses in the dynamiting case. Mrs. Ingersoll's testimony will be important in that she will be called upon identify J. B. Mo-

Freak Accident.

STREET CAR RUNS AMUCK; THREE PASSENGERS HURT.

SPREADING rails caused a Strawberry Park car of the Los Angeles and Redondo line to jump the track on the sharp curve at Sixty-eighth street and Hoover avenue yesterday noon, run wild along the ties, break down a telephone pole and finally turn partially on its side. Three persons, a man and two women, were injured, but none seriously.

George Bielaied, No. 628 West Eighty-third street, had his left leg badly wrenched and Mrs. A. M. Mitchell, Seventy-fourth street and Budlong avenue, had the opposite member injured, but neither suffered broken bones. Mrs. P. Cook, No. 2777 South Main street, jumped from the front open section and wrenched her back.

The car contained about fifteen passengers. Though it was running quite rapidly when it left the track the only apparent damage to the body of the car was to the smashed windows.

After the car left the rails it ran over the ties for a distance of about 100 feet, struck a trolley and telephone pole, snapped it off about eight feet from the ground and came to rest with its side resting on the stub of the pole. Nothing but the latter prevented the car from rolling over and over into the ditch, about six feet below the track.

That spreading rails was the cause of the accident was at once apparent. The spread began 100 feet back from the point where the car left the rails and affected only the tops of them. The bases of the rails were still securely held at the proper distance apart, but the tops were about an inch too far apart. The constant wearing of the flanges of the wheels against the rails had slowly scraped away the surface of the outer rail until it failed to keep the car in the proper place and it jumped.

After leaving the rails the trucks fortunately straightened out and the car pursued a straight course. The ties were deeply cut by the flanges of the wheels and in some places the rails were knocked out of line and forced deeply into the earth.

The car was driven by Motorman Peterson and was in charge of Conductor Cooper. The former reported to the company that he was running about twenty miles an hour when he struck the curve and that the car had jumped before he realized what happened.

A wrecking car was sent to the scene immediately and within half an hour the car was drawn back upon the rails. The track, twisted like a serpent, was straightened and emergency transfer car service was installed. The tracks will be in complete repair this morning.

Can't Kill Him.

FALLING'S HIS MIDDLE NAME.

Human Rubber Ball Drops Thirty Feet; Unhurt.

Lands on Cement Pavement; Is in Hospital.

Has Lifetime's History of Similar Accidents.

Of rigid frame is Edgar Ralph Deming, 27 years old, living at No. 549 North Hill street. After being thrown off a porch and falling thirty feet into a cement paved basement yesterday afternoon, he got up and calmly walked to the Receiving Hospital. There it was found that his injuries were only superficial, but he was placed in a cot to await the development of possible internal injuries.

When he was 3 years old Deming fell in a similar manner and was uninjured. While in the government employ in the Philippine Islands, eight months ago, he fell over a sixty-foot embankment on horse-back. He rolled over and over with the horse to the bottom; the horse died within a few minutes but Deming escaped almost without injury.

As a result of Deming's injuries yesterday his brother-in-law, W. O. Ham, is in the City Jail, where he will be held pending the outcome. Deming declared that Ham threw him over the railing of the porch during a quarrel.

Deming said that Ham had mistreated his wife and that she is now suing him for divorce. They have separated and Ham has been living at No. 498 California street. Mrs. Ham says the court has allowed her temporary alimony and the custody of their 4-year-old child, with the understanding that Ham could see the child occasionally. She declared Ham had seen the child as often as he cared to call at Deming's home but of late that he had become surly and had threatened to take the child from her. Mrs. Ham complained to her brother and yesterday, while Deming was on his way to church, stopped in to intervene.

Ham's room is on the third floor of the apartment house at No. 498 California street and has a small balcony with an iron railing around it. Deming had scarcely spoken, he said, when his brother-in-law, a boiler maker, grappled with him, pinned his arms behind him and threw him over the railing.

A crowd collected and Ham was held until the police arrived. He was taken to the Central Police Station and there admitted that he had pushed Deming over the railing.

When Deming was a baby he figured in a similar affair with a similar outcome. He was playing with his cousin, Louis Burgess, six months his senior, in an apartment-house in Waterbury, Ct. They ran a race from the ground floor to the third floor. Deming reached the top before his cousin and the latter intending simply to scare him pushed Deming over a low railing. Deming fell to the ground, landing upon cement steps. A scar on his forehead is his only memento of the accident.

Deming spent but about two weeks in the hospital in the Philippines after falling over the embankment with his mount, despite the fact that the horse was on top of him when friends went to his rescue.

Deming's mother said yesterday that the young man is "just like a rubber ball," and that she is never greatly alarmed when she hears that he has been injured.

DOUBT TO FAITH.

Newly-Formed Bible School of First Congregational Church Discusses Steps to Belief.

The "Doubt to Faith" class in the Bible school of the First Congregational Church held its first meeting yesterday morning. The topics discussed were doubt, belief, knowledge and faith. "Doubt is an open door to knowledge and knowledge is the foundation for belief and rational faith," was the sentiments given. "Those whose dogmatic belief admits of no doubt can make no progress. This is illustrated by the mental stagnation of periods like the Dark Ages, or nations like China, that have refused to receive new ideas, as contrasted with the progress of nations like the United States.

"Belief and faith are not peculiar to religion. Much of what we call knowledge is belief. But belief that is not founded on knowledge is blind credulity. Faith to be rational must also be based on knowledge. Religious faith is founded on spiritual knowledge, and one who has not tested this by experience is liable to deny its existence, and so regard faith as mere credulity. To do the will of God is the best way to know of the doctrine."

The subject for next Sunday is, "The Word of God and the Bible."

MUSIC IN STONES.

Harmless Victim of Insanity Gathers Pebbles by Wagonload and Plays Piano Like Genius Afterward.

What is perhaps the strangest example of musical madness here or anywhere else, was brought to the attention of Los Angeles specialists yesterday in the case of Charles Augustus Valentine, who, with his keeper, now resides at No. 136 East Jefferson street.

According to George E. Murtaugh, who cares for the unfortunate musician, Valentine spends his days on the street and in the back yards near his home gathering up little sticks and stones with which he fills his pockets and every available receptacle. After accumulating what he considers to be enough of these odd treasures he returns to the house and, sitting down at the piano, plays the most intricate and difficult of classical selections with great ease and considerable technique.

For years Valentine has known no one and has scarcely recognized his own name. His mental unsoundness is the result of a fall from a horse about ten years ago, except for which it is the firm belief of Murtaugh that his pathetic charge would have been, instead, one of the greatest musicians in the world.

Valentine is entirely harmless and obeys his keeper like a child. The latter says that as long as he retains control over him his patient will never be sent to an asylum, though it is his hope that physicians may ultimately discover and remove the disturbing cause. Relatives in the city see that he lacks for nothing and even supply him with the facilities for gratifying his harmless eccentricities.

CUPID HITS THE "DORM."

Y.M.C.A. Bachelors Form Benedicts' Club and Pair Off Rapidly—The Latest.

Dan Cupid counted two more victims of his bow at the Y.M.C.A. among the dormitory men and telephone girls yesterday, when William J. Grow and Miss Louisa Parks were married by a justice and went to Catalina on their honeymoon.

In this case, Cupid was very shy and silent in his operations. There was no public courtship that led to the final marriage vows. Miss Parks had always declared herself wholly unattached, while Grow was seemingly without an affinity. When their sudden wedding was announced friends refused to believe it, but, on looking over the license list among the last of the day, was that of Grow and his bride-to-be.

Grow is a Philadelphia man who came here about two years ago. Miss Parks has lived here with her parents for a number of years. Another Philadelphia man who has been staying at the Y.M.C.A. for a period of nearly two years left for home just a week ago to be married. His friends remember him as W. "Punk" Fenton. The announcement of a third Philadelphia man's engagement is daily expected.

The second romance of the switchboard and the dormitory is to reach its climax the middle of this month, when Edwin Kenyon Griffin will take Miss Jennie Carter for his bride. She won the admiration of Griffith by her desire to please, and less than a month ago the engagement was announced.

Arthur E. Johnson, James E. Webb, William Behr and Fred Letten are mentioned among the runners in the Cupid handicap. Joe Minster, for years a resident of the dormitory, recently announced his engagement.

All of these young men were among the first to enter the Y.M.C.A. dormitories. They formed exclusive clubs and entertained lavishly during the last few years. At times they leased the Woman's Club for fashionable dances. On two other occasions they chartered private cars and took their best girls to beach parties. Musicals and other events were frequent occurrences.

Now it's to be the bungalow and accessories.

At Last Finds Time.

BLOWS HER WAY INTO DEPTHS OF WINDY CITY HEART.

Sweet Strains of Her Cornet Developed Love in Chicago Surgeon's Breast and Flaxen-haired Los Angeles Miss Is Coming Back a Woman Grown and Married.

Dr. Hugo V. Pribyl and his wife, formerly Miss Edna M. Knudsen of this city, are on their way here on their honeymoon trip, which had its beginning in Clermont, Iowa. They are expected at the Angelus to be the guests of C. C. and Harry Loomis, and thereby develope this story.

Eight or ten years ago, when the Broadway Van Nuys Hotel was the latest and most modern downtown establishment of its kind in the city, the Loomis brothers were on the staff of the hotel. Even in those days music was fashionable in the dining-room, and among the players was a little tow-headed girl who had a remarkable ability with the cornet.

She was in her teens and attracted the attention of music lovers who happened in at the hotel during meal times. When the Hotel Angelus was opened, the same girl, still in her teens, came over to that house and was one of the leading attractions in the dining-room during the daily concerts.

Her playing by this time was bringing her more than passing attention, and one day an eastern music master, hearing her performance on the wind instrument, became interested in her natural ability and offered to take her East and place her under the best cornetists in the country for instruction. That happened about six years ago.

A year later she began to play in concert and was finally rated among the three best cornet players in the United States. Her salary ascended to a point where she received as much as $250 for a performance. In eastern centers she was in so great demand that she could not find time to return here for a visit. Her voice had also shown timbre of excellent quality and after two or three years of training along vocal lines, she took a place among the singers of the country that was enviable.

Her introduction into Chicago society brought, among other acquaintances, Dr. Pribyl, who is a specialist and surgeon of considerable reputation. Also a music lover, he found more than congeniality in Miss Knudson and the marriage resulted. Now he, with his wife, who still has many friends here, are coming to renew some of the old friendships.

DANCES SKIP EASTWARD.

Spanish Fandangoes Introduced to the Two-Step and the Waltz. Graceful Movements Attract.

Western atmosphere is gradually impregnating the dances of the elite of the eastern cities, according to W. Davenport Platt, son of a millionaire tinware manufacturer of Baltimore, who arrived at the Alexandria yesterday, in company with his aunt, Mrs. Platt-Stone. The trip to the Pacific Coast was made in a Packard automobile.

Dancing is the one hobby of the youthful Baltimorian. He admits that he would rather dance than eat.

"They are introducing through the East many of the movements of the Spanish dances," he said. "These are wonderfully graceful, you know, and are a real delight to the eye. The Russian dancing has also been gaining a hold with the coming of the various famous Russian ballettiers. They are only possible in a modified form for Americans for the reason that they are far too strenuous and tiring."

The many new styles in dancing are attributed by Platt to the coming of the Merry Widow and the troupes of foreign dancers who have helped to arouse new interest in the art which had dwindled to nothing but two-step and waltz.

After his tour of America, Platt is going to Germany. There he will take up the study of architecture at the Royal Academy of Munich. Already he has achieved fame in Baltimore as an artist and this talent he expects to put into commercial use if it ever becomes essential by the loss of his father's millions.

Charged With Murder.

INSANITY MAY BE THE DEFENSE OF MRS. FORD.

Is This Woman Insane?

She is Mrs. Caroline E. Ford, who will face trial in the Superior Court on Thursday, for the slaying of her husband, A. P. Ford, last April. During the last few days Mrs. Ford became so violent in her cell at the County Jail that it was necessary to remove her to the detention ward of the County Hospital. The killing of Ford was accompanied and followed by actions on the part of Mrs. Ford so remarkable as to lend color to the theory which her attorneys intimate will be a part of her defense.

IN VIEW of the fact that, according to Attorney Frank Domingues, insanity is likely to be one of the pleas entered in the defense of Mrs. Caroline Ford, whose trial for the slaying of her husband is scheduled for Thursday, it is probable that the prosecution will attempt to prove that there was method in the alleged attack of madness, which recently seized the prisoner.

Ever since April 28, when she fired the shot which sent to his death her husband, whom she accused of abusing her beyond her endurance, Mrs. Ford has been confined in the County Jail. She has made little trouble for the authorities there until within the last few days, when she began to show signs of seeming insanity. Her acts of violence were such that the authorities were obliged to send her to the insane ward of the County Hospital. Since her arrival there, however, her conduct has been quiet, and all evidence of insanity has been utterly lacking. According to Edwin H. Hutchinson, in charge of the ward, she will be able to attend the trial Thursday.

Mrs. Ford will be defended during her coming trial by Attorney Earl Rogers and Frank Domingues. Domingues said yesterday that a continuance will probably be asked, because of the mental condition of the defendant.

The Fords formerly lived at No. 1418 West Thirtieth street. Mrs. Ford was a student of Ray Hastings, a teacher of music, who, it is intimated, will figure largely in the evidence. On the day of the tragedy, Ford found Hastings and Mrs. Ford in the parlor, where a music lesson was in progress. According to the woman, Ford accused and struck her brutally.

Mrs. Ford ran to her room for a revolver, returned and shot her husband to death, after which she went to her room and began to play light, happy selections on the piano. When arrested, she said, "Yes, I shot him, but he has slain me a hundred times in the course of our seventeen years of married life. I made people believe I loved him, but it was a lie. Now I am glad it is over, and I need not lie any longer."

Feast of Reason.

SCIENTISTS AT FESTAL BOARD.

SAVANTS BANQUET AND DISCUSS TOPICS OF INTEREST.

The Southwest Society of the School of American Archeology Gather to Enjoy Spanish Feast and Talk Over Relative Attainments of the Past and Future.

A Spanish dinner was given last night to members of the Southwest Society of the School of American Archeology, at the home of Charles F. Lummis in the Arroyo Seco. Although not in the best of health, Dr. Lummis personally welcomed the guests. Among those attending were Dr. B. W. Bacon, Hector Alliot, Prof. J. H. Feshay, Dr. J. A. Munk, Dr. George L. Raymond, Robert N. Bulla, Edgar L. Hewett and other members of the executive board of the society.

Dr. Hewett, director of the School of American Archeology of the Archeological Institute of America, arrived in Los Angeles from Santa Fe, N. M., yesterday, and in an informal address last night he spoke at length on the work being done by the school. Dr. Hewett is a man of rare ability and of untiring energy and his work in his chosen field has been of inestimable worth to the scientific world. For years he has been conducting excavations of buried cities and ruins of the Southwest, and his remarks concerning this line of work were received with appreciation by his hearers. In addition to an illustrated address on "Prehistoric Guatemala," at the Arrow Theater, in the Hamburger building, tomorrow night, Dr. Hewett, will deliver several other addresses. Tomorrow morning he will speak before the members of the Los Angeles High School, Wednesday morning he will speak at the Polytechnic High School and Thursday morning he will address the students at the Manual Arts School. Thursday night he will deliver an illustrated address on "The Cliff Dwellers" at the Arrow Theater. Dr. Hewett contends that the cliff dwellers were far more intelligent and advanced than were the mound builders, which he says is proved by their superior architecture, if by nothing else.

In a brief address last night Prof. Lummis spoke of the effort on the part of professors of achaeology to humanize this science and to thus bring the study of this great branch of science within the possible scope of every student of nature's laws. Archaeology, he said, is not the study of Latin or Greek, but a study of the people and customs of the past and present.

It is the hope of the Southwest Society to soon erect a splendid free museum in Los Angeles for the education and entertainment of visitors.

Of the forty branches of the School of American Archeology, the Southwest Society is the largest, containing a membership of more than 400.

It was stated last night that a meeting of the Southwest Society will probably soon be held at San Diego.

Among other features of last night's entertainment was a unique musical programme by Senor Uruchurtu, who played on the harp and on the rosendolin, an instrument of his own invention.

Tightens Her Skin—

(From Social Mirror)

"I want to tell you how easily and quickly I got rid of my wrinkles," writes one of our correspondents. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful appearance, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows.

"The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which I found could be procured at the drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. After bathing my face in this but once the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the deep crow's feet were affected, as were the annoying creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe that anything could produce results like these, but several to whom I recommended the remedy have been similarly helped, including and elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."

Namara as J. B. Brice, with whom she was intimately acquainted during his stay in San Francisco.

Her husband's testimony will be chiefly corroborative of hers.

Ever since the arrest of the McNamaras, subterranean reports have been coming into the District Attorney's office telling of the efforts at "fixing" on the part of laborite sleuths. It is asserted that unionite detectives have been operating for months in Los Angeles and San Francisco with the sole purpose of looking after the "welfare" of the witnesses for the State. The District Attorney thinks that the arrest of Harrington will constitute a sufficient warning to the rubber-heeled ones to respect the right of the prosecution's witnesses.

Tampering with witnesses is a felony, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding five years. There is no fine alternative.

WHOOP IT UP FOR BIG SHOW.

SHRINERS AND FRIENDS MAKE READY TO EXHIBIT.

Merchants and Tradesmen to Specialize in Preparing Their Booths With the Best in Stock—Automobile Section to Be Feature—Nearly All Space Gone.

Almost all the space is taken for the household show, to be held at Shrine Auditorium November 6-13, inclusive, for the purpose of raising enough money to defray the expenses of the great Shrine conclave in Los Angeles next May.

Many San Francisco merchants and manufacturers are becoming interested and it is likely considerable space will be taken by them. Every dollar raised from the Household Show will go for the entertainment of the great Shrine convention and fiesta. The show promises to be one of the most successful exhibitions ever held and is to be a novelty never before attempted in the West.

The automobile feature of the exhibition is to be nearly as interesting as a complete automobile show. A score of Los Angeles agents of popular machines have reserved space.

In the gallery, the Fashion Show will be held and among the exhibitors are to be all the large dry goods houses in this city. The Executive Committee has arranged to have each merchant specialize on some particular article so that it will be an actual and real fashion show of every commodity in which women are interested.

There will also be an interesting cooking contest in the gallery. The foremost retail clothiers in the city have taken space and promise an interesting exhibit. On the other side of the gallery is to be located the furniture house exhibits.

On next Saturday night more than 100 candidates will cross the hot sands and be initiated into the Shrine at the Al Malaikah Shrine Auditorium. It is one of the largest aggregations of sand steppers ever taken into the Mystic Shrine at one session.

The business meeting for the election of candidates will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A banquet is to follow and then the sandstorm is to begin.

Can't Kill Him.

FALLING'S HIS MIDDLE NAME.

Human Rubber Ball Drops Thirty Feet; Unhurt.

Has Lifetime's History of Similar Accidents.

Of rigid frame is Edgar Ralph Deming, 27 years old, living at No. 548 North Hill street. After being thrown off a porch and falling thirty feet into a cement paved basement yesterday afternoon, he got up and calmly walked to the Receiving Hospital. There it was found that his injuries were only superficial, but he was placed in a cot to await the development of possible internal injuries.

When he was 9 years old Deming fell in a similar manner and was uninjured. While in the government employ in the Philippine Islands, eight months ago, he fell over a sixty-foot embankment on horse-back. He rolled over and over with the horse to the bottom; the horse died within a few minutes but Deming escaped almost without injury.

As a result of Deming's injuries yesterday his brother-in-law, W. G. Ham, is in the City Jail, where he will be held pending the outcome. Deming declared that Ham threw him over the railing of the porch during a quarrel.

Deming said that Ham had mistreated his wife and that she is now suing him for divorce. They have separated and Ham has been living at No. 498 California street. Mrs. Ham says the court has allowed her temporary alimony and the custody of their 4-year-old child, with the understanding that Ham could see the child occasionally. She declared Ham had seen the child as often as he cared to call at Deming's home but of late that he had become surly and had threatened to take the child from her. Mrs. Ham complained to her brother and yesterday, while Deming was on his way to church, stopped in to intervene.

Ham's room is on the third floor of the apartment house at No. 498 California street and has a small balcony with an iron railing around it. Deming had scarcely spoken, he said, when his brother-in-law, a boiler maker, grappled with him, pinned his arms behind him and threw him over the railing.

A crowd collected and Ham was held until the police arrived. He was taken to the Central Police Station and there admitted that he had pushed Deming over the railing.

When Deming was a baby he figured in a similar affair with a similar outcome. He was playing with his cousin, Louis Burgess, six months his senior, in an apartment-house in Waterbury, Ct. They ran a race from the ground floor to the third floor. Deming reached the top before his cousin and the latter intending simply to scare him pushed Deming over a low railing. Deming fell to the ground, landing upon cement steps. A scar on his forehead is his only memento of the accident.

Deming spent but about two weeks in the hospital in the Philippines after falling over the embankment with his mount, despite the fact that the horse was on top of him when friends went to his rescue.

Deming's mother said yesterday that the young man is "just like a rubber ball," and that she is never greatly alarmed when she hears that he has been injured.

DOUBT TO FAITH.

Newly-Formed Bible School of First Congregational Church Discusses Steps to Belief.

The "Doubt to Faith" class in the Bible school of the First Congregational Church held its first meeting yesterday morning. The topics discussed were doubt, belief, knowledge and faith. "Doubt is an open door to knowledge and knowledge is the foundation for belief and rational faith," was the sentiments given. "Those whose dogmatic belief admits of no doubt can make no progress. This is illustrated by the mental stagnation of periods like the Dark Ages, or nations like China, that have refused to receive new ideas, as contrasted with the progress of nations like the United States.

"Belief and faith are not peculiar to religion. Much of what we call knowledge is belief. But belief that is not founded on knowledge is blind credulity. Faith to be rational must also be based on knowledge. Religious faith is founded on spiritual knowledge, and one who has not tested this by experience is liable to deny its existence, and so regard faith as mere credulity. To do the will of God is the best way to know of the doctrine."

The subject for next Sunday is, "The Word of God and the Bible."

MUSIC IN STONES.

Harmless Victim of Insanity Gathers Pebbles by Wagonload and Plays Piano Like Genius Afterward.

What is perhaps the strangest example of musical madness here or anywhere else, was brought to the attention of Los Angeles specialists yesterday in the case of Charles Augustus Valentine, who, with his keeper, now resides at No. 139 East Jefferson street.

According to George E. Murtaugh, who cares for the unfortunate musician, Valentine spends his days on the street and in the back yards near his home gathering up little sticks and stones with which he fills his pockets and every available receptacle. After accumulating what he considers to be enough of these odd treasures he returns to the house and, sitting down at the piano, plays the most intricate and difficult of classical selections with great ease and considerable technique.

For years Valentine has known no one and has scarcely recognized his own name. His mental unsoundness is the result of a fall from a horse about ten years ago, except for which it is the firm belief of Murtaugh that his pathetic charge would have been, instead, one of the greatest musicians in the world.

Valentine is entirely harmless and obeys his keeper like a child. The latter says that as long as he retains control over him his patient will never be sent to an asylum, though it is his hope that physicians may ultimately discover and remove the disturbing cause. Relatives in the city see that he lacks for nothing and even supply him with the facilities for gratifying his harmless eccentricities.

Y.M.C.A. Bachelors Form Benedicts' Club and Pair Off Rapidly—The Latest.

Dan Cupid counted two more victims of his bow at the Y.M.C.A. among the dormitory men and telephone girls yesterday, when William J. Grow and Miss Louisa Parks were married by a justice and went to Catalina on their honeymoon.

In this case, Cupid was very shy and silent in his operations. There was no public courtship that led to the final marriage vows. Miss Parks had always declared herself wholly unattached, while Grow was seemingly without an affinity. When their sudden wedding was announced friends refused to believe it, but, on looking over the license list among the last of the day, was that of Grow and his bride-to-be.

Grow is a Philadelphia man who came here about two years ago. Miss Parks has lived here with her parents for a number of years. Another Philadelphia man who has been staying at the Y.M.C.A. for a period of nearly two years left for home just a week ago to be married. His friends remember him as W. "Punk" Fenton. The announcement of a third Philadelphia man's engagement is daily expected.

The second romance of the switchboard and the dormitory is to reach its climax the middle of this month, when Edwin Kenyon Griffin will take Miss Jennie Carter for his bride. She won the admiration of Griffith by her desire to please, and less than a month ago the engagement was announced.

Arthur E. Johnson, James E. Webb, William Behr and Fred Letten are mentioned among the runners in the Cupid handicap. Joe Minster, for years a resident of the dormitory, recently announced his engagement.

All of these young men were among the first to enter the Y.M.C.A. dormitories. They formed exclusive clubs and entertained lavishly during the last few years. At times they leased the Woman's Club for fashionable dances. On two other occasions they chartered private cars and took their best girls to beach parties. Musicals and other events were frequent occurrences.

Now it's to be the bungalow and accessories.

At Last Finds Time.

Sweet Strains of Her Cornet Developed Love in Chicago Surgeon's Breast and Flaxen-haired Los Angeles Miss Is Coming Back a Woman Grown and Married.

Dr. Hugo V. Pribyl and his wife, formerly Miss Edna M. Knudson of this city, are on their way here on their honeymoon trip, which had its beginning in Clermont, Iowa. They are expected at the Angelus to be the guests of C. C. and Harry Loomis, and thereby develops this story.

Eight or ten years ago, when the Broadway Van Nuys Hotel was the latest and most modern downtown establishment of its kind in the city, the Loomis brothers were on the staff of the hotel. Even in those days music was fashionable in the dining-room, and among the players was a little tow-headed girl who had a remarkable ability with the cornet.

She was in her teens and attracted the attention of music lovers who happened in at the hotel during meal times. When the Hotel Angelus was opened, the same girl, still in her teens, came over to that house and was one of the leading attractions in the dining-room during the daily concerts.

Her playing by this time was bringing her more than passing attention, and one day an eastern music master, hearing her performance on the wind instrument, became interested in her natural ability and offered to take her East and place her under the best cornetists in the country for instruction. That happened about six years ago.

A year later she began to play in concert and was finally rated among the three best cornet players in the United States. Her salary ascended to a point where she received as much as $250 for a performance. In eastern centers she was in so great demand that she could not find time to return here for a visit. Her voice had also shown timbre of excellent quality and after two or three years of training along vocal lines, she took a place among the singers of the country that was enviable.

Her introduction into Chicago society brought, among other acquaintances, Dr. Pribyl, who is a specialist and surgeon of considerable reputation. Also a music lover, he found more than congeniality in Miss Knudson and the marriage resulted. Now she, with his wife, who still has many friends here, are coming to renew some of the old friendships.

DANCES SKIP EASTWARD.

Spanish Fandangoes Introduced to the Two-Step and the Waltz. Graceful Movements Attract.

Western atmosphere is gradually impregnating the dances of the elite of the eastern cities, according to W. Davenport Platt, son of a millionaire tinware manufacturer of Baltimore, who arrived at the Alexandria yesterday, in company with his aunt, Mrs. Platt-Stone. The trip to the Pacific Coast was made in a Packard automobile.

Dancing is the one hobby of the youthful Baltimorian. He admits that he would rather dance than eat.

"They are introducing through the East many of the movements of the Spanish dances," he said. "These are wonderfully graceful, you know, and are a real delight to the eye. The Russian dancing has also been gaining a hold with the coming of the various famous Russian ballettiers. They are only possible in a modified form for Americans for the reason that they are far too strenuous and tiring."

The many new styles in dancing are attributed by Platt to the coming of the Merry Widow and the troupes of foreign dancers who have helped to arouse new interest in the art which had dwindled to nothing but two-step and waltz.

After his tour of America, Platt is going to Germany. There he will take up the study of architecture at the Royal Academy of Munich. Already he has achieved fame in Baltimore as an artist and this talent he expects to put into commercial use if it ever becomes essential by the loss of his father's millions.

Charged With Murder.

INSANITY MAY BE THE DEFENSE OF MRS. FORD.

Is This Woman Insane?

She is Mrs. Caroline E. Ford, who will face trial in the Superior Court on Thursday, for the slaying of her husband, A. P. Ford, last April. During the last few days Mrs. Ford became so violent in her cell at the County Jail that it was necessary to remove her to the detention ward of the County Hospital. The killing of Ford was accompanied and followed by actions on the part of Mrs. Ford so remarkable as to lend color to the theory which her attorneys intimate will be a part of her defense.

IN VIEW of the fact that, according to Attorney Frank Domingues, insanity is likely to be one of the pleas entered in the defense of Mrs. Caroline Ford, whose trial for the slaying of her husband is scheduled for Thursday, it is probable that the prosecution will attempt to prove that there was method in the alleged attack of madness, which recently seized the prisoner.

Ever since April 28, when she fired the shot which sent to his death her husband, whom she accused of abusing her beyond her endurance, Mrs. Ford has been confined in the County Jail. She has made little trouble for the authorities there until within the last few days, when she began to show signs of seeming insanity. Her acts of violence were such that the authorities were obliged to send her to the insane ward of the County Hospital. Since her arrival there, however, her conduct has been quiet, and all evidence of insanity has been utterly lacking. According to Edwin H. Hutchinson, in charge of the ward, she will be able to attend the trial Thursday.

Mrs. Ford will be defended during her coming trial by Attorney Earl Rogers and Frank Domingues. Domingues said yesterday that a continuance will probably be asked, because of the mental condition of the defendant.

The Fords formerly lived at No. 1428 West Thirtieth street. Mrs. Ford was a student of Ray Hastings, a teacher of music, who, it is intimated, will figure largely in the evidence. On the day of the tragedy, Ford found Hastings and Mrs. Ford in the parlor, where a music lesson was in progress. According to the woman, Ford accused and struck her brutally.

Mrs. Ford ran to her room for a revolver, returned and shot her husband to death, after which she went to her room and began to play light, happy selections on the piano. When arrested, she said, "Yes, I shot him, but he has slain me a hundred times in the course of our seventeen years of married life. I made people believe I loved him, but it was a lie. Now I am glad it is over, and I need not lie any longer."

Feast of Reason.

SCIENTISTS AT FESTAL BOARD.

SAVANTS BANQUET AND DISCUSS TOPICS OF INTEREST.

The Southwest Society of the School of American Archeology Gather to Enjoy Spanish Feast and Talk Over Relative Attainments of the Past and Future.

A Spanish dinner was given last night to members of the Southwest Society of the School of American Archeology, at the home of Charles F. Lummis in the Arroyo Seco. Although not in the best of health, Dr. Lummis personally welcomed the guests. Among those attending were Dr. B. W. Bacon, Hector Alliot, Prof. J. H. Foshay, Dr. J. A. Munk, Dr. George L. Raymond, Robert N. Bulla, Edgar L. Hewett and other members of the executive board of the society.

Dr. Hewett, director of the School of American Archeology of the Archeological Institute of America, arrived in Los Angeles from Santa Fe, N. M., yesterday, and in an informal address last night he spoke at length on the work being done by the school. Dr. Hewett is a man of rare ability and of untiring energy and his work in his chosen field has been of inestimable worth to the scientific world. For years he has been conducting excavations of buried cities and ruins of the Southwest, and his remarks concerning this line of work were received with appreciation by his hearers. In addition to an illustrated address on "Prehistoric Guatemala," at the Arrow Theater, in the Hamburger building, tomorrow night, Dr. Hewett, will deliver several other addresses. Tomorrow morning he will speak before the members of the Los Angeles High School, Wednesday morning he will speak at the Polytechnic High School and Thursday morning he will address the students at the Manual Arts School. Thursday night he will deliver an illustrated address on "The Cliff Dwellers" at the Arrow Theater. Dr. Hewett contends that the cliff dwellers were far more intelligent and advanced than were the mound builders, which he says is proved by their superior architecture, if by nothing else.

In a brief address last night Prof. Lummis spoke of the effort on the part of professors of achaeology to humanize this science and to thus bring the study of this great branch of science within the possible scope of every student of nature's laws. Archaeology, he said, is not the study of Latin or Greek, but a study of the people and customs of the past and present.

It is the hope of the Southwest Society to soon erect a splendid free museum in Los Angeles for the education and entertainment of visitors.

Of the forty branches of the School of American Archeology, the Southwest Society is the largest, containing a membership of more than 400.

It was stated last night that a meeting of the Southwest Society will probably soon be held at San Diego.

Among other features of last night's entertainment was a unique musical programme by Senor Uruchurtu, who played on the harp and on the rosendolin, an instrument of his own invention.

Tightens Her Skin—
Loses Her Wrinkles

(From Social Mirror)

"I want to tell you how easily and quickly I got rid of my wrinkles," writes one of our correspondents. "While in London a friend, much envied because of her youthful appearance, gave me a formula for a home-made preparation which has the effect of instantly tightening the skin, thus smoothing out wrinkles and furrows.

"The principal ingredient is powdered saxolite, which I found could be procured at the drug stores here. An ounce of saxolite is dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. After bathing my face in this but once the transformation was so marvelous I looked years younger. Even the deep crow's feet were affected, as were the annoying creases about my neck. It seems difficult to believe that anything could produce results like these, but several to whom I recommended the remedy have been similarly helped, including and elderly lady whose cheeks had become quite baggy."

SHARP QUERIES AWAIT.

Namara as J. B. Brice, with whom she was intimately acquainted during his stay in San Francisco.

Her husband's testimony will be chiefly corroborative of hers.

Ever since the arrest of the McNamaras, subterranean reports have been coming into the District Attorney's office telling of the efforts at "fixing" on the part of laborite sleuths. It is asserted that unionite detectives have been operating for months in Los Angeles and San Francisco with the sole purpose of looking after the "welfare" of the witnesses for the State. The District Attorney thinks that the arrest of Harrington will constitute a sufficient warning to the rubber-heeled ones to respect the right of the prosecution's witnesses.

Tampering with witnesses is a felony, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding five years. There is no fine alternative.

GREAT SHOOTING WHILE IT LASTS.

The duck season opened yesterday, figuratively "in a blaze of glory." Everybody got the limit—or had the chance. Sprigs and teal were as plentiful as they usually are.

It was a good shoot. Everybody was happy; and in the general happiness it was forgotten that the duck feed which alone can keep the birds in the country, is sprouting. Hunters are enjoying a Lucullian feast now; then famine. And ducks will not stand grief of the crushed-craw and grinding-gizzard order. The sport was fiercely fast while it lasted.

More than twice as many ducks were shot yesterday than on the opening day one year ago. Limits were secured on every pond. The birds flew higher than usual and were kept on the move constantly from sunrise until 11 o'clock when the bombardment ceased.

BOLSA CLUBS BAG LIMITS: SMALL-BORE SHOTS ON JOB.

Sprig, Teal and Mallard Fly High Over Marshes as the Cannonade Opens on Feathered Beauties, Which Fly at Lightning Speed Toward the Ocean—Poachers Get Few Birds.

WITH their sixteen, twenty and twenty-eight-bore guns cracking forth in merriest of sporting music to the tune of a shot to the second—and sometimes two and three—the Southern California lords of the artesian overflows swung into the duck season of 1911-12 yesterday morning just after daybreak, and in a minute had struck their strides.

For an hour and a half the sharp spat of the wicked-shooting small-bores spelled the swift death of a dozen sprigs and twice as many teal to the minute. The cannonade was continuous, and the splash of stricken birds all but incessant. In every direction rifle-like reports of narrow-gauge guns rang, short and snappy, an instant before one sensed the still sharper crash of the tiny shot loads speeding to their final lodgment in the center of big ducks' vitals. Only a handful of feathers floating in the air—for these little toys with their high velocity partly pluck the poor birds—and the final splash told the story.

Featured by the greatest turnout of sportsmen the southern shooting clubs have ever seen. It was the concensus of opinion that the inauguration of the sprig and teal season was the most successful on record. Not in point of birds butchered to make a Roman holiday; not in mere numbers and volume of slaughter, for there have been other opening days when, if the bombardment was not at least as great, bigger limits made the butchery more spectacular in its aggregate.

The truly remarkable and salient characteristic of this open day was the phenomenally rapid rise of the spirit of true sportsmanship as evidenced in the general adoption by the high-shooting capitalists of the little guns that kill clean or miss clean and put the highest possible premium upon personal pointing skill.

Men who last year were as inseparably wedded to their old "twelves" apparently as to their wives, quietly sneaked out their editions-de-luxe of the latest thought in fluid-compressed steel and Circassian walnut binding, passed the little beauties around and announced their determination to stand or fall for the limit on the possibilities of their last little pets. It is an essentially wholesome movement, too general to be characterized as a "fad," and the verdict last night was general—the "twenties" and "twenty-eights" have made good.

The Bolsa of Orange county was lined with road hunters. Deputy Fish Commissioner W. Robinson, who put in the day among them, estimating the number about 300; and even these unattached gentry managed to get a few ducks, one of the best shots accumulating sixteen, and two others twenty-nine between them.

Probably the net average would have been a fraction of a duck per man. The occasional birds that passed close enough to a charge of shot to be stopped by it usually were riddled by over-anxious neighbors trying to establish a lien upon the meat, and many amusing squabbles resulted.

A few real shots and sportsmen were on the roads and tried their best to keep the "navvies" from spoiling everybody's sport with the heedless, indiscriminate high-shooting at birds beyond the range of any smooth-bored gun; but it was a hopeless task, and the know-nothings as usual overruled the wiser heads and fed fat the hard feeling entertained by the clubmen against those who spoil their high-priced sport and surreptitiously overrun the shootings they have worked so hard and spent so much money to build up.

Every club had a full house; nearly all made it open day for both squads, and being Sunday everyone could get away. All Saturday afternoon the automobiles whizzed their loads of expectant sportsmen to the clubhouses while triple-car trains on the Pacific Electric dumped an army of shot-spenders, attached and unattached, at the web-footed stations of Gamewell, Los Patos, Zaferia and the other sporting strongholds.

AN EXCITING DAWN.

The morning dawned overcast; hot, muggy and the mosquitoes at once opened the season upon the unprotected ears of the scatter-gunners. Only the belated coming of daylight coinciding very nearly with the legal onset of shooting time saved the law from a truly terrifying generality of fracture.

Coming events had cast their shadow before in the form of occasional pops along the line that denoted the usually successful attempt of some teal or sprig to run the gauntlet; but when the big bell tolled its first note, there no longer was any doubt of the day, or the occasion.

Chinatown on the opening day of New Year pales into the feeble fallure of a funny story told to a deaf man comparison. Tens of thousands of

THIRTEEN GET LIMIT ON THE CANVASBACK.

A baker's dozen of gunners held forth on the ponds of the Canvasback Land & Water Company, and for the first time in the history of the club opened the season with water full to the overflow gates. The shooting was of the finest possible sporting character, the flight being incessant, and of the typical "pass" nature for which these grounds are justly celebrated, the line of flight from the Blue Wing and Chico being right across the eighty.

All hands went home with the limit, several early in the morning. L. E. Parker, E. A. Featherstone, L. A. Denker and H. D. Becker, got their birds with twenty-bores. Edwin L. Hedderly opened up with a twenty-eight-gauge and bagged the limit of all the birds, which were in season. The rest were shooting sixteens, the Canvasback being now a small-bore club, none of the members sticking to their twelves nowadays.

Others who took in the sport were W. F. Chandler, Jacob Dans second, E. A. Featherstone, J. H. Snowden, A. E. Merro, Thomas McD. Potter, E. O. McLaughlin and his son, Edward, who killed ten birds, and bids fair to beat his dad if the latter does not watch out.

The grounds were stocked heavily with large waders, and all who wanted had no difficulty in bagging the limit of these big birds.

RECORD SPORT ON THE WEST SHORE.

Everybody who could get away took a crack at 'em on the West Shore Gun Club grounds opening day—a dozen and a half in all. Everybody came home on the bit with a sack full. Paul Blair shot his new twenty-eight and got all the law allows. Everybody was through at 3 o'clock. Among those present were William Schneider, Dr. Cook, C. J. Black, Dr. Lauberscheimer, Lou Collette, Dr. Hagan, A. B. Wilmans, W. H. Cline, Garrett, Harry Burt and Earl Clark.

Four mallards and a redhead came to grief among the grist of sprigs and teal.

JOE LEVY STILL PEEVED AT KILBANE.

Joe Levy, manager for Rivers, is very peevish about the action of Kilbane in refusing to sign up for a third bout with his man, and yesterday issued a statement setting forth his position and feelings in the matter. He said:

"In the recent tournament which Mr. McCarey has been giving, there has been six of the best young fellows in the country fighting each other. It narrowed down to Rivers, Kilbane and Conley. Rivers defeated Kilbane once, but was game enough to give the boy a chance to come back. By a lucky blow, he won from Rivers. With the other boys, who included Dixon, Coster and Conley, out of the way, the standing is now that Rivers has one decision over Kilbane and the latter has one decision over Rivers.

"It seems to me eminently fair that when the contests stand one all that Rivers and Kilbane should meet again and decide the rubber.

"There can be no monetary consideration that should stand in the way of Kilbane or any other of the boys meeting Rivers. He has always been a great drawing card, and the ovation which he received Saturday when he stepped into the ring was greater than that given the principals when they came on.

"Kilbane can make more money, and that is what we are all in the business of fighting for, by staying here and meeting Rivers for the third and deciding time.

"I still believe that Kilbane is afraid of Rivers."

Portland En Route.

"FIVE GAMES FROM VERNON: WE TAKE FLAG"---M'CREDIE

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With sixteen regular players and Trainer Schmieder, McCredie and his Beavers left tonight for Los Angeles, and Wednesday afternoon the Portland champions will meet the Vernon Tigers in the first game of what is expected to be the crucial series of the 1911 pennant race.

The Portland team is in fine shape to meet the rival bidders for this year's flag. Ben Henderson has volunteered to pitch three of the games to be played this week. He has the distinction of having won the pennant for Portland in 1906, and hopes to win another flag for the Beavers. Henderson thinks he can beat the Vernon team any time he starts.

"If we can win five of the eight games with Vernon this week," said McCredie this morning, "and I think we can, then the Beavers should win the flag the following week when they meet Los Angeles, while Vernon is hooking-up with the hard-hitting Oaks.

On the other hand, if Vernon should take the majority of the games, Portland's chances from then on, we realize, would be decidedly slim, for it is hardly likely we could make up enough ground against the Angels and the Seals to offset the Vernon advantage to be secured by defeating the Beavers."

The Beavers will reach Los Angeles tomorrow night and will be ready for the battle of the season the following afternoon.

Aftermath.

DOCTORS PATCH UP FIGHTERS

Both Kilbane and Conley Were Repaired.

Johnny Has Cleaned Up Ten Thousand Dollars.

Willing to Fight Rivers; So Is Frankie Conley.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

With the scalps of Patsy Kil[lane], Frankie Conley and Joe Rivers hanging at his belt Johnny Kilbane, the wonderful little fighter from the Tri-angle in Cleveland left yesterday on the Santa Fe for his home.

He was as smiling and debonair as usual and did not have a complaint to make about his treatment while out here. He has fought four especially hard battles in Los Angeles and won three of them, losing one to Joe Rivers, but afterwards reversing that little affair decisively. He has made a little over $10,000 in his money in the six months he has been in California and has spent very little of it, as Johnny is very frugal and canny in monetary matters.

His right hand was swollen to [twice] again its original size as a result of the terrific punches which he landed on practically every inch of Conley's anatomy. His hand was injured while training and he was nursing it during the fight as much as possible but was naturally forced to use it a great deal. He had a surgeon treat it yesterday morning before embarking for Cleveland. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kilbane and their baby and their manager Jimmy Dunn.

"Now, look here," said Kilbane [just] before he stepped into his Pullman, "you tell the people out here that I am not running away. I have been out here for months and have met every man that was put before me. I have done everything that I was asked to do and ave received magnificent treatment all the way around. I like Los Angeles and I am coming back.

"There seems to be a demand that I give Joe Rivers another chance. [Well], I will give him another chance all right, but I have something which I must attend to in Cleveland, and have been away from home for many months and have been fighting hard and training a long time. I want a little rest and I am going to get it. I will try and get back here before the first of the year, and if Mr. McCarey can arrange it, I will meet Rivers at that time.

"Conley wants another chance with me, but I don't think that it would be desirable from the showing he made Saturday. However, if he and Rivers are matched and if he should defeat Rivers, I will give him and Rivers a chance."

I asked Kilbane if he was on the trail of Abie Attell, the wonderful little Hebrew, as it seems now that Kilbane is the logical challenger for the world's championship in the featherweight class now held by Attell.

"I am not exactly on Attell's trail," said Kilbane, "but of course my ambition is to meet and defeat him. If everything looks right during the next few months I will try and meet Attell."

FRANKIE CONLEY HAS NO KICK COMING

Little Frankie Conley with his battered face screwed into a semblance of a smile yesterday was the personification of gameness and cheerfulness. "I have no kick coming at all," said Conley, as he patiently submitted to the attention of a surgeon who was treating his bruised left eye. "All I want is another chance at Kilbane. If the fight had gone forty rounds, I would have won. There was never a moment during the fight when I was jarred by Kilbane's blows. In the fourth round my bad eye which was injured in a collision with Curly O'Connell, closed entirely and after that I was fighting with but one eye to see with.

"However, that does not change the result. Kilbane is a wonderful fighter and the cleverest that I have ever met, and I do not want to even suggest that my statements that Kilbane should be robbed of a particle of the glory of getting a decision over me. All I want to say is that I am glad that the fight fans appreciate that I am game, and that they realize how I was handicapped by my bad eye.

"I am not going to fight for some time now. I am going to rest up and will not enter the ring again until my eye is thoroughly healed. In my fight with Kilbane it bothered me and looked to the spectators as though I was getting punished a great deal when it was only that one bad cut, as was the same way Saturday in my fight with Kilbane. I have not a mark on my face or body from any of Kilbane's blows, except the damage done to my bad eye.

"After I have given my eye a good rest, and it is perfectly healed, I will gladly take on Joe Rivers, as there seems to be a demand that we meet. I understand that Rivers is willing and I will be ready when my eye is healed.

"I will defeat Rivers. He is a man who stands up to you and fights, and that is the kind that I like. I think that he can hit harder than Kilbane and is a very fast man, but I am confident that I can beat him, and that I would like to have another chance at Kilbane over the same route or longer one, if possible."

HOSP ON SHELF.

Frank Hosp, the Vernon shortstop, turned one of his ankles in the afternoon game yesterday and was on the shelf after the second inning. It is to be hoped that he will be able to play in the Port'and-Vernon games, for he will be very much missed if he is out of the game. It is thought that a rest until Wednesday will bring him into condition again.

HOGAN GETTING READY.

Hap Hogan, manager of the Vernon team, wired to President Graham of the Pacific Coast League last night asking to have Jimmy Toman appointed an assistant umpire here this week to assist the regular ump, Hilderbrand, in the crucial Vernon-Portland series.

Vernon, 3; Los Angeles, 1. Morning me.

Vernon, 10; Los Angeles, 2. Afternon game.

Cheered on by the thought that pennant was in sight and that results of yesterday would change standing of the clubs and possibly ock the Beavers out of first place, Tigers tore into Hen Berry's Anes yesterday and just about clawed ry feather out of them.

The Tigers won both games, havtaken the seven straight in the ies.

The best part of the victories was t taken in connection with the lure of the Beavers to play on acnt of rain at Portland. The Vernon m is now in the lead by four nts and the chances are that if y can get away with the series this k they will win the pennant.

More than 5000 fans turned out to the afternoon game and what the gel rooters didn't see would probly have made them feel better than at they had to look at. Moore at t base and Dulin at second had a rible time of it trying to catch the l and throw it, and while enough rs were made by the Tigers in the h inning on the square there were ough scored in other innings on ors and bunglies to lose two games. ore had an awful day of it, with no than three errors, while Dulin two. Some of the knockers finalgot to applauding every time one these poor fellows made a perfect y.

ALL ONE WAY.

The struggle turned out to be a y tame one, as a matter of fact, soon after the start the score ame so one-sided that the fans y cheered by fits and starts and ny of them left the grounds in the enth inning when they saw the gels hopelessly beaten off. The illant work of Burrell kept many them excited and he was largely trumental in sending in four of Tiger runs. These were enough win the game with.

Logan picked out Carson to heave the Tigers and he pitched beautiball for five innings. In the h he was soused hard and finally red in the seventh to give Kilroy hance to warm up. Altogether the gels got ten swats off these two gers.

Their only runs came in the sixth ich Metzger started off with a sinto left. Daley hit one to right both scored when Dulin tried to ck the left fence down with a ible. A double play on himself Delmas ended the chances in this ing, however.

Only five of the locals got as far third base, the first one being y in the first inning on a pass, l and Dulin's hit. Moore's double a wild pitch put him there in third; the two men who scored the two in the sixth and Daley ded there in the eighth.

SERVICES OPEN EARLY.

The Angels looked like a girl on a torcycle riding past Gaby Delisemen when it came to runs, if one spares them to what the Tigers Hap's champions did not make more hits than the Angels did but got theirs right. A fielder's ice, a steal and a Burrell double ted them right with one in the ond and a double, triple and two les got two more easy ones in the d. These were enough runs to win game with, but the Tigers kept it on as if they needed a dozen. Moore muff at first, a sacrifice and ingle sent in another in the fourth. The fifth was a good one for the ers for they cleaned up three more s. After Ross was an easy infield

Patterson singled to center, adced to third on Brashear's pass Stinson's infield single and then h the bases full Agnew went wrong walked McDonnell, forcing in terson. Burrell followed with his nd double over third base, which red Brashear and Stinson. In the enth a pass, single, fielder's choice, out and two errors by Dulin made more runs. The final one reed from a pass, sacrifice, an error an out. It was all very, very addition to hitting two doubles rell electrified the big crowd of with fine running foul catches the bleacher fence in the fourth fifth innings. In addition to as he had no less than five assists ch were made without a slip. He easily the star of the game.

FREAK MORNING GAME.

The morning game at the Vernon nds was a little on the freak er, for the Tigers made three runs four hits and four errors. Both hi and Hitt did fine pitching. For onder there were no home runs.

elhi flung a four-hit game and n lost, which certainly shows how luck will stick to a fellow at es. Three of these pokes came in anch in the third inning and the runs that resulted were all the ers needed but they got another the fourth for good measure.

Hitt began the third by flying to ey. Then Carlisle and Ross beat infield singles by fast sprinting Patterson rapped the ball to the ter fence for a triple that sent in h runners. Here was a real time-swat for you.

n the fourth with one out Burrell passed, got to second on Brown's eld out and scored when Hitt de a bouncing single over the in. This was the last hit for the ers in the game and it was the last e any of them got to first base, for hi was invincible after that fourth ing.

The Mammoth Swimming Tank in the New Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Which was filled with water yesterday morning. A dozen of the club's best swimmers peeled off their clothes and cavorted around in the clear water for half an hour. Francis Gailey, holder of several world's swimming records, swam 100 feet, the length of the tank, in 17 seconds. Ben Watlington, Gordo Whelan, Bill Parker, Louis Aluset, Eltinge Brown and Cliff Reuman were the first members to enjoy a spash in the club natatorium.

Tremendous.

GRAND SWIMMING PLUNGE IN NEW ATHLETIC CLUB.

Was Formally Opened Yesterday in the Presence of a Company of Distinguished Swimming Stars and the Club Directors—Gigantic Pool Was an Idea of Mr. Huntington's—The Club's Progress.

IN THE presence of a number of the directors and interested members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club the great tank forming the plunge of the club in the magnificent new building on West Seventh street was filled with water yesterday afternoon.

While the building is not completed and will require several months more work, the plunge is about ready and the directors and the contractors of the building desired to see how the tremendous weight of the filled tank would affect the frame work of the great structure. The ceremony of filling the plunge was carried out with little ostentation.

In addition to the directors, officials, and a few members of the club there were several noted swimmers who had the honor of taking the first plunge in the big tank. They were: Ben Watlington, Bill Parker, Gordo Whelan, Louis Aluset, Elt Brown, Roger Cornell and Francis Gailey. An impromptu match was arranged in which Watlington, Whelan and Gailey were entered. Gailey, who is champion of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, won the races and negotiated the 100 feet in 17 seconds.

That the filling the tank was a complete success is a tribute not only to the ability of the architects who carried out the scheme but also, to the genius of the man who first suggested it.

To H. E. Huntington credit is due for originating the suggestion which gave Los Angeles a swimming bath which even before its completion is becoming noted all over the world and which will be rivaled in luxurious appointments, not even by the famous baths of ancient Rome.

Yesterday when the great plunge was filled with water, so perfectly had every strain been provided for that not a rivet started, and this tremendous load of over 1,500,000 pounds produced no more effect upon the massive Athletic Club building than the filling of an ordinary bath tub.

When Mr. Huntington first suggested the idea of locating this mammoth plunge upon the sixth floor, the directors were staggered by the problems and expense involved, but they were quick to grasp the advantage of a location which not alone placed the plunge upon the same level as the gymnasium, but also gave it the benefit of sunlight and air from every side instead of locating it in the basement where darkness and dampness were certain to prevail.

This extraordinary swimming bath is located on the south side of the building in a room so large that it is hard to realize the size of the plunge itself, which is practically the same dimensions as the Olympic Club's great plunge.

SWIMMING IN SUNSHINE.

The room itself is filled with light and sunshine from the east, south and west, as well as from the large dome overhead. The room is 155 feet in length, while the plunge is 100 feet long by 32 feet in width. It is 10 feet deep for a considerable distance and then slopes gradually to its minimum depth of 4 fet at the shallow end.

The tank is of half-inch boiler steel, double riveted and capable of withstanding a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch, although the greatest strain to which it will ever be subjected will not exceed 5 pounds. It is supported by 40 massive steel beams, each one of which contains 1200 pounds of rivets.

The construction presents many interesting features. The steel tank will be coated inside with a waterproof preparation thoroughly protecting the steel from all moisture. On top of this will be three thicknesses of malthoid, thoroughly cemented together with a water-poof material, thus doubly insuring that no water will reach the steel itself.

Inside of this will come a concrete lining of a maximum thickness of twelve inches, and this in turn will be covered with an exceptionally fine quality of white tile, trimmed with marble.

The entire plunge room with its accessories will be floored with white tile. Warm brown tones on the walls will still further enhance the attractiveness of the floods of warm sunshine and the whole will be relieved by the liberal use of potted plants, large palms and tropical foliage of appropriate character.

At each end of the plunge room are large showers with the proper accessories thereto so that there will be no inconvenience to the members in observing the rule, which will be rigidly enforced, that each user of the plunge must first take a shower.

HEALTH PRECAUTION.

In order to intelligently protect the members from any risk of contagious diseases from the use of the plunge, the directors have gone into the matter thoroughly with the best experts locally and abroad and much interesting and instructive data was obtainable only by sending to Germany for the results of exhaustive experiments made in that country in the thorough manner for which German scientists are noted.

The club's local medical committee were unanimous as to the necessity of observing proper precautions for the safeguarding of members using the pool and are now working out regulations, which will be the last word upon this subject.

In order to render the water itself, sanitary and clean, a complete filtering plant is being installed at an expense of over $10,000. This plant, which is a study in itself, will have a capacity of 36,000 gallons per hour and is the largest plant ever installed in a private building.

Not only will it render the water as clear as crystal, but it will also extract all germs and bacteria which might exist in the water and from these filters a constant stream of clean water will enter the plunge through the mouth of a lion grotesque, carved out of a solid block of marble.

CONSTANT FRESH WATER.

Not only will the water in the plunge be constantly changing, but every second day it will be entirely emptied, cleaned and refilled. In addition thereto, a white tile drain of beautiful proportions will act as an overflow around the entire tank, which will be constantly skimmed, thereby removing the surface water which is most rapidly contaminated by use. This drain also is arranged to act as a cuspidor and members will not be allowed to expectorate in the water.

As a matter of interesting comparison, this plunge is eight feet longer than the large Bimini plunge, and while not quite so wide, it is also four feet deeper.

It is especially designed to give the best results for swimming races and water polo and there is ample room for spectators not only on the plunge floor, itself, but in the large gallery which entirely surrounds it.

The club is now canvassing the country in an endeavor to secure the very best swimming instructor in the world in order to carry out its policy in this direction. It is perhaps not generally known that the Los Angeles Athletic Club has the highest priced and most efficient staff of athletic instructors of any organization in the United States and that for five years past it has maintained this staff and gives to its members, free of charge, instruction for which other clubs make regular charge.

In its new quarters the club will be thoroughly equipped to carry on its educational work of teaching its members how to live, improve their health and more nearly approach physical perfection. Its specialty will be health and increased vigor for the business and professional man and the symmetrical and intelligent development of the growing youth. Healthful amusement will be tributary to these greater ends.

CHANCE'S TEAM CAN WIN ONLY BY MIRACLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Bad weather prevented more than two of the National League clubs from playing a game Sunday but these two happened to be the leaders in the pennant race.

The game resulted in a victory for New York by a shut-out score, making the series an ever break. It increased New York's lead over Chicago to fifty-six points, New York's advantage now being so great that should Chicago win all her remaining seven scheduled games, New York will have to win but three of her remaining twelve to capture the flag. Should Chicago win all and New York but two, a tie for the pennant would result. The standing:

GIANTS CINCH PENNANT BY DEFEATING CUBS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Chicago's pennant hopes were shattered again by New York when the visitors shut out the locals 5 to 0. About the best Chicago can expect now is to tie the easterners for the pennant, as New York is 7½ games in the lead and Chicago has only six remaining games on the schedule, while New York has twelve games to play.

Today's game was a pitchers' battle between Marquard, who was easy for the locals in one of the previous games, and Richie, who won the opening game with ease. But Marquard showed his old form and was almost invincible. He allowed the locals six scattered hits, while Richie, who held the easterners to three hits up to the eighth, weakened and was hit hard. Seven hits in these two innings netted five runs for New York. Chicago got a man as far as third in the second inning and again in the seventh inning, in which all bases were filled. Once again they got a man as far as third in the ninth. Score:

NO FIGHTS ON CRUISER.

Admiral Thomas Prevents Big Bout Scheduled for Sunday on War Vessel.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral Chauncey Thomas put the ban on a prize fight between Sailor Fox, champion middleweight of the fleet, and Joe Metz, title holder of the submarine fleet, scheduled to take place aboard the cruiser West Virginia this afternoon.

The fight was to have taken place at Coronado yesterday. However, anticipated action by the authorities caused the bout to be called off, with the understanding that it could be staged today on the West Virginia. When Admiral Thomas learned that hundreds of visitors, including many women, were aboard the cruiser early in the afternoon, he gave orders forbidding the bout.

BOLSA CLUBS BAG LIMITS.

birds departed on the run, but a few others had drifted in to keep the lingerers company and there was more than enough sporting material to go around.

Teal and sprigs were the prevailing birds, and the smaller varieties were divided in the proportion of three-quarters green-wings and the remainder cinnamon, mistaken by most for the eastern bluewings, which they are not. The bluewing is a very casual straggler here. Some mallards, a few gadwell, an occasional widgeon, made up the bulk of the bag. The festive "spoonie" was absent, and will get his portion later.

All the birds were in splendid condition for the table, although how long they will continue so is another story. The rain sprouted all the natural duck feed, and in ten days or two weeks the birds will find very little to interest them outside the ponds, and it is up to the clubs to provide the provender.

SHORT SHOOTS.

Few found it necessary to remain out longer than an hour and a half. The best shots were picking up their limits very soon after 9 o'clock. A few picked big birds on the Westminster and Blue Wing and stayed out a little later; some who had outgunned themselves in narrowing their bores, took longer to turn the trick; but in general the sport was soon over.

No wind, and a continuous performance of teal for all who wanted them, kept the excitement at fever heat. Guns burned at the heads and shooters had to turn their backs to the flight, bow their heads and let them go for the next blind.

It was sport truly magnificent, far fitter for kings than the beating over of hand-reared pheasants at thirty yards with cylinder-bored twelves, organized, like charity, to cover a multitude of sins—of aiming.

When it was all over, the good shots took a long breath, turned to look again at the ducking, diving, dodging little devils of teal as they wheeled and whirred within prettiest range of freshly vacated blinds. It required real fortitude to stop at the limit when the only difference between the best shot and the poorest was a matter of minutes.

ALSO SNIPE.

Everywhere were bands of big snipe; flocks of twenty or thirty, individuals, and owing to a general misunderstanding of the patchwork game law, some sportsmen refrained from shooting any of them, while others, convinced from the conflict of regulations laid down for their government that none were valid, opened up on whatever came within range of the limit.

Even the officers of the Fish and Game Commission seem to be very hazy upon the exact definition of their duty on this point, owing to a general error in calling the long, straight-billed Marlin snipe or godwits, "curlew" or "straight-billed curlew."

Curlew they are not; the true curlew is a sickle-billed bird, larger than the jack marlins now here, and an exact understanding of the law on the part of the commission's patrol force should be insured at once by properly instructing the deputies, which is, or should be a part of the duties of the chief deputy of the commission. These birds were a limit possibility and seemed to be in unusual supply.

GOOD LUCK AT WEST SHORE CLUB.

Those who visited the preserves of the West Shore Gun Club on the I. W. Hellman Ranch east of Long Beach yesterday were amply rewarded. Eighteen of the club's members passed the morning in bringing the ducks down. The party got an early start at the birds, having spent the night at the clubhouse That the shooting was first class is testified to by the fact that each member of the party had secured the limit before 10 o'clock and the best shots had finished several hours earlier.

Among the eighteen who enjoyed the sport were: Dr. G. A. Lubersheimer, C. J. Black, Joe Barnett, Harry Hurt, Pete Dumsel, Dr. Ralph Hagan, W. Clark, Paul Bisir, W. F. McFarland, Wm. Snyder, W. S. Garrett, Lou Collcette, Billy Cline, F. T. Jerkens, Dr. Clarence Cook and E. P. Wood.

THIRTEEN LIMITS ON WESTMINSTER.

Everybody got the limit on the Westminster—and got it early. Duffy Swarts laid for sprigs and got two dozen of them, with a mallard for the other bird. J. M. Elliott had twenty-three sprigs, a gadwell and a widgeon. Jackson A. Graves had ten sprigs, two widgeon and a baker's dozen of teal in his bag. All had the limit at 6:45 except one new member, W. E. Keller, who was not used to the conditions.

In all 325 ducks were killed. Walter R. Leeds, E. H. Barmore, G. W. Gates, C. C. Carpenter, F. E. Browne, Chanslor, Klokke, Stoddard Jess, Robert W. Kenny and E. J. Gates were on hand.

C. W. Gates has provided himself with a twenty and a twenty-eight-gauge gun, both Parkers. He is a warm enthusiast now, and has laid aside everything larger for good.

Quack! Quack!

MANY LIMITS ON ALAMITOS.

CRACK SHOTS BAG BIG BIRDS ON FIELDS OF RICE.

Mallards and Sprigs, With Hundreds of Teal, Fall Before the Mighty Nimrods, Who Shoot Over the Marshes With Old-Time Accuracy and Secure Heavy Bags.

Clouds of ducks, most of them flying high, were the sensation of the gun club shooting yesterday morning when more limits were secured than at the opening of the season last year. Large birds were the order of the day and the gunners who bagged twenty-five each went home with sacks heavier than they have ever been before.

Mallards, yes, a number of them; sprig, gadwell, spoonbills, teal by the thousand, and a sprinkling of widgeon were shot on the Alamitos Gun Club, on the Jeffries Club and on the Gadwell. The men were down early, but before sunrise the poachers had begun their work and the birds were being blown up into the air.

As a result of the early gunning, the shooting was difficult and the flights were higher than they have been at the opening of any season in the past five years. Members of the gun clubs watched carefully for the hour when they could turn their sixteen-gauges loose, and at 5:15 o'clock, when the alarm was sounded from the triangles, the shot guns barked out a rather warm welcome to the feathered game.

J. A. Fairchild, in his Lozier, drove to the Alamitos Gun Club in time to begin when the lark sings. With him were Ben Smith and I. A. Lothian. On the first day's shoot Fairchild and Smith were high guns for the club, each getting the limit in short order. Smith, who is a crack shot, had twenty-five birds at 7:30 o'clock. He lugged his prizes back to the clubhouse, and then gave up his blind to Gunner Lothian, who shot thirteen, the original number, which pleased him, as he secured enough for himself and friends.

FAIRCHILD'S LIMIT.

With his No. 10 Parker ready to finish the work he had begun so well, Fairchild continued to shoot and brought the birds out of the clouds with some well-directed shots. Fairchild had refused to say much. He would not even boast of being able to secure a dozen birds. His shooting, however, was more eloquent than anything he could have said. He brought down the limit thirty minutes after Smith had trudged back to the bunk house.

W. E. Burke, who is one of the best shots on the Alamitos Club lists, secured seventeen big birds. He was high man for last season, but started birds persisted in keeping near the skyline. Burke did some excellent shooting, however, and held up his reputation and there is a possibility that with the "Bixby" or "Myrick" blinds covering him he will pull off a limit the next time he drives his Overland touring car down to the club.

Another who secured the limit at the Alamitos was Eugene Woody, one of the new members who has joined this season. With his No. 12 Parker, and plenty of No. 6 shot, Woody secured the limit after a start that made the other members sit up and take notice. Woody squeezed himself into his blind, but did not get in quickly on the early shooting.

Just after he had remarked that he would be satisfied with ten birds, Woody blazed away with both barrels into the air and shot three easy. The graceful birds all tumbled dead outside his blind. This was the record shot and he finished strong.

PILLSBURY'S BLIND.

George E. Pillsbury drew a blind out near the edge of the 500-acre preserve of the Alamitos. With his No. 20 Parker, the smallest gun in the club rack, Pillsbury went forth. He is a crack shot, a thorough sportsman, and is never a "pot-hunter." All of his birds, and he bagged fourteen big beauties, were shot out of the sky.

"Too high" was the oft-repeated warning which Pillsbury did not heed. Birds flying at lightning speed, almost seventy-five yards in the air, were tumbled down by Pillsbury in a nonchalant manner as if it was an everyday occurrence. Perhaps it is? The hunter made a clean score yesterday as he left no cripples behind him.

The Alamitos Club is one of the old stand-by preserves, and the birds were more plentiful on the grounds of this club than almost anywhere else in this vicinity. Three limits, out of seven members shooting, the others with near-limits, was a great record for the opening day. The club has nine members and it was decided yesterday to increase this list to fourteen this season.

RUESS THERE.

"Wild Bill" Ruess, one of the chief gunners on the Gadwell preserve, bagged the limit after two hours' shooting. With his Pope-Hartford, and Mrs. Ruess and the children as his guests, Bill drove to the club and shot his birds, after which he drove the poachers off the grounds with a rather strenuous demonstration.

Outside the gun clubs many men held guns and shot from one to six birds each. The flights to the ocean proved alluring to a large number, but few birds were shot outside the inclosures.

It is the consensus of opinion among the Alamitos clubmen this year that the season is one of the best they ever experienced. The birds are plentiful at the opening and though they have not arrived in numbers from the North, they seemed to have increased here. This is especially true of the mallards and sprigs.

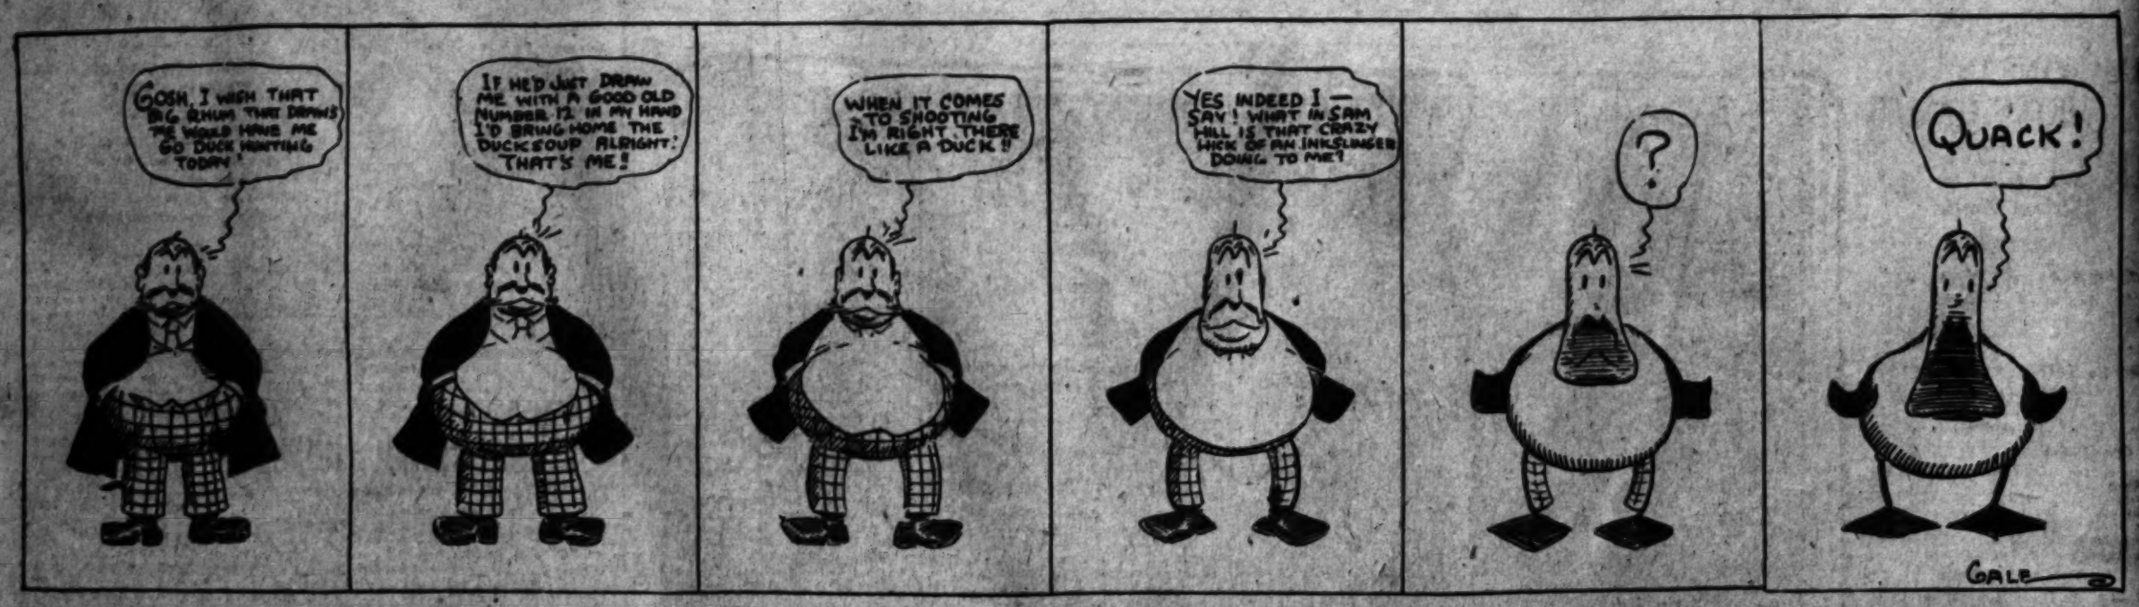
USUAL LIMITS ON BLUE WING PONDS.

It is an old story that the Blue Wing members bagged the limit on opening day—or any other day. The Saturday squad opened the season, and, as a mark of appreciation of the efforts of C. E. Grost, one of the directors, they specially invited Grost, a Wednesday squad man, to shoot with them, which he did, breaking in his new high-grade thirty-inch twenty gauge. It took him a little longer than usual to get the limit, but he got it by 5 o'clock, and the $300 gun was pronounced worth all it cost.

The shooting doctors, Jones, Lewis, Thomas and Schiffman, and Dick Stephens, George Adams and Aleck Barrett were on hand. Jones and his twenty-bore got the first limit; all were through by 7 o'clock. The birds were about half teal and half sprigs. Jones had mostly sprigs. Adams killed the first canvasback of the season. Grost had six sprigs and the rest teal. Dick Stephens got a widgeon; they're scarce just now. Dr. Lewis got a dozen sprigs.

The birds fairly piled into the Blue Wing; sprig and teal, after the boys went in, and the other clubs as usual, fed them into the sanctuary of that preserve for two hours or more.

Mr. Wad Says That He is Right There Like a Duck—and He is Right at That!



The other day, I met a man who used to manage Mister Joe Jeannette, the prize fighter.

I said to him that I should think Jeannette would rather dread meeting Sam out here over the twenty-round route.

"Joe dread it," he snorted. "Sam is the fellow I should think would dread it."

I asked him why; how he figured it.

"Why," he said, "if Sam isn't very careful in this twenty-round affair, he will knock Jeannette out and I don't know what he will do for a meal ticket.

"Sam has kept Joe on ice for a good long time. Sam has a private refrigerator. He has had Jim Flynn there and Jim Barry, but Joe Jeannette is the only one he has had on ice, who didn't eventually spoil on his hands.

"Sam always fights under wraps; but he doesn't always wrap tight enough.

"I am morally convinced of the fact that Sam could easily have put Jeannette out in any one of their numerous fights.

"Along in the first part of each fight, he always has handed Joe a wallop that almost put him out; for the rest of the fight, he would make a fierce show of fighting to desperation.

"I don't imagine that Joe Woodman stood in on anything like this. I am perfectly sure that Joe Jeannette didn't. Joe was simply fighting his head off each time and imagined he was simply raising Cain with Sammy.

"You can't blame Langford at that. If that black boy really tore in as hard as he could, I don't know what would happen. Except I know this: That he would never get another fight. Sam has simply got to go easy."

I relate this sad story for what it is worth.

I believed every word he said until he came to that part about Sammy not daring to hit a man as hard as he can. Then I remembered Mistah Chamas J. Jeffries.

Before this little Reno fuss, they used to tell great fairy tales about Jeff always having been afraid to hit a man as hard as he could.

Every time Jeff would send out his brawny fist to hit, he would always have to reach out and grab it back with the other hand to save himself from being a murderer. At least, this was the impression they gave us.

Before the Reno fight Jeff announced that he was going to hit as hard as he could for the first time.

And a shudder ran down the spine of a waiting world.

Well, brethren, he hit as hard as he could.

Yes; he done so.

You will have to hand it to Mr. Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland for a real business man.

Johnny has had a pleasant trip to a pleasant land during the eastern hot weather; a little light exercise in the way of beating up our ring heroes, and now goes back to Cleveland the richer by $10,000 in real money, lately the property of the Los Angeles fans.

Johnny's manager is also a business man.

When they called Johnny "yellow," the Cleveland featherweight says in a savage stage whisper, "No man can call me yellow and not fight."

And his manager steps in and says, "Yes, we will fight Rivers for this on January 1."

Jimmie Dunn knows of course that Rivers will probably be a lightweight by January 1; but that is a detail.

But if Kilbane and Rivers ever do come together again—which I very much doubt—it will be the most interesting fight that has ever been put on in a California ring.

Believe me, this young California person with the diamonds would fight like a bag full of wild cats.

Frankie Conley got into the wrong job when he attempted to become a boxer.

"He's game; you can't deny that," they all keep saying.

But, after all, it isn't much of a show to see him in the act of being game.

They might as well advertise the contest something like this:

"This afternoon at Vernon, Joe Rivers will hurt Frankie Conley for an hour and a half."

In Convention.

CENTRAL AMATEUR ATHLETIC LEAGUE

SCHEDULES ARRANGED FOR RUGBY SEASON.

Kings, Kern and Tulare County Athletes Were in Session—It Was Proposed to Exclude Bakersfield from the League, Owing to Great Distance—Motion Defeated.

TULARE, Sept. 30.—With delegates present from all of the schools entitled to membership and with the largest attendance of representatives in the history of the organization, the directors of the Central California Amateur Athletic League, representing the high schools of Kings, Kern and Tulare counties in session here today, elected officers, arranged schedules for the Rugby season, and transacted the other routine business of the season, which is to open shortly.

There was a strenuous fight early in the session when the Porterville delegation proposed a motion excluding Bakersfield from the league for the coming year, the supporters of the proposal maintaining that by reason of the remote location of the school of the oil fields, the expenses of their teams were out of proportion to gate receipts. After a heated argument, the motion was lost and Bakersfield will remain in.

Prof. Rowell of the Visalia High School was named as president for the ensuing year; Prof. Woods of Tulare secretary, and Prof. Conger of Porterville treasurer.

By unanimous vote, the high schools of Fresno county were made eligible for membership in the league beginning with the present season, applications from each school to be considered separately as filed. Possibly teams. In the class A league will be an exception will be made in the case of the Fresno High School on the basis that the large number of students of that institution puts Fresno in a class by herself.

Schedules for the coming year were made out in detail for the Rugby teams. In the clas A league will be the following schools, with attendances above 150: Fresno, not yet decided, attendance, 630; Bakersfield, 250; Visalia, 240; Porterville, 235; Tulare, 94; Hanford, 154. In the class B schedule, Dinuba, 120; Exeter, 105; Kingsburg, 85; Lemoore, 90; Lindsay, 52.

Committees were appointed by the chair to revise the by-laws to include the new schools and a committee was also chosen to consider the applications and draw up credentials for the umpires who will judge the Rugby games of the present season.

Last year the big silver cup was not awarded to a Rugby team, the trophy lying between Porterville and Bakersfield, and a protested game between the two was not decided. The big cup becomes the property of any team which succeeds in winning it three years in succession and its ownership is still in doubt.

If the Fresno county schools make application for admission to the league, it will form the most pretentious amateur athletic association among secondary schools on the Coast.

Teddy Tetzlaff and the Ninety-horse-power Fiat Racer.

This fast car will be piloted this year by the man who won the last Santa Monica automobile Road Race. He is at the wheel of the car ready for a dash.

Our Pilot.

TETZLAFF TO MEET WORLD'S BEST.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

TEDDY TETZLAFF, winner of the Santa Monica road race, last year, has a chance to win again on Saturday, October 14. With the ninety-horse-power, ninety-mile-an-hour Fiat under him, Tetzlaff has a chance to repeat. He may pull off the Harry Grant-Alco stunt and win the big western Vanderbilt twice.

Should Tetzlaff win, however, he will not be repeating Grant's trick. He has another car to handle this year. The Fiat made the fastest lap in the Santa Monica road race last year. Frank Dearborn drove the car. He finished second to Tetzlaff. This year Tetzlaff will hurl a duplicate of that fast ninety-horse-power racer around the Palisades.

Few men who have jumped into fame as rapidly as Tetzlaff, have kept their heads about them like the young Los Angeles driver. Tetzlaff is 27 years old. He is at just the right age to make a hit at the wheel of a fast car. He has been driving fast racing machines for the past four years. He first drove a Pope-Toledo.

With a Pope-Toledo doing a dizzy mile at fifty miles an hour, Tetzlaff showed that he is made of the right stuff. Then he took an Apperson racer and got better than sixty miles an hour out of the car and then jumped to a Simplex and later sat at the wheel of a Lozier. Now he has a Fiat.

The Los Angeles driver has "mixed it" with the fastest speedsters of the East. Though he was given a "rough deal" and was not allowed to handle a car tuned to the minute as other racing machines were, Tetzlaff has shown that he can drive with the best of them.

> This is the first of a series of articles to be written in the pink by the automobile editor of The Times. The career of each driver will be outlined and the car he is to drive in the big road race will be shown.

HAS NERVE.

Though he is saying little, Tetzlaff is ready to drive like a fiend this year. His heart is in the race and he expects to win. He also expects to break a world record. This shows the good sense of the Fiat driver. He knows that in order to drive the Fiat into first place it is almost certain that he will be forced to smash all existing records on the Santa Monica road race course.

This particular driver is one of the most interesting who has figured in a big road race. When he won Tetzlaff blushed as the crowd surged around him. It was hard to convince him that he had done anything remarkable, even after he had won both events. This showed the class of the local lad.

With his Lozier bouncing along at terrific speed, Tetzlaff won the heavy event and then sighed and yawned. It was almost time to start the second race and Tetzlaff came tearing down the stretch to the starting line. He was pitted against seasoned drivers in a fierce free-for-all.

Turning the trick a second time, Tetzlaff rollicked away at racing speed and won the final event. Then, with two big victories to his credit, he prepared to get out of the way as soon as possible. He embraced his wife, who had cheered for him every second of the big race, and then was ready to get out of sight.

KNOWS HOW.

This year Tetzlaff will come to the line with the blood flowing peacefully through his veins. While he is not phlegmatic, he is also not excitable. He refuses to lose his head. This may help him to whirl another car into first place, even against the bunch of great drivers with whom he must measure his skill.

Again Teddy will drive in two events. He has the advantage of knowing every inch of the course. He knows how to take the turns. He will know his Fiat before he starts in the big road battle less than two weeks from today. Perhaps Teddy Tetzlaff, the hope of the local automobile race fans, will win.

He will meet the world's best motor racing drivers with a smile. They will not "get his goat" even though they drive at ninety miles an hour. He has a car that is just as fast as any they have. He has the nerve, by the way, to open that throttle to racing speed.

VERNON WINS TWO.

the way and but for a little battery wildness in the fourth inning he would have scored a shut out. But two men got to third base up to the ninth.

He opened this by giving Daley a pass and Pete ran to second on Dulin's infield out. A wild pitch put Daley on third and when Brown finally got the ball and threw it toward third base it was a wild, high heave and the ball went into left field, Daley scoring.

This game was chiefly remarkable for the fact that it was played in the fast time of 1 hour 25 minutes. There were no startling plays in it.

NEWS WORLD'S RECORD IN TROTTING EVENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 30.—It required the final event of the fall trotting meeting of the Columbus Driving Association to add a new world's trotting record for four heats in a race. The time for these was 2:05½, 2:05¾, 2:05¼ and 2:05¼. Summaries:

The 2:14 trot, three in five, purse $1200: Myrtle Grant won second, third and fourth heats and race; best time 2:05¾. Martha C., second, won first heat; time, 2:13¼. Densmore, third.

The 2:18 trot, stake, three in five, purse $2000: Soprano won second, time, 2:05¼. Willy won first heat; third and fourth heats and race; best time, 2:05½. Don Labor, third.

COMPTON GETTING READY FOR ACTION.

"Dutch" McGrew, one of the last year's Law School forwards, has taken charge of the Compton High School Rugby football team. McGrew has played the game in the old country and was formerly on the Compton team. Last year he registered in the Law School and is again out for a position on the U.S.C. 'varsity.

Compton should turn out a good team this year under his able guidance as he knows the game from A to Z. One loss that will be keenly felt at the country school is "Red" Reynolds, who was their captain, but is now playing on the Manual Arts fifteen. To fill his shoes Jack McCartney will probably be chosen.

Compton had several fierce contests with L. A. High last year with honors about even. They are going to start the season with the same team next Saturday, October 7, at Fiesta Park.

ONTARIO IN FRONT.

WHITTIER OUTCLASSED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ONTARIO, Sept. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chaffee High School opened its 1911 football season this afternoon when the Whittier High eleven went down to ignominious defeat before the Ontario team on the campus of the local school by a score of 52 to 0. At no time during the game did the Whittier bunch have a ghost of a chance.

Star plays were made by Phil Murray, quarter-back; Claude Arnett, left half-back, and "Red" Wilson, right end. The local team is to play Redlands University next Saturday. Coach Clary predicts sure victory for Ontario.

DIQUE FERRIS FILM GOSPELLER.

Camera Innovation of the Roseate Riccardo.

Geography, Bible Lessons, Sermons and Travel.

And a Hand Moving Picture Rigamarole Besides.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Dique Ferris, Prince of the Picturesque, is now hurling his unique personality into the development of a new idea in motion pictures.

Richard has a company, a studio at Sycamore Grove, some 500 scenarios—275 of which he wrote himself—and a definite, sharp-pointed idea of what he wants to do and how he is going to do it.

Heading his motion-picture company is Florence Stone, than whom there has never been a more popular actress in Los Angeles.

Those who are familiar with the warlike and sporting proclivities of Mr. Ferris will doubtless be amazed when they hear that his first radical departure from the accepted motion-picture line will be the illustration of the International Bible Lessons. He avers that he has made an arrangement to do this, and that his pictures will follow the studies, Sunday by Sunday, through the year, and ready for Sabbath-school reproduction.

The energetic Mr. Ferris has made arrangements with the publishers of one of the best-known school geographies to supply—later on, when he gets under a full head of steam—moving reproductions of life in far countries, especially the islands of the Pacific, upon which the eyes of the world seem to be centered, as the Pacific is the future theater of action. Riccardo states that some time during the coming winter he will send one of his best operators to Samoa, New Zealand, the Philippines and Japan, to spend six months and some millions of feet of sensitised celluloid in carrying out this plan.

Not contented with the religious stimulus of the International Bible lessons, the Ferris company has hooked up with a young divine, said to be well known, and will issue a moving illustration of a weekly sermon by him, text and film designed primarily for places in which the Gospel is scanty.

One of the first undertakings will be series of "development" pictures showing through the Southwest territory. These will show the industries and crafts of Southern California and especially the power of water.

Dick says that he will have a complete crop series, showing the care, cultivation, harvesting and preparation for market of the olive, walnut, orange, lemon and dried fruit crops. He is confident that the prune film will do sensational business in the Harlem flat district.

"The Holy City," a semi-religious play which ran for more than a month at the Auditorium several seasons ago, will be turned into an evening's entertainment of several reels, with Miss Stone in her original role of Mary Magdalen.

Following this the complete series of Sardou dramas—for which Miss Stone possesses the American rights—will find their way into the little pictures. Miss Stone will be seen, successively, in "Tosca," "Gismonda," "Cleopatra," "La Sorciere," "Fedora" and the others of the famous romantic-melodrama repertoire. "Tosca" will probably be the first play recreated into silent drama.

Mr. Ferris has purchased the rights to an English invention on the order of a hand-camera, which enables one to take moving pictures instead of maps. Brother, away from home, can now show us just how glad Uncle Henry was to see him, who came down to the train to see him off and also how his old flame passed him up for a more rapid gentleman.

Barney Sherry is Dick's stage manager, and his chief operator is a young chap, well-known among the picture folk hereabouts, named Wyckoff.

He has three cameras and a complete equipment ready for business.

To quiet the clamoring multitude who may palpitate for participation in this roseate pictorial dream, it may be distinctly stated that the institution has no stock for sale.

SMITH HIGH GUN ON REVOLVER RANGE.

Owing to various other attractions the regular practice of the Los Angeles Revolver Club yesterday on the Bishop-street range was not as well attended as on former days and the shooting was hardly up to the average, but some of the best marksmen turned out.

It was evident that several of them were out of practice, but Packard and Smith showed that they were there. The ability of the others is known and they will round to with a little regular work. The lure of the ducks and the ball games kept many of the men away from the range.

The shooting was done with .22 caliber pistols and revolvers at the Standard American target, off hand, and resulted as follows:

Dr. L. M. Packard, 92, 86, 92, 88, 92, 90, 93, 88, 93, 93.
O. I. Royce, 87, 89, 81, 84, 90, 88, 89, 85, 85, 93.
W. E. Smith, 90, 90, 95, 95, 86, 92, 92, 91.
J. E. Holcomb, 85, 87, 87, 87, 85.
Will A. Wright, 87, 86, 77, 90.

Chance for Monte.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Monte Attell, former bantamweight champion, has completed two weeks of hard training at Bay St. Louis, Miss., for his ten-round fight tomorrow night with Johnny Daley, at the New Orleans Club. There was equal confidence tonight in the two camps as to the outcome. Attell has a shade the better of the betting.

American Wins Easily.

JUAREZ (Mex.) Oct. 1.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] C. I. Mozier of Seattle threw Timotee Carpio, the heavyweight wrestler of Mexico, in two straight falls, in the Juarez bull ring tonight, in a Graeco-Roman wrestling match, for a purse of $1000. The American won the first fall in two minutes and ten seconds, and the second in fifty seconds.

Flying.

DIDIER MASSON CARRIED A WOMAN PASSENGER.

DIDIER MASSON, the noted French aviator, made several successful flights yesterday afternoon at the Gage aviation field, giving his machine a thorough test before shipping to Canada, where he is booked for a series of exhibitions. On his last flight he carried Miss Dennison of this city, as a passenger, and made a complete circle of the course.

The machine used was a special constructed biplane built by the Dosh Aeroplane Company. It is equipped with a fifty-four-gallon fuel tank which is considered ample for a continuous flight of eight hours. A fifty-horse-power Uneme motor is used for the power plant.

Roy Francis of San Francisco also flew in his new Gage biplane built by Jay Gage of this city. The machine is equipped with an eight-cylinder, sixty-horse-power Hall-Scott motor and is one of the best constructed aeroplanes in the West. Francis expects to enter the exhibition field within the near future.

Hoot Mon!

CLAN CAMERONS WON FROM HIBERNIAN SOCCER TEAM.

IN THE last practice game before the league series, the Clan Camerons won from the Hibernians by the score of 2 to 1, at Fiesta Park yesterday. The Hibernians presented a different line-up than the one they played last Sunday and apparently did a little better, but as they were not up against as strong a team as the Rangers, comparisons cannot be of a great value.

Each side managed to shoot a goal in the first half, the Camerons' goal being a very lucky shot from the extreme left. In the second half the Clans missed some very easy chances to score but not until the last few minutes of play were they able to get the desired point.

The Hibernians' goal-keeper gave a weird exhibition of goal tending in the last period. He batted the ball like a little girl and it was only luck that saved him on several occasions. As it was, he is responsible for the last score by letting an easy catch bounce over his head by his indecision.

The opening game of the regular league series will be played next Sunday at Fiesta Park, between the Thistles, and the Clans. There are four teams in the league this year and each team is scheduled to play two games a piece with every other team making six regular games in all.

The line-up in today's game was as follows:

Sanderson	goal	Busby
Porter	right full	McAtamney
Hyde	left full	Burns
Harrison	right half	W. Greaves
Girard	center	Egan

MEMSIC MAY GET NEW CHANCE AT WOLGAST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eddie Murphy, lightweight terrier of Boston, and George Memsic, who has fought Wolgast, Nelson and all the best of them in his division, are going to battle ten rounds at Gary, Ind., Friday night.

They are going to battle in every sense of the word, for a win by either will give that man the chance at Wolgast. Tom Jones declared he was willing to give either of the little men a bout with the champion, providing some club would stage the battle and that the winner would make 133 pounds ringside.

Murphy would not have a hard time making 133, but it is doubtful if Memsic could make that weight. He has been growing heavier and is finding it hard to get down to 136, the required weight for his bout with Murphy. Both are rounding into fighting trim rapidly

EVERYBODY BUSY ON BOLSA CHICA.

Fourteen guns opened the season on the Bolsa Chica grounds and eight or nine came in with the limit. Birds were quite plentiful, sprigs and teal predominating; some of the gunners bagged nearly all big birds, among them W. E. Dunn, who has twenty sprigs, four teal and a fine greenhead. Frank S. Hicks had first choice and warmed up his old Purdey for the limit by 8 o'clock. Hicks is one of those unfortunate sportsmen who has the twenty-bore bee buzzing in his bonnet, but already is the possessor of a pair of Purdeys which he cannot make up his mind to abandon, but like all the other good shots he will come to it eventually. H. L. Story shot the channels out of a boat, a form of the sport he fancies, and got the limit. Others present and participating in the fun were J. S. Terrance, Isaac Milbank, J. J. Fay, J. K. Miller, Robert Marsh, P. E. Wilcox, W. L. Valentine, William Bayly, Count von Schmidt. Story's bag in the channels was all teal. Seven or eight mallards were killed. Hicks had a lot of sprigs. Dunn had last choice and waited until Wilcox was through, then bagged his limit at the same old stand.

Owing to the late arrival of the ducks the Bolsa Chica directors authorized the president to put off the opening of the season two weeks if he thought advisable, and until the last week it looked as if this would be necessary. W. E. Dunn, who has been shooting in the Bolsa country twenty years, says he never knew the ducks to come in so late. This year they did not show up until September 15. But when they came, they were in full force.

A movement to close the duck season February 15 by mutual agreement of the clubs has been started by the Bolsa Chica. It is argued that an idea has become widespread to the effect that the extension of the duck season in this district is a club measure and in the clubs' favor. This it is not. Few sportsmen wish to shoot ducks so late, realizing that the birds are paired and breeding has begun. It is thought such a movement would have a salutary effect in whoring the public generally that the clubs are in earnest about preserving the game supply, and stand ready to deny themselves for the common good.

Yellowlegs, Willet snipe and marlins are very plentiful on the Bolsa at present.

FIND GOOD SPORT ON GOLDEN WEST.

Shooting was good on the grounds of the Golden West Gun Club opening day. E. A. and H. P. Hoffman were both on duty and both of them had the limit by 6:15.

Across the road of the Los Patos, Asa Casner, Peres Gibbings, E. W. Selbach, J. C. Wright and Louis Herman were shooting. All got the limit, and Herman had a mallard or two.

Beats Catalina.

CANADA TUNA, FIERCE SPORT.

Catalina Devotee Tries Luck on Atlantic.

Breaks All Angling Records With Rod.

Lands Monster Weighing 680 Pounds.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

STE ANNE BAY (Novia Scotia) Sept. 20.—After nearly three years of constant study of the habits of the Atlantic Coast tuna, J. K. L. Ross of Montreal, Can., has beaten all angling records by landing a fish weighing 680 pounds and which was brought to gaff with rod and reel.

Owing to the ponderous weights of the Atlantic Coast tuna, many anglers of this coast have contended that it would be an impossibility to fight a successful battle. For four hours and forty-five minutes Mr. Ross battled against errific odds.

Not only did he run his catch down, but with his experience at Catalina he was able to gaff the fish himself, while he allowed one of his boatmen to hold the rod for a few seconds. The monster fish was hooked in Ste Anne Bay, Nova Scotia; towed the boat and its three occupants several miles, but was finally gaffed near Cape Breton lighthouse in shallow water. Twenty-four hours after the fish had been landed it tipped the scales at 680 pounds.

Despite the fact that the angler was using a thirty-nine strand line it was considerably worn by the constant friction. The specially constructed reel contained 900 feet of line. Upon three occasions the huge fish was successful in making runs for over eight hundred feet. Unable to get out of the shallow water and back into the open channel the catch did its utmost to free itself from its tormentor.

Like a torpedo boat, it rushed headlong just under the surface. Often as it turned its course the sea was churned white. Madly it lashed its fan-like tail. Between the fish and the angler the taunt line throbbed visibly with the excited breathing pulsations of the catch. In every direction the boat was dragged. As the tuna rose to the surface the twang of the twelve-foot leader could be heard some distance off. The beautiful coloring of the fish radiated as the noon sun caught it at various angles. For two hours it surely looked as if the fish, like all others which had been fought, would win.

It seemed almost an impossibility to drown such a wonderous fish with a line which would break with a continual strain of fifty pounds. With bruised and bleeding hands the angler changed his tactics. So far the fish had been master. Instead of allowing the tuna to drag them over the ocean those in the boat endeavored to stop his rushes by back-rowing. Gradually the circles which the captured fish made grew less. Although it tugged as violently towards the end of the fight the energy of the spurt fell off several yards with each charge.

Unlike the Catalina tuna, the Cape Breton variety have not the same depth of water to combat their fight.

Five hundred feet down the Catalina tuna will make its huge circles and will often succeed in freeing itself by chafing the line on the bottom of the angler's boat. Long sandy shoals prevent the waters of the Cape Breton coast from forming deep cavities like those which exist around many of the Pacific Coast islands.

Between Scatari Island and the mainland, the favorite waters of the Atlantic Coast variety of tuna, the waters rarely exceed a depth of 300 feet. In the best of weather the long Atlantic swells make boating a treacherous undertaking to one inexperienced.

Without a moment's warning a "comber" measuring several miles long will seethe and boil under the angler's boat—a veritable wall of water, making it a difficult undertaking to stand upright and fight a long, tedious battle which might last several hours. In one of his first experiments Mr. Ross has a record for fighting a Cape Breton tuna for nineteen hours, then finally losing it.

Immediately the angler struck the fish with his gaff, he was covered with blood. Two feet from the end of its tail the sharp hook pierced the body. With a jerk which almost overturned the skiff and jerked the angler's arms from his body, the fish came back to life. Every movement of the fish deluged the party or poured water into the skiff. No time was lost in passing a noose over the end of the tail. With the gaff, line, hook, leader and stout rope, the tuna made its last dash to get free. Down it plunged to the bottom, dragging with the rope everything which came into its contact. In the grand climax one of the boatmen had left his oars on the side of the boat. These had disappeared. Making the end of the rope fast to a seat in the boat, the two oars were finally picked up. Although but a few hundred yards from the shore, it took both boatmen almost an hour to row back to the beach and make their record catch a permanent captive. Still alive, the party tried to unload their catch at a small wharf, but it was found that the derrick could not lift it clear without injuring the skin. Arrangements were made to haul the fish upon the beach and a messenger dispatched to a nearby town for a pair of large balance scales.

Although not captured according to the full specifications of the Tuna Club, many messages of congratulation were sent to Mr. Ross from Tuna Club members immediately the report was verified. The fact that the fish was brought to gaff with a rod and reel and a thirty-nine-strand line, instead of a twenty-four-strand line, leads many of the enthusiasts to believe that the twenty-four-strand line, standard, will some day be the only connecting link between some successful angler and a fish weighing 1000 pounds.

Mr. Ross's record was 9 ft. 10 in. in length and 6 ft. 9 in. around the girth. After taking the bait the fish was hooked in the left side of its mouth.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY CAUGHT BARRACUDA.

Dist.-Atty. Fredericks is spending several days on the island resting before his final effort on the coming trial. Despite the bad weather he has been daily on his fishing jrips. He succeeded in bringing to the gaff several barracuda, one good-sized yellowtail and a number of rock bass. He captured an albicore weighing nineteen and three-quarter pounds after a battle which lasted seventeen minutes. Ignoring the rain he fished at an early hour for a swordfish. For two hours he trolled the high seas in his gasoline launch waiting for the first signs of a monster fish. Finally he turned his attention to albicore fishing. Exposure to the inclement weather has given his countenance a ruddy and healthful appearance.

VIOLATE THE LAW BY EARLY SHOOTING.

Deputy Fish Commissioner W. K. Robinson states that the first shot he heard before time on the morning of opening day proceeded from the grounds of the Los Patos Club, and he endeavored to locate the blind responsible, but could not do so.

Otherwise prosecutions would have followed. It is up to the clubs to set a good example in the early shooting matter; bad enough to be forced by unattached hunters without taking the initiative.

IN THE CHURCHES YESTERDAY

DR. DAY.
FIRST CONGREGATIONAL.
THE SERVICE OF CHRIST IS ONE DEMANDING A WILLINGNESS TO GIVE UP ALL ELSE.

REV. WILLIAM HORACE DAY addressed his congregation yesterday on the subject, "The Cost of Discipleship," taking as his text Luke 14:26. He said in part:

"It is quite evident to the reader of Scripture who looks at the spirit of our Lord, that the Lord of love never became the preacher of hate. He never countenanced hate in any relation of life, and much less in the most sacred of human relations which are here represented. But he put it in this startling way, which his hearers quite easily understood and would remember, because so startlingly stated; he put this truth before them—a straight and narrow truth, like the narrow door through which a man must go if he would pass into the higher life—he put it before them this way that they might not be able to forget it.

"A man must love his Christ if he is to be his disciple. A man must love his Christ before he can ever fully understand the Christ, or receive the message of the Christ. Love is the one gateway. It is exacting. If you would get the full view of the valley, which spreads out below, you must climb to the highest peak and that only makes it possible for you to see the entire sweep.

"How can I become a lover of Jesus Christ? How can I fulfill this supreme condition of discipleship? This seems very difficult to some people. I take it it is not difficult to a large number. There is no man in whom there is not an ineradicable root of religious capacity, the fear of God, the admiration and loyalty to the divine. No man in any race of men exists in whom there does not appear the rudiment or root of Christianity, and that root can be developed if we will but do it.

"After all, our ability to love rests upon our will to love. The old psychologist would have it that emotions and affections came and went like the mind; we know not whither they come or whence they go. We know that is a falsehood for we are discovering not only that faith is the product of the will to believe, but also that affection is the product of the will to love and no man need be loveless so long as he is master of his power of attention.

"We have undervalued the priestly state of religion in us considerably to be free from many bonds that it had forced upon us. Even our public service is poor, perverted, broken and yet that priestly idea has persisted through the centuries. This is why we ask those who love our Lord to come in at the twilight hour and sit with Him and with us in his personal fellowship.

"But may I ask one more question? What are to be the results of the life in which the love of Christ becomes the supreme passion? If you find yourself learning to obey Him, willing to serve somebody for His sake, willing to study Him, there need be no doubt in your mind but what the root of the matter is there.

"How the world waits today as the air is filled with war and the rumors of war, with the wrangle of hearts and the jealousy of conflicting spirit. Oh, how the poor, weary world with all its miseries and limitations, how the poor world is waiting for you and me, that we enter into the kingdom of love, having first found the kind of love."

ST. ATHANASIUS CHURCH.
THE LOVE OF CHRIST IS BEYOND THE FEEBLE POWERS OF MAN TO EVEN FAINTLY CONCEIVE.

In St. Athanasius Episcopal Church yesterday the Rev. C. T. Murphy preached upon "The Basis of Sound Character." He said in part:

"St. Paul's prayer, 'To know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge,' may sound like a contradiction of terms. But his logic is clear and his earnest desire for us is a practical one. The love of Christ is too large a subject to exhaust. Information thereof gained by the ordinary methods of study cannot explain the whys and hows of the Savior's activity. Indeed, mere theorists in religion cannot gain even a hearing nowadays.

"But somehow many, even among simple folk, do acquire an experimental knowledge of Jesus Christ which fills their hearts and dominates their lives. St. Paul's desire is not only that the church may have this experimental knowledge, but may realize how this love of Christ extends to all the 'families on earth' and find the inspiration for its tremendous mission in that love.

"The love of Jesus Christ is too big, too patient, too ambitious for men to understand. He reaches out for everyone with wise and unvarying persistence. He plans glorious ends for the poorest soul; He anticipates noble achievements for the man farthest down. The transforming power of His presence, when He dwells in a man's heart by faith, proves this truth directly, although reason, science and theology may fail to convince.

"By moral regeneration in the outcasts, by hope re-established in hopeless lives, by light arising in darkened hearts, by love awakened in selfish, shrivelled lives, He is showing us 'what is the breadth and length and height and depth' of His programme of redemption. By these He would arouse our ambitions, fire our zeal for his missionary efforts, stir our charities, to bring to pass quickly His kingdom upon earth.

"The opening of the new quarters of the Hadley Memorial Home tomorrow evening in connection with St. Mark's Church at Seventh street and Towne avenue is a visible token of the faith of some in our city who have caught the vision of the universal, all-conquering love of the lamb of God."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
CHRISTIANITY THE ONLY WEAPON AGAINST THE INVISIBLE, INTANGIBLE POWER OF EVIL.

"Deliverance from the Power of Sin" was the theme of Dr. Edward Campbell's sermon at the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. He said in part:

"If we are tempted to limit ourselves to that which is visible to the natural eye or to confine ourselves to the consideration of that which is tangible and comes to us through the sense of touch, upon turning to the passage of Scripture before us this morning we are led away from this narrow and limited conception and our minds are directed immediately to contemplate a broader and more comprehensive world in which we live, a world in which the divine writer says there is a power of darkness and a kingdom which is a kingdom of spirit.

"We are not in any way alarmed when this suggestion is made to us through the Word which the great apostle to the Gentiles has so emphatically announced here, because we have become familiar with the term 'power' and 'force' as we use them referring to the purely physical world.

"We speak constantly of the force of gravitation which we are compelled to recognize, although it must ever remain invisible; of electricity, which is one of the most familiar and useful factors in our present civilization, but no one will ever be able to see it, for only as it manifests itself through some form of power can we know of its presence. It enters our bodies and converts our nerves into highways over which it travels, but we are not permitted to look upon its peculiar substance.

"Now since we are so familiar with this idea of Power which is invisible, consider with me that the power of darkness of which the text speaks is a spiritual power and an invisible, unseen power that has taken hold upon all and holds them in bondage to sin. This power of darkness acts as a neutralizing force and hinders the progress of the human soul in its onward march in the conquest of self and in the subduing of the passions that sweep across the soul like a tempest.

"In our day and age there are great wonders being wrought out in medical science. Men are taking the anesthetic and through its power to neutralize pain they are working miracles, but in the administering of this anesthetic great care must be taken so that just enough is given to neutralize the pain and keep the heart in normal action. Likewise the forces of evil from this kingdom of darkness are applied to the human soul with just enough of influence to overcome the higher purposes and deaden the conscience securing ultimately supremacy of power. We are all subjected to this power of the evil spirit, but there is consolation coming to us from the words of the apostle, for he says that God has delivered the Christian from this power and translated him into the kingdom of his dear Son. Could the Christian world fully realize this and come into possession of its inheritance, and receive that which has been secured through the sacrificial work of the Master the powers of evil would not possess such hold upon the world today."

FAREWELL SERMON—TEXT: "WHAT I HAVE WRITTEN I HAVE WRITTEN."

Rev. Smithers said in part:

"My task here is finished, my record is made and no hand is able to change or erase it; and this is true of all of us; when we finish our life work, what has been written cannot be erased.

"It was in the spring of 1890 that I was called to become the pastor of the First Church of Los Angeles. Los Angeles then had a population of about 50,000. The business center was near Spring and Temple streets. There was only one Christian church house in the city, a very modest building located at Broadway (then Fort street) and Temple street. The congregation numbered 300.

"In 1903 a mission church was started in East Los Angeles, through the preaching of Brother B. F. Coulter, and about the same time the Central Christian Church at Thirtieth and Main was instituted.

"These were the only three congregations in the city for quite a while. Then when this congregation moved [illegible] street to its present location the Broadway Christian Church was erected at its present location by Brother Coulter. From the Broadway and the First Christian churches several mission churches have sprung.

"About fifteen years ago, the Eighth street church, now the Naomi-avenue church, was established and five years later the Magnolia-avenue church was organized as a separate congregation, taking with it, as did the others, a number of our members. Only about twenty-five members now remain who were here when I came. There are now 800 resident members.

"After preaching in the Temple-street building four years this building was erected. During my ministry an average of 125 members per year have been added. During my ministry here I have preached 1632 sermons.

"Intimate relations exist between the growth of our church and the city of Los Angeles. I am a great believer in the city of Los Angeles. If I had a million dollars to invest I would invest it in Los Angeles real estate. I believe that we are as a city yet in our infancy. I believe that in ten years if not sooner, this city will have a million people. I believe that we but little know what the coming of the Owens River, with its electric power and the completion of our harbor will do for this city and Southern California. We will be different from other cities with all these advantages and our incomparable climate. Los Angeles is destined to be one of the great cities of the world. The Pacific Ocean is to be the center of the world's commerce—it will be to the world what the Mediterranean is to the Orient.

"I believe in living with your face always to the future that has to do with the blessing, the power, and the work of this First Church. I am going to St. Louis, but I am not going to pull any bricks out of this church. If what I have predicted of the city of Los Angeles comes true, then the First Church has a tremendously crucial place to occupy. It is the First Church because of its history; because it is the mother church of all these churches of the Disciples of Christ; in fact, it is the grandmother of many of them. Its location is important In five years hence there will be twice as many people living near this church than now and this will be the great central pillar of all the churches.

"We now have twenty-three separate organizations in this city—different churches—and another one will be born very soon. We are the third strongest church in Los Angeles—first the Methodists, second the Presbyterians and third the Disciples of Christ, or Christian church.

"The field of work which I am entering will be ten times more useful to the church than in any pastorate, if I can successfully administer the management and editorship of our church publications. I need your prayers and sympathy to help me."

At the close of the service it was announced that Rev. Russell J. Thrapp of Jacksonville, Ill., had accepted the call from the congregation to become its pastor.

Mr. Smither will go to St. Louis to become general manager of the Christian Publishing House and editor-in-chief of the Christian Evangelist published at the same place. He and his family will leave for their destination on Tuesday, October 3.

DR. BROUGHER.
"WHY YOUNG MEN AND YOUNG WOMEN GO WRONG." TEXT TAKEN FROM JOHN XVII. 15-17.

"There are three things set forth in this text," said Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher of the Temple Baptist Church last night. "This world is full of enticements to evil—every one is expected to develop a true character in the midst of an evil world; and the possibilities of successfully doing this, this text asserts. When we come to consider the question of why men and women go wrong we have to look at it from two standpoints. There is the evil world, with all the pleasures of sin to entice, and there is within the individual the desire that answers to the call of sin.

"When I regard our great cities, with their thousand and one enticements to wrong-doing, I am not surprised that many of our young men and young women go wrong. I wonder more greatly that any of them come through unscathed.

"In the majority of instances, the training at home is not what it ought to be. Heredity has given the boy or the girl a tendency to evil, and the parents have never sought to correct that tendency by careful and persistent training. Evil companions are on every hand to influence young men and young women into wrong-doing. Most cities are very lax in the enforcement of law, and permit every conceivable enticement to be presented for luring the young into evil.

"The young lady in society is brought under the influence of a gay and thoughtless life, and she has to solve the problem as to whether she can attain to a noble womanhood in the midst of such surroundings. Sometimes a young woman is away from home earning her living in a great city. Her surroundings at the store or at the boarding-house are not congenial. Or, many times they are congenial but present the most powerful temptations to wrong-doing. She hears the sirens' songs of pleasure, and is yet expected to be strong enough to resist. The grills of our cities, with their licenses to sell liquor, present one of the greatest temptations to wrong-doing.

"It is not possible for us suddenly to transform this old world into a heaven where people can live without temptation. If our young men and women do not go wrong, it will be because they have within themselves the power to live in a world of temptation and yet be the masters of their surroundings.

"Christianity is sufficiently powerful to enable them to live upright lives. Christianity is powerful enough today to make it possible for a young man or a young woman, for any man or woman, to be what he or she ought to be in the city of Los Angeles.

"Let us notice four ways in which young people may be what they ought to be in spite of temptations to do wrong:

I. God protects his people from the evil that is in the world by giving to them a natural repulsion to sin. The power to discern the presence of coming evil and to use commonsense in avoiding it, is one of God's plans for protecting his children in this world of sin.

II. God protects His children in the midst of an evil world by the strength and vigor of their inner life and purity. Sound physical health and ever-abounding life is the very best protection against disease. There is no defense that will compare with this inward vigor and flow of health.

III. God protects His people in a world of sin through the power of faith. This is 'the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.' Thousands of men and women today, surrounded by corrut and blasphemous men and women, live a pure, holy life because of their robust character and faith that lifts them into heavenly places and permits them to walk among people who are pure and clean, and gives them the privilege of breathing an atmosphere that comes from another world.

IV. God protects His people in this world of sin by making them the transforming power that changes the earthly environment into harmony with the heavenly. It is essential first of all that a Christian seek to have the power of a noble character. The true method of doing good is first of all the principle to be good. You must be what you would have the world around you to be."

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON.

BROOKLYN (N. Y.) Oct. 1.—Pastor Russell preached this afternoon in Brooklyn's largest and finest auditorium, which was crowded to hear his discourse on "Which Is the True Church?" It may not be strictly true to say that everyone in the large audience went home fully satisfied that he had located the one true church to which the Bible continually refers. It is not too much to assert, however, that the vast majority of those who heard were both pleased and convinced. No really great man is without his enemies, but it may surely be said that Pastor Russell is gaining many friends throughout the Christian world every week through the widespread reports of his sermons. The text for the occasion was "The Church of the First-Borns, whose names are written in heaven."—Hebrews xii, 22.

CHURCH OF CHRIST ONE—NOT MANY.

He adverted to the Scriptural records which refer to the Church of Christ as one, not as many. Pastor Russell declared that in this matter the Church of Rome and the Church of England hold aloof from many Protestant denominations. They claim that to recognize them as churches would be unscriptural, since there is but one church of the living God. The various Protestant denominations started out with similar views, similar theories, though today they have abandoned them. The Church of England formed an organization separate from that of Rome, believing that the former had been the one true church but had departed from the faith, and that it was the duty of the faithful to recognize her as Babylon, confusion.

The claim to be the true church applies to themselves. Similarly, Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists, Adventists, Disciples, etc., have withdrawn, and many of these originally claimed to be the one true, loyal, faithful Church of Christ. Today, however, the pendulum has swung to the other side. Moreover, the narrowness of the past is rapidly giving way. All are learning that to be a Christian means more than merely to be immersed; more than merely to be sprinkled; more than merely to believe in the doctrine of election; more than merely to believe in the doctrine of free grace; more than to believe in the doctrine of transubstantiation or consubstantiation. With this enlargement of mind Christians are indeed in danger of losing sight of the fact that the true church is the custodian of "the faith once delivered to the saints"—which acknowledges "one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and father of all, and one church of the living God."

ONE CHURCH IN MANY.

The key to the situation is found in our Lord's words: "Not all that say unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven;" not all who call themselves Christians, with one denominational tag or another, are members of the one church, the church of the first-borns, mentioned in our text. As good, rich milk is sometimes called cream, so all the members of Christian denominations are sometimes called Christians—in a complimentary sense, because not unsympathetic with true Christian principles. Nevertheless, only those in all denominations who have conformed to the conditions required of Christian discipleship, the saintly ones, constitute the true church—"the church of the first-born, whose names are written in heaven."

If we had a box of sawdust and scattered through it a paper of tacks until the latter were quite hidden from view, surrounded and covered in the sawdust, we know that we could take a magnet and, by passing it to and fro amongst the sawdust, the magnet would attract to itself every tack.

The tacks of this illustration represent a small class of humanity, zealous at heart for God and righteousness. The magnet represents the gospel invitation which is now passed up and down, hither and thither throughout the civilized world, and to some extent, also to the heathen world.

When we convince our hearers that the non-elect of this age are not doomed to eternal torment, but will have a blessing of inferior degree to that of "the elect," the effect should be to right our minds and to cause us to think carefully and critically of the strongest terms of discipleship which the Bible lays down as conditions for membership in the one true church.

Heretofore, with the false thought in mind that all except the church would be eternally tormented, we have all shrunk from making any reasonable application of the scriptural texts regarding saintship, discipleship, the becoming members of the church of the first-born. This was partly because of fear for ourselves, lest we might not come up to the standard of saintship, but especially was it because of our realization that the great mass of humanity in Christendom, as well as in heathen lands, came far short of the terms of discipleship laid down in God's word. Today the matter comes close home to us all, for we realize that many who were very near and dear to us have died outside of the nominal church, and far outside the special line of conditions which marked the church of the first-born.

LOOKING THROUGH THE TYPE.

St. Paul informs us that all the various features of the Jewish law were types of still higher, still better things. In our text the expression, "Church of the First-born," has reference to a type instituted in the very beginning of Israel's history, when God brought that people, by the hand of Moses, the mediator of the law covenant, out of the land of Egypt. To this type the apostle refers in his expression, "The Church of the First-born." The entire nation of Israel, twelve tribes, God had separated from the other nations to represent those who would be a blessing to all other nations, under the Abrahamic covenant. God's oath to Abraham was: "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

Pharaoh, King of Egypt, was holding back the nation from going into Palestine, the land of promise. One chastisement, after another failed to move him to submission until finally an intense calamity availed. The tenth plague was the smiting of the first-born of Egypt, while the Israelites were protected, thus showing divine interest in and care over Israel. Their first-born were miraculously preserved—to represent in type the church of the first-born. The true church of Christ are not all that will be saved, in the divine programme but merely, as St. James says, "These are a kind of first fruits unto God of His creatures" (James i. 18; Revelation xiv, 4.) The after fruits will come in due time, under the further development of the divine plan of the ages—as the result of Messiah's reign of a thousand years.

Some time after their deliverance from Egypt, by divine direction, the first-borns of all the families and tribes of Israel were exchanged, person by person, for the one tribe of Levi. The Levites thereafter represented the first-born of the church—they alone represented the first-borns of Israel passed over in that night. Subsequently the tribe of Levi became the instructors of the nation in religious matters, and from them was chosen one family for the priesthood—Aaron and his sons.

The scriptural picture is plain. In the antitype we are still in the night of passing over. Soon the morning of the new dispensation, under Messiah's reign, will begin, and all desirous of serving God and having His blessings will be delivered from the oppressing power of Satan and his hosts, typified by Pharaoh and his army. God intends to deliver the whole world from Satan's power. Satan shall be bound for a thousand years, during Messiah's reign, and is ultimately to be destroyed, and the people of God—all who desire to worship the Lord and to enter into the glorious land of promise—will be led forth. The first-born of these is the church of this gospel age, which will be associated with Christ, in His heavenly kingdom—"the church of the first-borns, whose names are written in heaven."

LEVITES ANTI-TYPICAL.

The entire tribe of Levi was specially consecrated to the Lord, and specially separate from the other tribes and was given no inheritance in the land. Thus the entire Church of Christ are begotten of the Holy Spirit to a superior, heavenly nature; they will have no inheritance with mankind in general in the earthly blessings—restitution to human perfection and participation in the blessings of the world-wide Eden to be. The promise under which they are now being developed is a heavenly, spiritual one. Their change will be a glorious one from earthly nature to a heavenly nature—they will all be like Christ. "They will neither marry nor be given in marriage, but will (in this) be like unto the angels; neither can they die any more."

But as from among these first-borns of Israel the family of Aaron was selected to be the priests, so from this Church of the First-borns God shows us that He is selecting a Royal Priesthood—a "little flock." Aaron and his sons were few in comparison to all the tribe of Levi, so only a saintly few expect to attain to glory, honor and immortality with Christ. These are referred to in the Scriptures as "members of the Body of Christ," even as the under-priests, Aaron's sons, in the type, were members of Aaron. Under another beautiful figure this Priestly few are styled the "Bride of Christ," and His joint-heirs in His Kingdom and work.

CHOSEN TO BLESS THE PEOPLE.

As these Levites, including the priests, were elected, or selected, for the purpose of being the instructors of Israel, so we perceive the Scriptures to teach that the Church of the First-born, when glorified, will be associated with Messiah in His great work of blessing and instructing all the people—all the families of the earth. The knowledge of the Lord at that time will be made known to all mankind; all the blind eyes shall be opened and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped. All the Levite class will share in the work of blessing, which the Lord for so many centuries has declared through the mouth of all the holy Prophets.

The effect of the New Covenant will be to bring the willing and obedient of all the people of earth fully back into harmony with God; and this, attained at the end of Messiah's reign of a thousand years, will prepare the way for the surrender of everything to the Heavenly Father, that He may be all in all, and that the world thereafter may be dealt with as perfect beings, along the lines of absolute justice and without any further need of a Mediator or other merciful provisions.

ON MARTYRS' GRAVES.

midnight in The Times Building when these men were murdered. I am prejudging the case of no man. But somebody wrought this deed of anarchy; somebody slew these innocent men.

"May God speedily clear from all strain of suspicion the names of all innocent men. And may He as surely bring to the bar of judgment the guilty ones. Can any true man refuse to say Amen to this?

"Beside these martyred dead we have no thought for vengeance. Should we strive to utter such a word, the sleeping martyred ones would waken to its harshness in this holy place, and whisper to us 'Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord.' Our lips are sealed. But today, as thousands of years ago, the voice of a murdered brother rises to God from the sodden ground. 'Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?'

"As we wait here, the quiet dead teach us peace, and tender forgiveness. These martyrs have forgiven their murderers. But have their murderers forgiven them? If so, they will show their forgiveness to the living.

"God's angels of grace keep watch over this sacred ground. God's love keeps it from profanation by unclean hands. Here, at this holy trysting place, its grasses watered by tears of all who love honor, may the Four Daughters of God, Mercy and Truth, Peace and Righteousness, meet to greet and kiss each other about this sepulcher of the martyrs, this beautiful, pitiful mingling place of broken-hearts. Their common grief makes them one in their unceasing sorrow. For the kiss that rests tenderly upon one perfumed blossom above the commingled ashes here, touches every sleeping heart beneath, as the lips of God touch the souls of all his race of men. Here comes the earliest sunrise with its glory of hope. Here the meadowlark sings his matin to the morn. Here the evening shadows linger long and tenderly at the time of the evensong and twilight. And here, when the stars look tenderly down upon the shrine of human sacrifice, the mockingbird enchants the night with the sweetness of melody.

"Death made his darkness noble when he drew into the shadows the men who sleep here. This is a temple of nobility, star lighted forever. hold them tenderly on thy soothing breast, O mother earth, rest their tired eyes in thy comforting darkness. Hush all their fears and pains in the softness of thy cool, enfolding arms. Let them hear only the whispering of the grasses growing so lightly above them; the bird song at morn and even and at midnight; the sweetest of all the tender echoes of the voices they loved the best on earth. The laughter of little children. The lips that speak, spoke their names on earth with tender intonations of love. The strong voices of the friendship of loyal comrades—faithful unto death. God, who hath measured unto them the anguish of the cross, reward unto them the joy and glory of the crown. He who hath accounted them worthy of martyrdom, grant unto them the exaltation of the saint.

"And teach us with eloquent, silent lips of these sleeping teachers: teach us, standing beside you, to pray, for your sake, the prayer of the Carpenter of Nazareth, dying in agony upon the cross, praying for those who compassed his death.

"'Father, forgive them; they knew not what they did.'"

TILL AGE SHALL POWDER TO DUST.

CORNER-STONE IS LAID OF GREATER "TIMES" BUILDING.

In Copper Casket on Shattered Scene of Century's Crime Are Placed Records of Battle Unremitting and Undismayed for Eternal Principle of Industrial Freedom.

The hands of the Courthouse clock pointed the hour of 4 p.m. when the exercises began at the laying of the corner-stone of the new Times Building. To those who had been present at the Hollywood services, hundreds of other friends were added to the assemblage which gathered at First street and Broadway to witness this initial step in the building of The Times' new home.

It will be a noble building, a structure of stateliness, and one of rare endeavor in the builder's art. The hundreds who were there to witness this beginning felt a personal pride in the monument to industrial freedom which is to be erected. Gen. Otis stepped upon the crude platform made of unfinished planks, thrown loosely over two rough carpenter's "horses" to welcome his friends and to announce the purpose of the gathering. He spoke with feeling but with no bitterness and every heart responded to his message and its tone.

Gen. Otis referred to the purpose of the assemblage, spoke of the principles for which The Times has always stood and in a few graphic sentences depicted the frightful event which resulted in the destruction of the Times Building and in the death of the employees in it. He introduced Col. Tom Fitch of The Times editorial staff.

Col. Fitch then delivered an oration, the stately periods of which were threaded with happy allusions. Col. Fitch was once without a platform peer and in his effort yesterday he proved that he has lost none of that glow of heart and ardent rush of speech which long ago led friends to call him the West's first silver-tongue.

When Col. Fitch concluded, Harry Chandler, assistant general manager of The Times, read the list of articles to be sealed within the copper chest and buried in the corner-stone. Gen. Otis repeated these announcements and with his own hands placed each article within the keeping of the unknown years. Added to these will be this edition of The Times, so that the present article may complete the history of The Times as far as it is written.

COL. FITCH'S ADDRESS.

"We have come from the grave of twenty men who, one year ago, on the spot, died at their post doing duty. They were martyrs to the cause of industrial freedom as truly as were the Christians who were slain in the streets of Rome by the soldiers of Nero martyrs to the cause of religious liberty. At the cemetery we gave to the memories of our dead the silent ministries of the flowers. The monument which will arise over the spot where their ashes repose will not more fitly express the honor that is their due than did the laurels and the lilies, the green boughs and fragrant blossoms that were laid above the mortal parts of those whose immortal spirits have journeyed on.

"From the dead we turn to the living. From the past and its memories we turn to the future and its duties. The duty of punishing those who on this spot one year ago perpetrated the 'Crime of the Century' is with those to whom the law has given that service. Whether those who are accused of the crime are or are not guilty we know not. If they are innocent may God send them a safe deliverance. In the great sum of human events the perpetrators and the inciters of the deed of destroying the Times Building and murdering its faithful workmen shall meet with human justice.

"Repentance and remorse may cause a merciful God to pardon the perpetrators of the crime which was profitless to them, and impervious to the mistaken cause in whose behalf they acted, but no human power swerved them.

"The crime was profitless to those who perpetrated it. They no more destroyed The Times, than they destroyed the souls that went up in the flames that fateful morning a year ago. The Times did not consist merely of types and presses, and paper and and stone walls, which dynamite could overturn, and flames destroy. The Times is an immortal entity. Its spirit, its purpose, its power, its life, are as indestructible as the mornings and as ceaseless as the flow of the tides.

"The destruction of its building and machinery, and the death of twenty of its workers, did not delay its publication for a day.

"Today we lay the corner-stone of a new home for The Times of the future. Within the walls of the edifice to be erected here, the couriers of the lightning will come, day and night, on their flashing steeds, bringing the news of continents and islands, of oceans and lakes, and rivers, of Arctic and tropic seas, of European and Orient and Antipodean shores. In its columns will be chronicled the movements of armies and navies, of strikes and riots, of Legislatures and courts, of the policies of foreign and domestic States, of the diamond greed of South Africa, the coffee crop of Brazil and the wheat crop of the world. There will be news of saving of crews and passengers from burning or sinking ships in mid-ocean, by rescuers summoned by wireless call. There will be news of the flights of aviators, of auto races, of baseball matches, of discussions in the prize ring, of straw votes on woman suffrage, and other sporting events.

"There will be tidings of births and deaths, of weddings and divorces, of social gatherings, and of the doings of political conventions and religious synods. There will be reports of sermons of divines, and the blasphemy of anarchists, of the speeches of some wise statesmen and the silence of the good advice of those who look up to the flag and of the evil counsel of those who trample upon it. Inventions and discoveries will be noted. Criticisms of players and singers, of dramas and operas, will be given. Changes in fashions will not be omitted. How to dress a maiden with ruffles and a turkey with truffles will be imparted. Art and literature will have The Times for a critic and a counselor. Truthful stories of the Civil War, of fifty years ago, and nearly truthful stories of the uncivil war that is proceeding in politics today, will be given. There will be plans of houses, menus for dinners, and instructions how to plant trees, how to raise chickens, and how to raise families, poetry and philosophy, short stories and long dissertations will have their place. The lounger will continue to lounge and the eagle to scream, and Uncle Walt to warble, and the man on the political watch tower to keep a bright lookout, and the matchless humor and philosophy of Burdette at the bat will enliven the columns of The Times.

"Finally there will be the genius of Shakespeare, the weirdness of Emerson, the wit of Swift, the dignified rhetoric of Addison and the sparkling antithesis of Macaulay all discounted by editorial writers whose contributions shall escape interment in the waste basket at the ruthless hand of the managing editor, whose war slogan is 'boil it down.'

"Within the building whose corner-stone we lay today will be published, long after the youngest of us shall have journeyed into the hereafter, the greatest newspaper in the greatest city of the greatest State west of the Rocky Mountains. The Times will stand as it has always stood, [illegible] against the wrong that needs resistance and for the cause that lacks assistance.

"The power of a free press is [illegible] most incalculable. It aids to crystallize and mould public opinion, and public opinion is a mighty force that in a free government builds up and pulls down parties and men, makes, repeals laws and dictates governmental policies. It will be remembered that in the early stages of the Civil War the leading Republican journals of the North were opposed to any interference with slavery where it was established, and compensated emancipation to the slave holders in the border States was the most radical measure that was suggested. Gen. Butler hewed the path to abolition when he refused to return escaped negroes even to Union masters, on the ground that slaves were 'contraband of war.' The northern press began to advocate abolition as a war measure only. From this it drifted into demanding it as a right. The public opinion which the press aroused and educated surged at the portals of the White House and the emancipation proclamation followed. The willing pen of Abraham Lincoln wrote that great document; but it was born of public opinion, and the newspaper press was its father.

"There is no power in all the land today so great as the power of the journalist. The words of the editor reach 1000 people and his utterances may to some extent be influenced by his personal interests and his personal temperament. The words of the journalist are read by 100,000 people and he is secure from attack or even criticism behind the shield of journalistic impersonality.

"I should transcend the proprieties of the occasion if I were to further extend these remarks. I say with all. 'Honor and remembrance to the Times of the past: Hail and All Hail to The Times of the future.'"

SUBMARINE BELL.

Enabled Captain of Steamship to Locate a Reef Many Then Seven Miles Distant.

[Portland Oregonian:] Serious delay to the big American-Hawaiian liner Missourian, Captain William Lyons, was prevented by what Captain Lyons describes as one of the most satisfactory and practical tests of a submarine signal apparatus he ever witnessed.

While off Destruction Island the Missourian encountered a fog which increased in density as the vessel proceeded north. It was impossible to make headway in safety, and after steaming slowly for several hours Captain Lyons began to maneuver his vessel in an effort to get the submarine bell signal from the Umatilla Reef lightship.

He was successful and located the reef seven and one-half miles distant. Captain Lyons says that the Missourian has picked up the submarine bell signals at a distance of sixteen miles and he believes it to be a great aid to navigation.

The fog which the Missourian encountered extended far [illegible] and practically all day the United States weather station on Tatoosh Island was unable to report the passage of vessels passing.

The Corset of Quality

Now that the Fall season is here, and you are making preparations for Fall and Winter apparel, it is only the part of wisdom to make early preparations for your right Corsets.

Complexions Flaked Off At Hom

(From Pilgrim Magazine)

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, most women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is unnecessary, now that the virtues of ordinary mercolized wax as a beautifier have become known. It has been found that the mercolide in the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored scarf skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is entirely removed—likewise all fine lines, pimples, blotches, moth patches or other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, almost youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no paint, powder or lotion can produce. Mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is applied like cold cream

GROSSCUP QUITS.

If Judge Peter S. Grosscup says that, his enemies having failed to make good their claim that they would bring charges against him involving his character as a jurist, he will tender his resignation to President Taft this week. What will the muck-raking magazines do about it?

MAN'S MISTAKE.

Some people are always doing the wrong thing. If Dr. John G. Lyman, the Wallingford of Los Angeles, had not attempted to escape, he might have had some defense against the charges that will be brought against him. Now he hasn't a single chance. He has confessed his guilt by trying to get away.

WHAT SHALL IT BE?

The folks up in San Francisco are all heated over a discussion of the question whether the card setting forth the viands to be served to President Taft shall be called a "bill of fare" or a "menu." It is not the name as much as what they have to eat that counts. But it is easy to start an excitement in the Bay City.

NOGALES NACO.

A bloodless revolt took place in Naco on the Mexican side of the line Thursday night. No one can possibly know the joy of Naco short of a temporary residence there. It is the gateway to Cananea, a neighbor to Douglas, Ariz., and Agua Prieta, and a sort of rendezvous for both rangers and rurales from which to start man hunts on both sides of the line.

THE ENGLISH WAY.

A few weeks ago, when England was in the throes of a general strike that threatened to paralyze the industries of the United Kingdom, all immediate danger was obviated by both sides agreeing to arbitrate the matter of difference between workmen and employers. The government interfered and stopped the trouble. The arbitration committee is now at work. But in this land of the free we do things differently.

MORE WORK FOR TAFT.

We trust there is some foundation for the rumor that this country may be enabled to intervene in the Turco-Italian war, to the end that peace may be brought about. We hope that President Taft may, in some manner, induce Turkey and Italy to become members of his already happy family of arbitration. The Hague, and not the red fields of battle, is the place in which to settle quarrels between nations.

ITALY'S BURDENS.

Whatever may be the merits of the controversy between Italy and Turkey, the fact remains that the war will add to the already heavy burdens which militarism has imposed on the common people of Italy. At the present time 16 cents out of every dollar which an Italian workingman earns goes to the support of the army and navy. If the present conflict is protracted the chances are that the average Italian will be compelled to part with an added slice of his hard-to-get and very meager dollar.

ADVERTISING BOB.

An ambitious Wisconsin farmer is printing a magazine known as La Follette's weekly. He has been at this ever since he went to the United States Senate on a big advertising expedition. Lately he has been handing this literature to some of the bookmakers in the country, and we should think that the Appeal to Treason would become tedious. Its masthead always bears the quotation: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." We had once entertained a suspicion that this statement meant that the things people let alone should never hurt them.

SAFETY MARRIAGES.

If somebody will kindly invent a safety divorce and marriage device the public will be largely profited thereby. A Chicago judge has ruled that a man in that city is illegally married because he had previously gone to Reno for the express purpose of getting a divorce. This would probably apply to all the divorces issued to the floating population of that city. A failure to properly record divorce decrees at Seattle divorced 300 persons to remarry there last week. Even the gentle readers of The Times may number in their acquaintances some couples who are not backed by any more legality than they ought to be.

"WITHOUT ENTHUSIASM."

Dr. Wiley announces that he is "for woman suffrage without enthusiasm"—leaving energetic advocacy to his wife. That declaration of the great food expert will not cheer our sisters in affliction. If Martin Luther had been without enthusiasm there would have been more cathedrals and fewer meeting-houses in Germany. If Thomas Jefferson had been without enthusiasm the Declaration of Independence might never have been written. If George Washington had been without enthusiasm he would have left it at camp fire and warmed himself placidly on the nearer bank of the Delaware instead of encountering the roaring ice. If Gifford Pinchot had been without enthusiasm there would have been no big dividends for the stockholders in the Pocahontas Coal Company and Los Angelenos would have been getting their winter supply of Alaskan coal at $7 per ton instead of $12.

The world's work has been done by enthusiasts. Its social reforms have been achieved and its political chloroforms accomplished by enthusiasm. Wherefore, beloved, be sure that you are right and then whoop it up.

THE SHOPMEN'S STRIKE.

Sam Gompers, interviewed on his journey eastward, declares that the shopmen on the Harriman lines will win their strike "hands down." Gompers is talking with unusual recklessness for a leader intrusted with so great responsibilities. Such ill-considered mouthing cannot inspire confidence. The strike has just started, and not in a way to warrant any such conclusion as that expressed by Gompers. As a matter of fact, it is too early to come to any conclusion concerning a battle which is only in its formative stage. A wise commander would hesitate to express his views until he could take a broader and more comprehensive survey of the field.

Over against the cheerful bluffing of Gompers comes the careful statement of Mr. Calvin, general manager of the Southern Pacific system, showing that 60 per cent. of the men in his jurisdiction refused to strike, but remained at their work. This is certainly an inauspicious beginning for the strikers. If more than half of the men called out decline to obey the call, what ground is there for asserting that the strikers will win? Per contra, it looks as though their chances of winning are very dubious. They go into a hard fight divided and weakened. Their own forces are beyond their control.

It is probable that many of the strikers, seeing that such a large percentage of the shopmen wisely decided to hold on to their good jobs, will regret having acted rashly and will soon seek to regain their former places. They will face the obvious conclusion that they have made fools of themselves while other men have been wiser, and they will make haste to get in out of the chilly wetness before it is too late. We predict that good advice from the wives and mothers will help, and that in a very few days scores of strikers will be knocking for readmission to the shops. Mr. Calvin announces that he will treat these men liberally.

It is significant that the strike leaders concentrated their efforts on Los Angeles and did the most mischief here. They deliberately and for obvious reasons chose Los Angeles as the chief battleground. They apparently have the most money to spend here. It is reported in labor-union circles that they are actually paying some of the men, whom it was hard to drag out, full wages to remain in idleness and keep away from the shops. This cannot last long and it will not set well on the stomachs of fellow-strikers who are forced to be content with their pittance of $1 per day.

The evident purpose of the Gomperites to raise all the devilment they can in Los Angeles, and to do all the harm they can to its industries, will not add to the numbers of their friends here. If they succeed in closing the Los Angeles shops while those in other cities are operated, in reducing the ranks of Los Angeles wage-earners, and in shutting off $30,000 to $50,000 a week from the streams of money coming into Los Angeles coffers, they will not in that way create sentiment favorable to unionism or Job Harriman in this city.

TURKEY'S MILITARY STRENGTH.

The Turks, like the Japanese, being fatalists in religion, are born fighters. Witness their defense of Plevna in the Russo-Turkish War, when for months they withstood the frequent attacks of the far superior (in numbers) forces of the Russians. Witness also their able co-operation with the English and French forces in the Crimean War. History is full of instances of their prowess in military engagements. In Turkey every Mussulman is obliged, if called upon, to give twenty years military service to the government. The liability begins at the age of 20. The Nomad Arabs and the Nomad Kurds are also liable to military duty. The Turkish army is made up of: (1) The Nizam, or regular army, and its reserves; (2) the Redif, or Landwehr; (3) the Mustahfuz, or Landsturm. Turkey exercises the power of keeping its army recruited by conscription. The conscripts are divided into first and second levies. The first serve six years in the Nizam, four with the colors and two with the reserves; eight years in the Redif, four in the first and four in the second; and six years in the Mustahfuz—in all, twenty years. The second levy constitutes what is called the Tertib-Sani and the Mulnair, and form part of the reserve. They have nine months' drill the first year, and thirty days each subsequent year when not in actual service.

There are seven military districts in the empire. The headquarters are at Constantinople, Adrianople, Monastir, Ersinjan, Damascus, Bagdad, Sanaa (the Yemen.)

The war strength of the Turkish army is about 1,400,000 or 1,500,000, each man of whom would esteem it an honor to die for his country, which is, in fact, his religion—the Sultan of Turkey being Commander of the Faithful and the legal and accepted head of the Mohammedan religion. He is looked upon as the direct successor of Mohammed.

ITALY'S DESIRE.

The troubles that have eventuated in a declaration of war by Italy against Turkey have been long fomenting. Italy's desire to go in and possess the Turkish regency of Tripoli may be said to have animated her people and government for many years. The Italian sphere of influence, which has for so long been exercised over the 400,000 square miles of Tripolitan territory in Northern Africa, has been on numerous occasions recognized by one or more of the great powers, and statistics show that Italy has the bulk of the trade centering at the capital of the province. Great Britain, to be sure, is understood to object to overt measures on the part of the Turks' opponent, but the objections have not been so serious as to deter the latter country from sweeping the board. Italy has been credited with a wish to govern Tripoli in conjunction with Turkey, but if this hope has ever been sincerely entertained late events have shattered it. On the part of Turkey, she has never favored it, and has even declined to acknowledge Italy's claim to a privileged position in her African possession. In Italy itself all classes of the people are said to favor extreme measures, (excepting the socialists,) so that it may be assumed that the war will be a popular one there. The friendship between Italy and France and the French possessions of Algeria and Tunis near by, together with France's great influence in other parts of Northern Africa, are factors that favor the successful prosecution of Italy's claim to a larger share in the government of Tripoli. In fact, France has distinctly recognized the claims of Italy.

Turkey has for centuries had her finger in the Tripolitan pie, but it was not until the recent date of 1835 that her rule there became absolute. The little province is an important prize, however, and many countries have tried their hand in holding it as their own. Spain is among the powers that undertook it and failed, and the Normans of Sicily are said to have made something of a success in the same effort several centuries ago. Even the United States has been mixed up in Tripolitan affairs, but with no desire to attach the country to her own dominions across the seas. Twice, one in 1803 and again in 1815, Uncle Sam considered it his duty to chastise the Tripolitans, and for the same reason that a number of European powers undertook the duty. Each effort in this direction was for the punishment of chronic piracy on the part of the freebooting Africans, but not all the wars to this end may be called successful. For instance, in the war of 1803 the United States frigate Philadelphia was captured, with Capt. Brainbridge and all her crew, and it took a large sum of good American money to ransom the captives from the hands of the saucy Mediterranean pirates. In the second war the Turks were forced to come to terms.

RUSKIN ON WORKERS.

Forty-six years ago John Ruskin delivered a lecture before the Camberwell Working Men's Institute in England in which he treated candidly and concisely the relations between capital and labor as follows:

"The fact is that there are idle poor and idle rich; and there are busy poor and busy rich. Many a beggar is as lazy as if he had ten thousand a year; and many a man of large fortune is busier than his errand boy and never would think of stopping in the street to play marbles. So that, in a large view, the distinction between workers and idlers, as between knaves and honest men, runs through the very heart and innermost nature of men of all ranks and in all positions. There is a working class—strong and happy—among both rich and poor; there is an idle class—weak, wicked and miserable—among both rich and poor. And the worst of the misunderstandings arising between the two orders come of the unlucky fact that the wise of one class (how little wise in this!) habitually contemplate the foolish of the other. If the busy rich people watched and rebuked the idle rich people all would be right among them; and if the busy poor people watched and rebuked the idle poor people all would be right among them. But each looks for the fault of the other. A hardworking man of property is particularly offended by an idle beggar; and an orderly, but poor, workman is naturally intolerant of the licentious luxury of the rich. And what is severe judgment in the minds of the just men of either class becomes fierce enmity in the unjust—but among the unjust only. None but the dissolute among the poor look upon the rich as their natural enemies, or desire to pillage their houses and divide their property. None but the dissolute among the rich speak in opprobrious terms of the vices and follies of the poor."

Dyspeptic Philosophy.

[New York Times:] A dollar will go further if you mail it than if you bet it.

Many a political plum has turned out to be a lemon in disguise.

The fellow who depends on a train of thought doesn't always get there on time.

If there is anything at all in a person, an ocean voyage will generally bring it out.

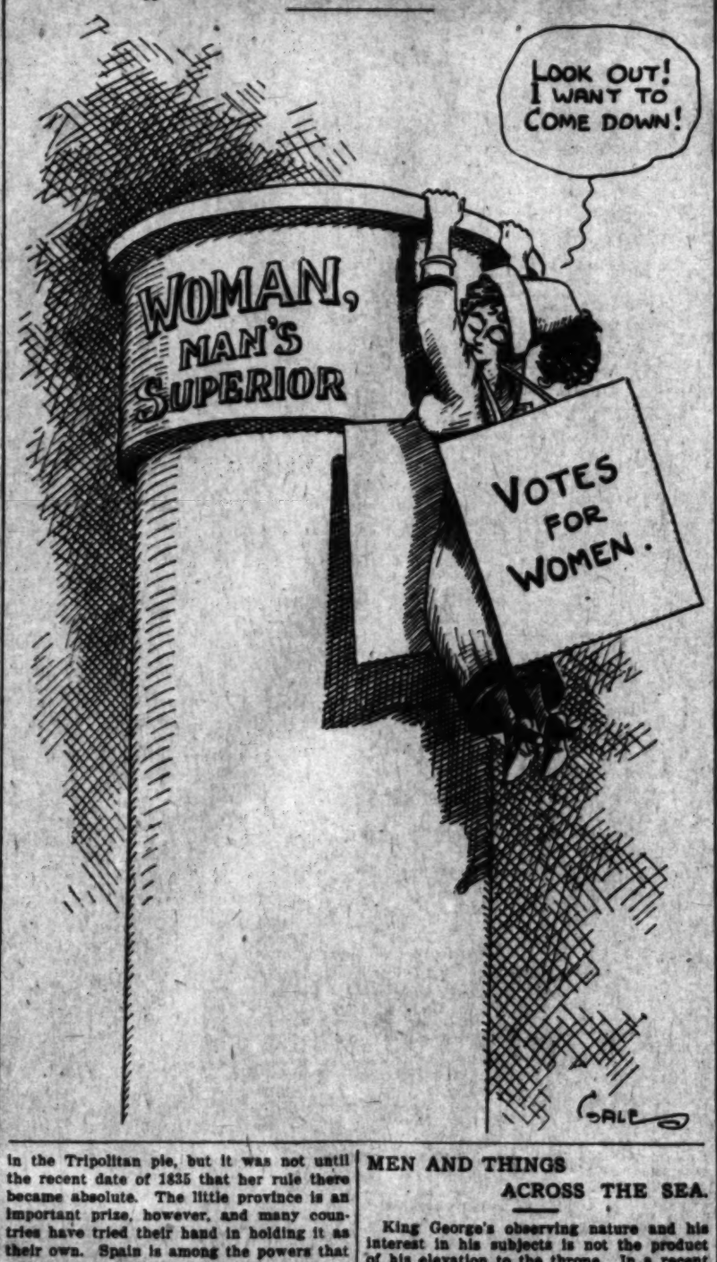
All women are riddles, and the plainer they are the more readily men give them up.

Marriage is just to prove to a man that a girl's golden tresses are after all just plain, ordinary red hair.

Perhaps the reason one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives is because men are not so inquisitive as women.

[Chicago Record:] "I have decided to quit this company tonight," said the prima donna, as she flounced into the manager's office. "But, my dear Miss Rivington," he protested, "we have nobody to take your place." "That's why I have decided to quit tonight."

Off Her Pedestal? No!



MEN AND THINGS ACROSS THE SEA.

King George's observing nature and his interest in his subjects is not the product of his elevation to the throne. In a recent address the Bishop of Worcester told of a conversation he once had with King George when he was Duke of York, on the subject of manners. The bishop said that on the occasion in question he was about to address some public school boys, when the Duke of York remarked, "Why do you not ask that at public schools manners should be taught?"

In response to the bishop's question as to why he should specially emphasize manners, the Duke of York replied:

"Because, as you know, I mix among all sorts and conditions of men, and it has been a positive distress to me to see how often, when abroad, Englishmen lose in the race with Frenchmen, Italians and Germans because of the Englishman's want of manners.

"The foreigners know when to bow, to shake hands, to converse, to stand up or sit down, in the presence of their superiors, while the Englishman is wanting in these manners, and when vacancies have to be filled up those are the points which very often tell, and that is where the Englishman does not shine."

Equal rights for women in France has received a setback from the Minister of Public Instruction. Two young women recently applied for permission to compete with men for a secretarial post in his ministry. He delayed his answer until after consultation with his colleagues in the Cabinet, as it was felt that such a novel request required special consideration on account of the precedent that would be set, and he now has replied that he regrets he is unable to do what the applicants ask, as according to the regulations of his administration no person can be employed who has not complied with the law in regard to military service.

The reason given is meeting with some criticism and one journal points out that there are at present a number of clerks in the government employ who have been rejected by the military authorities on the score of physical unfitness.

Paris is short of water and immediate steps are to be taken to seek new sources of supply. The present proposition is to tap some of the lakes or rivers of Switzerland. If water is brought from the River Rhone or Lake Leman seven years is estimated as the least time in which the undertaking can be consummated. Spring water can be brought from Provius in five years, so that up to 1916 at least the city will have to rely upon its old resources and the sterilized water from the Nearne. A credit of from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 is to be asked for the purpose of installing the necessary increased water supply. It is calculated, according to the plans already drawn up, that the glacial water of Switzerland will supply 450,000 cubic meters a day, summer and winter, and the difference in level will supply all the pressure required for the delivery of the water.

The president of the Berlin police is making a name for himself. He will descend into the nether regions weighted with women's curses. Only the other day he issued a brutal and tyrannical order against the feminine hatpin, and now, with his bloodlust still ungiutted, he has forbidden ladies to wear their hats in the theater under penalty of a heavy fine, said fine to be inflicted upon the theater managers. Already a storm of protest has been raised, and not only by the hat wearers, but by the hat sellers. The milliners say that the new order will ruin their business, since the woman who may not display her headgear at the theater will be indifferent to both style and quality. Several society leaders have already been interviewed, and they all say the same thing. They declare frankly that they go to the theater, not to see the performance, but to display their millinery, and if henceforth they may not do this then they will stay at home.

LIFE'S LITTLE TEMPTATIONS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Anybody can resist a big and important temptation. We can rise to it with all the nobility of our strong young souls, with all the splendid consciousness of righteousness. A big temptation is in every way worth while. The amount of glorified self-satisfaction one gets out of resisting the really first-class temptation quite repays us for any temporary inconvenience it may put us to.

And even when we don't resist—well, there is every excuse for us, it was such a tremendous one! And we get almost as much eclat out of it that way. We all know the noble hero who declines to elope with the rich heiress, although she is positively hurling herself into his reluctant arms. And how we admire his splendid virtue, even while we privately think him a bit of an idiot! And when, on the other hand, he finally falls, crushes the fair one to his heart, and sees that her fortune is placed in the bank on a joint account—why then our sympathies are entirely with him all the same.

And the bank clerk who wallows in other people's money from 10 to 3 o'clock every day. Of course we are quite prepared to give him every credit for not appropriating a few sacksful—but on the sad occasion when one of him does, alas! succumb to the persistent call, why even then we don't feel at all spiteful as long as the bank is not our own and our dividends are not thereby reduced.

But it is the little temptations of life that harrow our souls. It is the little temptation, which carries no glory with it either way, that gives us that daily wrestle with his Satanic Majesty.

How often, my friend, have you and I pondered just the fraction of a second ere we struck that match on the plastered wall instead of upon its appointed spot! We knew it was wrong. We knew that in course of time that scratch, like the penny Adam should have invested for posterity but didn't, will grow in dirt and dimension until the larger part of that guiltless plaster will be disfigured before the world.

Full well we knew this thing—yet how many of us have resisted this paltry temptation when we were confronted with it?

And those brave souls amongst us that proclaim to the world our daily indulgence in the cold bath! When the days are long and the temperature high—then indeed our consciences are clear. But on those cold gray mornings—ah, then!—which of us has slunk down like a thief and shivered in our bath gown, the while we hurriedly turned on boiling water (with as little noise as possible!) and hastened to take the heroic part of the edge off that bath? But did we shout the fact from the housetops? Instead: "Pooh! I take a cold bath winter and summer, every day of my life!"

And the seductive mirror, placed by evil-minded merchants upon their store fronts. Vanity! Why of course you are not vain and the last thing you are likely to do is to stop and take a peep at your unworthy features in a public mirror. Bold, strong man! It is not temptation to you. Sweet, virtuous woman, such vulgarity is beneath you. And yet who of us, oh, my brethren, has successfully dragged his wicked, vainglorious person past one of those mirrors, if it happened to be somewhat secluded? That tie—horrors! suppose it should have become unstuck? That hat—suppose it should not be poised at the fashionable angle?

Alas! we have all fallen in our time—and not only once, either.

And the alluring green onion. Such a vulgar comestible. And really, the after effects . . . ! Well, how could any one with any self-respect . . . But I am not going to town tomorrow—I shan't meet any one at all until the evening—and they really do look rather inviting. No one need know. And they do say a clove chewed carefully . . .

And the rest of the sad, sad story is known to all of you.

And you, my sisters. How many times have you put your trust in a wicked, backsliding pin when it was your plain duty to sew on a button? The wily pin is probably one of woman's greatest little temptations. And the same woman who cannot resist the pin is capable of resisting a diamond necklace and a dress allowance with fearless strength of character.

And another little temptation before which virtuous womanhood constantly falls is the kimono. Frequently clean, but not always, this seductive garment decoys her into slatternly habits with irresistible force. It is so easy to put on, so comfortable, and really not altogether unbecoming . . . and, after all, one has to dress again in an hour or so's time . . . And then that little house dress wants mending and the other is in the wash . . . And besides. And sad and incessant is the fall thereof.

And what about the dusting? Do you always lift every vase, remove and shake every cover? Do you never skip the place behind the sofa? Do you always, always move the dresser out and sweep behind it, and under the beds?

"Oh, well, it will get done properly next time. I am rather in a hurry today. Besides no one will see 'round there." . . . Ah!

Then those saucepans. They are such nasty, sticky things to wash. "I think I will leave those two until tomorrow. I might hide that baking tin in the oven till I am ready . . ."

It's a long, sad story. I have come to the conclusion that it is life's little temptations that make for our undoing.

Any one can resist a big, substantial temptation, but it takes an archangel to resist a little one.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher.

I'm glad there is one day for resting, one day the tired man owns, when he may cease his weary questing for bones, and still more bones. I'm glad to see the people wending their way to church and pew, to hear a tale of love unending and grace for me and
you. It rests one's soul to hear the ringing of church bells here and there; to hear the organ nobly flinging its music to the air.
The tiresome talk of trade's unspoken.
store window shades are down; a stillness, soothing and unbroken, is resting on the town, save where some ancient dame is crooning a hymn she used to sing, before her life had reached its noontide, and love had taken wing; save where the children, strange to sorrow, find Sunday dull and gray, and wail a longing for tomorrow, when they can run and play. I'm glad there is one day of resting when wheels have ceased to hum, and all the bartering and jesting and greedy lips are dumb. One blessed day, one day in seven, a boon to have and hold! One day to think of hymns and heaven, forgetting guile and gold!

JOY OF THE MOURNING.

Shouting, a-swing above the broken wall.
Shout louder yet; no song can tell it all.
Sing to my soul in the deep, still wood;
'Tis wonderful, beyond the wildest word,
I'd tell it, too, if I could.

Oft when the white, still dawn
Lifted the skies and pushed the hills apart
I've felt it like a glory in my heart—
(The world's mysterious stir)—
But had no throat like yours, my bird,
Nor such a listener.

LEONARDO'S "MONA LISA."

Make thyself known, Sibyl, or let despair
Of knowing thee be absolute; I wait
Hour-long and waste a soul. What word of fate
Hides 'twixt the lips which smile and still forbear?
Secret perfection! Mystery too fair!
Tangle the sense no more, but I should hate
The delicate tyranny, the inviolate
Poise of thy folded hands, the fallen hair.
Nay, nay—I wrong thee with rough words; still be Serene, victorious, inaccessible;
Still smile but speak not; lightest irony
Lurk ever 'neath thy eyelids' shadow; still O'ertop our knowledge; Sphinx of Italy,
Allure us and reject us at thy will!

For Newcomers, Inquirers, Subscribers and Advertisers, Agents and the Public About the Los Angeles Times

FEATURES.

PUBLISHED REGULARLY more pages of news and other reading matter and a larger volume of advertising than any other paper extant.

SCOPE AND AIMS: Independent, unprejudiced, unshackled, unpurchasable, unafraid and unencumbered. THE LOS ANGELES TIMES is devoted to the great principles of Liberty under Law. Equal rights in all fields of lawful human endeavor, Industrial Freedom, and to the upbuilding of Los Angeles, the State of California and the great Southwest.

AS TO LABOR: The Times champions the principle of "equality of opportunity," with all that it means to independent labor and the average good citizen. It is the undeviating friend of all honest toilers—of all unshackled law-abiding workers everywhere; and while never denying the right of workmen to organize lawfully, it is the unyielding foe of lawless, coercive, monopolistic and exclusive labor organizations, because they are the selfish enemies of their own class and the common industrial weal. Our position is unmistakable and will be maintained. The long record of The Times as a just, liberal, reliable paymaster is unassailable. During the period between August 6, 1890, and September 30, 1910, there was paid to our loyal and well-satisfied non-union workmen, in salaries and wages, the telling aggregate cash sum of $4,925,125.05—mainly to skilled labor.

CONSERVATION: The Times stands for the conservation of human life and character, with all their tremendous potentialities; for the conservation of home and country; of the Flag and its glorious traditions; of national life and national honor, with their pregnant possibilities; of true, old-time, advanced and enlightened moral conditions; for the conservation of a brave, virtuous, patriotic citizenship, without which no nation can be great and good.

MISS NOBODY SURE SOMEBODY.

MAJESTIC SHOW PROVES GAY WHIRLWIND.

Nana Bryant, at the Burbank Theater, a Remarkable Singer—Henry Stockbridge's Clever Work in "The Man Who Owns Broadway." Armstrong Farewell Week.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

"Miss Nobody From Starland" is sure somebody.

This whirlwind entertainment, coming with not nearly so much advance rejoicing as has prefaced many a musical play of far less worth, was a distinct surprise to a big audience at the Hamburger Majestic Theater last night, and will doubtless continue to surprise other large audiences throughout the week.

It is a Chicago affair. It has the specialty idea—which seems to constitute the basis of modern musical comedy—boiled down to a gingery essence; and it has not one star, but a galaxy.

Olive Vail has the big type, but Bertie Beaumonte, playing an Italian girl, very nearly steals the big honor. The reason that Miss Vail saves her stellar locality is that she assumes, at no time in the game, the customary prima donna air, but is wholly delightful, natural, good-humored and infectiously gay.

Miss Vail is a clever comedienne, and a splendid singer, though she has an evident temptation to do inartistic things—such as holding a single note desperately long time to prove her breath control. Nevertheless she is a singer such as one seldom hears, and she was deservedly encored again and again. Miss Beaumonte in the first act, on an Atlantic liner, speaks not a word of English. She is an Italian emigrant girl, whose life has been saved, in a quarrel with one of her countrymen, by a young American. She pours out a torrent of Neapolitan devotion—quite misunderstood. In the second act she is a musical comedienne, half-mistress of the language, and a public success. In the third act she is a triumph, and does some brilliant, cyclonic and bizarre dancing.

Of the men, Robert H. Wilson exhibits the most native talent. His best work, as it happens, is in the first act, where he is just American boy through and through, and as full of tricks on his trickful old dad as a three-months colt is full of capers.

Lawrence Comer, as a hair-restorer promulgator, general seeker of pleasure and unintentional philanthropist —also stage manager in the second act—plays a diverse role in uproarous fashion.

The second scene, showing the stage of a theater—from "behind"—on the night of a production, and the comic disasters attendant thereupon, drew shouts, howls and shrieks from the audience.

The chorus is both fair and dark to look upon, and the most of them are excellent examples of their respective grades and architecture.

The rendition is fast, varied and careful, and there are a number of clever people in minor roles.

Burbank.

Nana Bryant, the new leading woman of the Burbank company, is a remarkable singer.

This statement is not made in the usual manner of well-she-got-away-with-it praise generally accorded the dramatic lady who, with a trembling voice, essays the role of a musical comedy singer, but with the seriousness and sobriety of one who is endeavoring to recognize a true musician.

Miss Bryant says that she has never had a vocal lesson. This—granted that Miss Bryant hasn't forgotten—is just what makes her singing remarkable. Her voice, naturally of sympathetic quality and great fidelity of pitch, has fine range and extraordinary placement. It vibrates with that peculiar ringing quality with which vocal teachers strive to imbue the tones of their pupils. Its owner sings with the repose—the real repose—which is the mark of the true artist, and her phrasing might have been acquired in Italy. She offered several trifles yesterday, and "The Song of the Soul," from "The Climax." I believe that Miss Bryant could really manipulate a whole concert programme.

And otherwise she's a very pretty leading lady, and the audience seemed pleased, as usual. If her dramatic equipment matches her vocal gifts—hooray! We'll find out in the first real play.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway" was vocalized by George Cohan from his drama, "Popularity," which was a failure. Now we know why "Popularity" was a failure. Because, dramatically, this piece contains not an ounce of inspiration, not a new line really worth while, not a situation but what has long ago been beaten and frazzled to death. Cohan's musicalization, with certain tunes and choruses, a few catchy Cohan lines—notably "I never played Denver but one night in my life!" which you'll appreciate only when you hear it—and some bits of business, have changed a piece of unendurable trash into the semblance of a real play.

The man who owns Broadway is a popular actor. The title is true enough. His conquest of a pair of bunks, his winning of a pretty girl who has worshiped his photograph, and his deliverance of the expected quota of Cohangrams occupies most of the two and one-half hours of this bonafide entertainment.

Mr. Cohan should be thankful that he had a Henry Stockbridge to popularize his piece on its first sight in Los Angeles. Mr. Hitchcock, the New York player of the part of Sydney Lyons, is the diametric opposite of our friend, Heinie, but it is quite possible to play any given part in opposite directions and make both efforts popularly successful. Mr. Stockbridge began by remarking that he had composed a poem of thanks for his reception, but that as he had forgotten the stanzas and lost the manuscript he would endeavor to quote some lines of the author's, which while of course secondary to his effort, were good enough in their way. And without more wearisome adieu he went at it. Which should serve as a lesson to such of our actors as consider a welcome home an opportunity for baccalaureate addresses. Henry was a characteristic rapid personal success to the final curtain, which went down with a bang about 4:40 o'clock.

Mr. Raggles had a character role in which, as a hick theatrical manager of considerable pretentiousness, he was simply immense.

Mr. Camp, only twenty-four hours ago a Romeo, vouchsafed the sequel to "Casey at the Bat"—great—and played a smooth villain.

Miss Travers, at her best as an adventuress always, was—at her best.

Little Selma Paley, a peachy ingenue addition to the company, was a sprightly maid and demonstrated the possession of a brilliant soprano voice.

Mr. Stanley, Mr. Corrigan, Mr. Marks, Miss Stose and sundry others contributed alert personal touches to the success of the affair.

Frank Egan's personally selected chorus is termed by the truthful press agent a society chorus. But as Alma Whitaker says, we have no such thing as society in America, I suppose we shall have to omit the classifying word. However, the Egan chorus certainly beats anything the Burbank has ever before offered choristorically, in looks and grace—barring the few inevitable members of the awkward squad who still shy at real footlights.

George Towle kept the instrumentalists in the pit and the vocalists on the stage, and was generally a benevolent guiding hand.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway" took its first round on the low yesterday, but after that it slipped into such a laughably high gear that it looks like a regular Burbank to-be-continued.

Lyceum.

This week the Armstrongites bid Los Angeles and the Lyceum Theater a fond farewell. Everybody has had a good time—they and we—and we shall be tickled to death if they come back again.

Ethel Davis wasn't on the stage yesterday at any of the performances. Her pretty little throat is clogged with a cold, I'm told. However, she occupied a box, with a number of other pretty girls, and helped on "The Fashion Show" by trying to break it up with continuous and very audible chatter. At the evening performance a lady in the box in front of them took it all very seriously, and left her seat in high indignation to find a quieter spot in the auditorium. Miss Davis and her charming aids were abetted by a bunch of equally noisy young men in another box, so that for a time it looked as though a riot was imminent in the Lyceum. Ethel and the boys objected to the show, called for the hook, and demanded the Baby Dolls. The Dolls came on, and order was restored.

"The Fashion Show" is not, of course, a very literal dramatic interpretation of the carnival of colors and fabrics and other feminine foibles and follies that recently enlivened still more the ever lively streets and shops of Los Angeles. It's a plotless little musical comedy strung with the requisite number of exceedingly obvious jokes and simple ditties. In it the Doll Babies sing and dance, and twist an dturn to the best possible advantage of graceful limbs and attractive faces.

Walter Spencer sings a song in which he brazenly informs us that he "loves them all," and brings out one girl after another, and finally the whole bunch do a turn with him very nicely. Pretty, too, is "Milwaukee," sung by Dorothy Dale and the Baby Dolls, and danced by them fn clattering wooden shoes.

The Baby Dolls will not leave next Saturday night. The popular clamor (I'm sure clamor was the word I heard,) for their continuance in our midst has been so great that they have kindly consented to sing on next Sunday afternoon and evening, when the results of the "Chorus Girls' Contest" will be announced. An entirely new musical play will be given on Sunday.

Expecting Too Much.

[Life:] Representative Underwood of Alabama has a story of a man in a town of that State who derived a considerable income from the rental of shanties to negroes. This man bore the reputation of being hard in his business dealings.

One day two negroes were talking of him, when one of them, with reference to the reported "conversion" of the subject of their conversation, asked:

"Do his gittin' religion make any diff'rence to him?"

"Ya-as, indeed!" exclaimed the other colored man. "It do make a great diff'rence. When he kick one o' dem colo'd men out now he tell him how much it grieve him to disturb him—an' he used to be rough in his manner."

"But he kick dem out jest de same," observed the first.

"Ya-as, he kick dem out jest de same," agreed the second. "But, den," he added, "you kin skeersely expect a man to carry his religion so far as to interfere wid his business."

Traffic Record.

NEW FLYER FOR SUNSET ROUTE.

Fast Train Is Added to Run to New Orleans.

Will Cut Thirty Hours from Present Schedule.

Equipment de Luxe Is Made a Special Feature.

Modern travel, already luxurious, is to be made even more so by the Southern Pacific Sunset route. Plans for a new train to run twice weekly between New Orleans and Los Angeles and San Francisco call for a cut of thirty hours in the running time between the two points. The new schedule, with its attendant comforts, has been brought about by the heavy winter travel to Southern California on the Sunset route, and to care for this new equipment is now being built in the Pullman shops at Chicago.

The trains will be all steel. The cars be of the latest design and will contain every comfort now in use on the fastest and best equipped trains, and many new conveniences in addition.

The trains will consist of only six cars, and thus the high speed that will be demanded to make the schedule may be maintained with comparative ease. Each train will carry only a dynamo and baggage car, a diner, three drawing-room sleepers and an observation smoking car. The sleeping and drawing-room cars will be finished in mahogany and other beautiful hardwoods and furnished in luxurious fashion. The sleeping cars will each contain ten sections, two compartments and a drawing-room. They are being built with an especial regard to the comfort of women, in that the accommodations for them will be most commodious. A ladies' maid, manicure and hairdresser will aid in caring for the needs of the women.

The men also will be well taken care of, there being a barber, shower bath, arrangements for pressing clothing and a stenographer aboard.

The berths are to be electric lighted both upper and lower, and electric fans will cool the air of the car.

The dust and dirt of transcontinental travel will be eliminated as much as possible by the installation of vacuum cleaners that will do away with the offensive brushing up of dirt in the cars. At all terminals the trains will be given telephone connections and travelers will be enabled to talk with friends in the city without leaving the cars.

Service on the "Sunset Limited" will begin December 4, from New Orleans and the following day from San Francisco. The trains will leave New Orleans at 12:30 noon Mondays and Thursdays of each week and arrive in Los Angeles at 9:15 p.m. every Wednesday and Saturday, and in San Francisco at 11 a.m. the following days.

On the eastern trip trains will leave San Francisco at 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Saturdays, Los Angeles at 8:30 a.m. the following days and arrive in New Orleans at 7:20 p.m. every Friday and Tuesday. The running time between Los Angeles and New Orleans will thus be cut to fifty-six hours and fifty minutes and between San Francisco and New Orleans to seventy hours and fifty minutes, or less than three days for the trip that now takes more than four.

The luxuries afforded the traveler and the speed attained are such that an excess fare of $10 will be charged between the two terminals.

The time of the two trains has been gauged so that direct and quick connection will be made at both ends of the route with ocean steamships. Travelers from San Francisco bound for the East and North may take this train and be whirled to the Louisiana metropolis and there transfer to fast trains or steamships of the Southern Pacific. On the western trip the man who is hurrying to catch one of the vessels of the Pacific Mail will have an additional day for business and still make his boat.

The service when inaugurated will be a unique departure in railroad history. The trains will be different from any other in the United States, the equipment of the latest and best and every care will be taken for the safety of passengers.

"It's the biggest thing ever attempted by any railroad," said a Southern Pacific official. "Of course there are extra fare trains, but none like these, and no railroad ever before made such a cut in the running time as we will make. And we will do it in a fashion that really will add to the safety of travel, as our trains will be specially safeguarded and watched from one end of the line to the other."

Room of Sacred Associations.

[Human Life:] "It ain't everybody I'd put to sleep in this room," said old Mrs. Jinks to the fastidious and extremely nervous young minister who was spending his first night at her house. "This here room is full of sacred associations to me," she went on. "My first husband died in that bed with his head on them very pillers, and poor Mr. Jinks died sittin' right in that very chair there in the corner. Sometimes when I come into the room in the dark I think I see him sittin' there still. My own father died layin' right on that lounge under the winder. Poor pa! He was a Speerituallist, and he allus said he'd appear in this room again after he died; and sometimes I'm foolish enough to look for him. If you should see anything of him tonight, you'd better not tell me, or it'd be a sign there was something in Speerituallism, and I hate to think that. My son by my first man fell dead of heart disease right where you stand. He was a doctor, and there's two whole skeletons in that closet that belonged to him, and half a dozen skulls in that lower drawer. Well, good night, and pleasant dreams."

Battle Stories of The Civil War

CL.

October 1, 1861—Jefferson Davis, in a Council of War Held at Fairfax Courthouse, Va., Disapproved a Plan Submitted by His Generals for an Invasion of the North by the Army That Had Won the Battle of Bull Run— A Significant Meeting.

[Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.]

FIFTY years ago today Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederate States, met three of his generals—Joseph E. Johnston, G. T. Beauregard and Gustavus W. Smith—in a council of war at Fairfax Courthouse, Va.

It was a significant meeting, having a direct and fateful influence on the course of the war. The three generals, tired of the inaction of the Confederate army that had followed the battle of Bull Run, and fearful of the consequences if the enemy were permitted undisturbed to recruit and drill an enormous army at Washington, proposed a radical plan of campaign that involved the movement of their entire force across the Potomac to the rear of Washington; the fighting, if need be, of one or more decisive battles there, and the possible crossing of Maryland to its northern border.

The plan was not unlike that Gen. Lee was to follow two years later, when the high tide of the Confederacy was reached in the mighty battle at Gettysburg; but it differed in respect to the number of men thought necessary. Sixty thousand, the generals believed, would be sufficient to accomplish their end. Their plan was for a quick dash and a short, sharp campaign, which was expected to end in victory before the enemy could employ effectively his army of raw recruits, which was believed to be "little better than an armed mob."

President Davis dismissed the plan on the ground that he could not spare enough men from other points in the south to bring the Virginia army up to the strength required by the generals, and because he had no guns with which to arm recruits.

In the light of events the importance of the decision required of the Confederate President is clear. Gen. McClellan could have brought into the field three men for every one the invaders could have put across the Potomac. His would have been the advantage of short lines of communication with his base, while their lines would have constantly lengthened as they advanced.

Time would seem to show, therefore, that the Fabian policy of President Davis was the wiser. The war might have ended through such a dash as the generals proposed, but in the unprepared condition of their army, the hazardous nature of the enterprise and the superiority in numbers and in supplies of the enemy, the physical odds would have been vastly against them.

Reasons for Conference.

The causes that led to the conference are shown in the offical records. On September 24 Gen. Johnston, commanding the Confederate army then lying in a line about six miles long in the country back of the Potomac, with his center near Fairfax Courthouse, wrote the secretary of war at Richmond, "It is now necessary to decide definitely whether we are to advance or fall back to a more defensible line," stating that it was important that either the President, the Secretary, or some one representing the latter, should here upon the ground confer with me in regard to this all-important question."

Gen. Johnston added: "Thus far the numbers and condition of this army have at no time justified our assuming the offensive. To do so, would require more men and munitions." His present position, he stated, had been taken with a view to getting the troops out of the unhealthy valley of Bull Run, and "to be ready to turn the enemy's position and advance into Maryland whenever the strength of this army would justify it."

Jefferson Davis's answer to this report was a journey to Fairfax Courthouse. He arrived at headquarters there on the afternoon of September 30. As he was not on cordial terms with the commanding general he went to the headquarters of Gen. Beauregard. Here Gen. Johnston and Gen. Smith called to pay their respects. No official subjects of importance were discussed, but the President appointed eight the next evening as the hour for a council of war.

Davis's Disappointment.

No minutes were kept of the conference, but an account of it was subsequently written by Gen. Smith and signed by Generals Johnston and Beauregard. From this it is possible to obtain an outline of the proceedings.

"Various matters of detail were introduced by the President and talked over between himself and the two senior generals," writes Gen. Smith, who did not take part in this conversation, as he had but recently joined the forces.

"Jefferson Davis has left a record of some of his thoughts at this time. He was disappointed to find the army not much larger and in little better condition than when the battle of July 21, was fought. This may have influenced him to delay, by discussion of detail, the question that must be debated, that of a forward movement.

"The generals with whom he held council were, like himself, veterans of the Mexican war, graduates of West Point, experienced soldiers. There was no groping for light on military questions with Davis as there must be with Lincoln, who had been all his life a lawyer.

"Therefore, when Gen. Smith, "perhaps with some abruptness," he writes, brought up the main question by saying, "Mr. President, is it not possible to put this army in condition to assume the offensive?" Davis could well have anticipated his next words, which were to the effect that it was "a matter of vital importance, upon which the success or failure of our cause might depend."

Feared Winter of Inaction.

The discussion that followed was described in the account of the generals as follows:

"It was clearly stated and agreed to that the military force of the Confederate States was at the highest point it could attain without arms from abroad; that the portion of this particular army present for duty was in the finest fighting condition; that if kept inactive it must retrograde immensely in every respect during the winter, the effect of which was foreseen and dreaded by us all. The enemy was daily increasing in number, arms, discipline and efficiency. We looked forward to a sad state of things at the opening of the spring campaign.

"These and other points being agreed upon without argument, it was asked: 'Mr. President, is it not possible to increase the effective strength of this army, and put us in condition to cross the Potomac and carry the war into the enemy's country? Can you not by stripping other points to the last they will bear, and even risking defeat at all other places, put us in condition to move forward? Success here at this time saves everything; defeat here loses all.'"

The situation in Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee was next discussed.

It being agreed that the force in Virginia was not sufficient to cross the Potomac, President Davis asked Gen. Smith how many men he thought would be required for such a movement.

"I answered," writes Gen. Smith, "'50,000 effective, seasoned soldiers,' explaining that by seasoned soldiers I meant such men as we had here present for duty."

Gen. Johnstone and Gen. Beauregard both said that a force of 50,000 such men would be necessary, and that this force would require large additional transportation and munitions of war, the supplies here being entirely inadequate for an active campaign in the enemy's country even with our present force."

Want of Arms.

There was some debate on the chances of success in a forward movement, and the question of reinforcements was taken up.

President Davis expressed surprise and regret at the small number of surplus arms the army had (about 2500.) His auditors thought "he spoke bitterly of this disappointment."

"He then stated," writes Gen. Smith, "that at that time no reinforcements could be furnished this army of the character asked for, and that the most that could be done would be to furnish recruits to take the surplus arms in store here; that the whole country was demanding protection at his hands and praying for arms and troops for defense. He had long been expecting arms from abroad, but had been disappointed; he still hoped to get them, but had no positive assurance that they would be received at all. The manufacture of arms in the Confederate States was as yet undeveloped to any considerable extent. Want of arms was the great difficulty; he could not take any troops from the points named, and without arms from abroad could not reinforce this army. He expressed regret, and seemed to feel deeply, as did every one present."

The generals evidently did not know that a cargo of arms, on the steamer Bermuda, had arrived at Savannah, September 16, there being about 6500 modern English rifles among them. President Davis possibly thought it not wise to mention them in the discussion of a plan he did not feel himself free to aid to the extent the generals wished.

That a spirit of desperation at times ruled the generals in the council appears from this statement by Gen. Smith:

"It was felt it might be better to run the risk of almost certain destruction fighting on the other side of the Potomac rather than see the gradual dying out and deterioration of the army during the winter, at the end of which the term of enlistment of half the force would expire."

The generals could not see, as Mr. Davis saw, from his broader view of the entire field of war, that Tennessee was soon to become the nerve center of the struggle, that so long as it was not attacked, the army in Virginia might do worse than to remain inactive, pending a decisive battle in that State.

However, he fell in with the proposal to fight beyond the Potomac to the degree of suggesting that a column might be sent to ford the river above Washington and attack Gen. N. E. Bank's division, headquarters of which were at Darnestown, Md., or that one might cross the river below Alexandria by steamer, and attack the brigade of Gen. Daniel Sickles, who held the Maryland shore below Washington.

Mr. Davis had with him a drawing made by a military engineer, of the great falls of the Potomac, showing how a crossing could be effected there.

The generals disapproved both these plans, and of the latter declared that with the Potomac, here a mile and a half wide, patrolled by Federal gunboats, such a plan did not offer prospects of success.

Subsequently Gen. Smith wrote of it as a wild project, that would have proven suicidal.

A Historic Quarrel.

Human as well as historic interest attaches to the Fairfax courthouse council, from the fact that it served to open a breach—already begun in the case of Johnston and Beauregard—between Jefferson Davis and the three generals who conferred with him.

After the conference rumor was persistent in Richmond that the generals were responsible for the inaction of the army. Therefore, on January 31, 1862, Gen. Smith drew up the record of the meeting already mentioned, which Gens. Beauregard and Johnston signed with him.

This paper they retained "for their own protection." Many years afterward it found its way into the war records of the Union and Confederate armies, where the student of history may find it (series 1, vol. 5, p. 884.) Twenty years after the war this paper came to the eye of Jefferson Davis, and he bitterly assailed many of the statements made in it, in his "Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government."

To this arraignment Gen. Smith responded with equal bitterness in a book called "Confederate War Papers," published in 1884. Gen. Johnston's "Narrative of Military Operations," published in 1874, agree with Gen. Smith, while Alfred Roman's life of Gen. Beauregard, published in 1883, analyses the statements of Mr. Davis, saying "they burst as bubbles when confronted with the true facts of the case."

This historic quarrel turned on whether the generals or President Davis was responsible for the negative result of the conference, and the winter's inaction of the army, which was shortly withdrawn toward Manassas, with its center resting on Centerville.

The points of contention—whether 10,000 or 30,000 more effective troops would have been required; whether or not "seasoned" troops were asked for; whether or not the generals in rejecting Mr. Davis's plans for expeditions across the Potomac assumed responsibility for the inaction of the army—are immaterial after fifty years. The historic interest in the quarrel lies in the fact that it was allowed to develop at all, between men charged with such desperate responsibilities as Jefferson Davis and his generals, and in the illustration it affords of the ease with which sincere and earnest characters can sometimes fall out most bitterly over the details of a common cause.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic acts scientifically, destroying the germs which it penetrates to the roots of the hair, are usually responsible for baldness, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not gum nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our endorsement to Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. WINERY MEN IN A FIGHT.

Advance on Grapes Made By Independents Met by Sharp Cut in Price of Wines.

DINUBA, Sept. 30.—War is on between the independent and the association wineries, an advance of $1 per ton in the price to be paid for wine grapes, which was made by the independents, being answered by a cut of 1 cents per gallon in the price of port on the part of the association.

It is stated that no cut is to be made in prices of wines which the associations have in their cellars and which are not laid down by the independents, but that the price of port, which is the chief wine in stock in all cellars, is to be put down to a price which will squeeze out all the profits from wine made from the higher-priced grapes. The craft in this action can be better appreciated when it is understood that the greater tonnage of the association grapes were bought on contract at the lower price.

In a circular which is being sent out to the eastern wholesalers, it is stated that a new brandy has been produced fro mthe valley muscat grapes, which approaches if it does not equal the very finest French brandy, which comes in fancy bottles with fancy labels and at a fancy price.

This brandy, the circular states, requires extreme care in its manufacture and is distilled from wine which has been carefully fermented without the pomace, resulting in a product which is absolutely free from all objectionable volatile acids. No artificial colorings, no decoctions of oak or any artificial ageing or coloring is needed to make the brandy equal to the best of the French liquors and it is predicted that it will be produced at a figure which will drive the artificial goods, called "compounds" under the pure food law, from the eastern market.

Size of the Oceans.

[Scientific American:] The Pacific Ocean covers 65,000,000 square miles; the Atlantic, 30,000,000, and the Indian Ocean, Arctic and Antarctic Oceans, 42,000,000. To stow away the contents of the Pacific it would be necessary to fill a tank one mile long, one mile wide and one mile deep, every day for 440 years. Put in figures the Pacific holds in weight 348,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons. The Atlantic averages a depth of not quite three miles. Its waters weigh 325,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons, and a tank to contain them would have each of its sides 43 miles long. The figures of the other oceans are in the same startling proportions. It would take all the sea water in the world 2,000,000 years to flow over Niagara.

His Only Way.

[The Argonaut:] On one occasion, Gov. "Dick" Oglesby went down to Joliet to inspect the State prison, and in one of the cells he found a very ugly man. "How did you get in here?" asked Oglesby. "Abduction," was the reply; "I tried to run off with a girl, and they caught me." "I'll pardon you as soon as I get back to Springfield," said the Governor; "I don't see how you could expect to get a wife in any other way."

SEPTEMBER BROKE RECORDS; NOW FOR GREATER MONTH.

Contest Closing to Be Announced Very Soon—Every Incentive Is to Be Offered for an Effective and Spectacular Wind-up—This Will Be the Greatest Newspaper Contest Ever Held Anywhere.

OFFICE HOURS.

The Contest Manager will be at his desk each day from 10 a.m. to 12 m., and from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Contestants are requested to have their visits conform to these hours, which the Contest Manager desires to devote to them and their interests.

Just because we are going to pay commissions on all new business for thirty days previous to the close of the Greater Contest is no reason why contestants should withhold any of their points, for these commissions will be given only upon subscriptions which are paid into the office after the date upon which this goes into effect. Anything that you may secure between now and the thirty-day announcement of our closing will draw no commissions whatsoever, but will simply go to your credit to increase your score or perhaps make a change in your standing.

As predicted, September was the banner month thus far in the contest and with the end not very far off, October ought to be as big as all the other months put together. It is up to the contestants to do their utmost to make this contest a record-breaker, and, if the same character of work is done from now on until the finish that has been done up to date, this contest will have anything ever held beaten a mile.
